

Fifth, the Congress speaks with 535 mixed voices, hardly a Christmas hymn, the administration but one.

Sixth, repeating the balanced budget mantra does not cause the public to go into a trance. They are awake and aware—

Seventh, Republicans trying to undo the shutdown they caused on a piecemeal basis to get out the checks on a reasonable basis is seen as and is political posturing.

Eighth, paying government workers for not working when they want to work is a syllogism that has a faulty premise. You fail the logic test.

Ninth, when the Republicans are 3 months late doing their job, it is best not to call attention to it.

Finally, with a Speaker with a name like GINGRICH, it sounds too much like "Grinch," not a warm, fuzzy image of Boys' Town but rather the Medicare withering on the vine image persists.

I think we have to understand the congressional responsibility and realize we ought to get on with our work and pass a CR and a reasonable budget on their merits—not on shutting down the Federal Government.

LET US GET PAST THE BLAME GAME

(Mr. SCHIFF asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Speaker, in response to the last speaker, I would like to say two things: First, the government is in a partial shutdown as much because the President of the United States vetoed three appropriations bills as because Congress has not passed three other legislative appropriations bills. If the President had signed the three appropriation bills he was given by the Congress the national monuments that I see on the news every night would, in fact, be open today.

I think it is time to get past the blame game. That brings me to my other point. The last speaker criticized the Republican Budget Reconciliation Act, the Republican 7-year balanced budget plan.

I do not agree with all provisions of that act. But where is the alternative? The President of the United States could make a good-faith effort by putting forth his proposed 7-year balanced budget, evaluated by the Congressional Budget Office, as we agreed in the past 1 month, to show where his priorities are. This way, we have two budgets to compare with each other.

In conclusion, I want to say if the President puts forth such a budget, I will support a continuing resolution for negotiating time.

SHUTTING GOVERNMENT DOWN IRRESPONSIBLY

(Mr. DOGGETT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, if this afternoon our Republican colleagues were to pile up next to the Capitol dome 1 billion $1 bills and set them afire, they would have accomplished the same thing they have with two stunts closing down the Government: The "cry baby" stunt that closed it down in November and now another one that costs us $40 million of taxpayer money a day for absolutely nothing, nothing more than burning those 1 billion $1 bills.

But if you came to Washington hoping to see our national cemetery, hoping as a group from the Lockerbie victims yesterday to lay some flowers in Arlington Cemetery next to the victims, you would find it slammed shut, exactly like our veterans are going to find their checks slammed shut and not present when January comes around, like millions of children across this country will not find the money there to buy the food they need, because of the irresponsible act of shutting this Government down and making the taxpayers pay for this foolishness.

Mr. Speaker, it is outrageous for these people to sneak away this afternoon instead of standing here and doing their job for the American people.

SMALL BUSINESS NOT A SPECIAL INTEREST

(Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, how many times have we heard President Clinton claim that he is for small business? Yet he vetoed the Balanced Budget Act.

The fact is our balanced budget contained real incentives to help small businesses and to promote economic growth. It increased the health insurance deduction for the self-employed to promote private health-care coverage. It provided estate tax relief to ensure that family-owned businesses will not be forced out of business simply because they cannot pay their estate taxes. It allowed small businesses to expense a greater amount of equipment purchases, thus making additional capital available for business expansion. It cut the capital gains tax rate to allow small businesses to keep more of what they earn to expand and create new jobs.

Mr. Speaker, small businesses employ over half of the entire work force and create the vast majority of new jobs. Relieving the tax burden on America's small businesses and encouraging economic growth is not a giveaway for the wealthy and the special interests. If President Clinton truly supports small business, he would have signed our balanced budget. Small business is not a special interest in America. Small business is America.

MEDIGAP PREMIUMS TO RISE

(Mr. KLINK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KLINK. Mr. Speaker, as one of my colleagues on the Democratic side mentioned a few moments ago, it is odd that all this discussion about a balanced budget is occurring when in fact the deficit will begin to go up for the first time in 3 years.

With no Republican votes, we voted back in 1993 to lower the deficit 3 consecutive years. Democrats have taken proactive action, but the Republicans want to play the game. Those of you who ever watched the Popeye cartoons, there was a character called Wimpy who said, "I will gladly pay you Tuesday for a hamburger today." The Republicans say we will gladly balance the budget in 2002 if you give us credit in 1995. They say they are not cutting Medicare. We say they are.

Who is right? the marketplace says we are right, because the insurance companies have set big increases on Medigap premiums, 30 percent, because they will not be covering it. More elderly people will be going into the program, less money will be there, and Medigap insurance rates across this Nation for senior citizens are going up 30 percent. The marketplace knows who is right, and it is not the Republican majority.

OPERATION EAGLE

(Mr. SANFORD asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SANFORD. Mr. Speaker, this holiday season, I want to pay special tribute to those in the military who will be far from their family and friends. I also want to pass on a way that we can all thank them.

For the last 12 years, Bill Herrmann of Ladson, SC, has directed Operation: Eagle, which encourages people to send cards and letters to overseas service men and women. Through his efforts, thousands of cards and letters have been delivered to those who might otherwise feel alone and far from home this holiday season. This season, Operation: Eagle is concentrating on serving military personnel in and around Bosnia.

I encourage everyone to send cards and letters to this address: ATTN: Any Soldier, Task Force Eagle, APO AE 09135.

This is the least that we can do to thank service men and women for their sacrifices.

NEVER BEFORE SUCH A CRISIS IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

(Ms. NORTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)
