submitted the following

R E P O R T

[To accompany H.R. 65]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Natural Resources, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 65) to provide for the recognition of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon with an amendment and recommend that the bill as amended do pass.

The amendment is as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Lumbee Recognition Act”.

SEC. 2. PREAMBLE.

(3) By adding at the end the following new clauses:

“Whereas the Lumbee Indians of Robeson and adjoining counties in North Carolina are descendants of coastal North Carolina Indian tribes, principally Cheraw, and have remained a distinct Indian community since the time of contact with white settlers;

“Whereas since 1885 the State of North Carolina has recognized the Lumbee Indians as an Indian tribe;

“Whereas in 1956 the Congress of the United States acknowledged the Lumbee Indians as an Indian tribe, but withheld from the Lumbee Tribe the benefits, privileges and immunities to which the Tribe and its members otherwise would have been entitled by virtue of the Tribe’s status as a federally recognized tribe; and

“Whereas the Congress finds that the Lumbee Indians should now be entitled to full Federal recognition of their status as an Indian tribe and that the benefits, privileges and immunities that accompany such status should be accorded to the Lumbee Tribe: Now, therefore,”.

SEC. 3. FEDERAL RECOGNITION.

The Act of June 7, 1956 (70 Stat. 254), is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the last sentence of the first section.

(2) By striking section 2 and inserting the following new sections:

“SEC. 2. (a) Federal recognition is hereby extended to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, as designated as petitioner number 65 by the Office of Federal Acknowledgement. All laws and regulations of the United States of general application to Indians and Indian tribes shall apply to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina and its members.

“(b) Notwithstanding the first section, any group of Indians in Robeson and adjoining counties, North Carolina, whose members are not enrolled in the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina as determined under section 3(c), may petition under part 83 of title 25 of the Code of Federal Regulations for acknowledgement of tribal existence.

“SEC. 3. (a) The Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina and its members shall be eligible for all services and benefits provided to Indians because of their status as members of a federally recognized tribe. For the purposes of the delivery of such services, those members of the Tribe residing in Robeson, Cumberland, Hoke, and Scotland counties in North Carolina shall be deemed to be residing on or near an Indian reservation.

“(b) Upon verification by the Secretary of the Interior of a tribal roll under subsection (c), the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall develop, in consultation with the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, a determination of needs and budget to provide the services to which members of the Tribe are eligible. The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall each submit a written statement of such needs and budget to Congress after the tribal roll is verified.

“(c) For purposes of the delivery of Federal services, the tribal roll in effect on the date of the enactment of this section shall, subject to verification by the Secretary of the Interior, define the service population of the Tribe. The Secretary’s verification shall be limited to confirming compliance with the membership criteria set out in the Tribe’s constitution adopted on November 11, 2000, which verification shall be completed not less than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this section.

“SEC. 4. (a) Fee lands which the Tribe seeks to convey to the United States to be held in trust shall be treated by the Secretary of the Interior as ‘on-reservation’ trust acquisitions under part 151 of title 25 of the Code of Federal Regulations (or a successor regulation) if such lands are located within Robeson County, North Carolina.

“(b) The tribe may not conduct gaming activities as a matter of claimed inherent authority or under the authority of any Federal law, including the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (25 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.) or under any regulations thereunder promulgated by the Secretary or the National Indian Gaming Commission.

“SEC. 5. (a) The State of North Carolina shall exercise jurisdiction over—

“(b) The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to accept on behalf of the United States, after consulting with the Attorney General of the United States any transfer by the State of North Carolina to the United States of any portion of the jurisdiction of the State of North Carolina described in paragraph (1) pursuant to an agreement between the Lumbee Tribe and the State of North Carolina. Such transfer of jurisdiction may not take effect until 2 years after the effective date of the agreement.

“(c) The provisions of this subsection shall not affect the application of section 109 of the Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978 (25 U.S.C. 1919).

“SEC. 6. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out this Act.”

PURPOSE OF THE LEGISLATION

The purpose of H.R. 65 is to provide for the recognition of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, and for other purposes.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The issue of the status of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina (the 'Tribe') comes to the Committee with a voluminous congressional and administrative record. The tribe first sought Federal recognition in a petition submitted to Congress in 1888. Congress referred the petition to the Department of the Interior. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs responded in 1890 as follows: "While I regret exceedingly that the provisions made by the State of North Carolina are entirely inadequate, I find it quite impractical to render any assistance at this time. So long as the immediate wards of the Government are so insufficiently provided for, I do not see how I can consistently render any assistance to the Croatans, or any other civilized tribes."

Beginning in 1899, numerous bills have been introduced in Congress to recognize the Tribe.¹ Hearings were held and reports filed on several of these bills.² In addition, Congress requested and obtained several reports from the Department of the Interior on the Tribe's history and status.³ These hearings and studies consistently concluded that the Lumbees were a distinct, self-governing Indian community, descended from Siouan speaking tribes, principally the Cheraw. The various bills to recognize the Tribe failed generally due to the opposition of the Department of the Interior. The Department's opposition was typically based on either the cost of providing services to the Lumbee or the fact that recognition ran counter to the prevailing Federal Indian policy, but not on questions related to the Tribe's Indian ancestry or tribal governmental status. For example, the 1956 Lumbee Act was passed during a period of Federal Indian policy known as the Termination Era, during which Congress terminated its relationship with 109 Indian nations.

LUMBEE ANCESTRY

The evidence establishes that the Tribe descends from the historic Cheraw and related Siouan-speaking tribes. Historically, the Cheraw were located on Drowning Creek in North Carolina. Drowning Creek was renamed the Lumber River by the State of North Carolina in 1809. The ancestors of the modern day Lumbee Tribe have been located on and around Drowning Creek/Lumber River ever since the first contact with Europeans in the early 1700s. Modern day Lumbee Indians share the same distinctive surnames as the historic Cheraw Tribe, i.e., Locklear, Chavis, Groom and others.

Because of the precarious position of Indians in the early 1800s due to the removal of many tribes to Oklahoma, the Indians of Robeson County hid their Indian identity. However, incidents during and after the Civil War showed much activity in the Indian community, including recognition by local governmental authorities of this community as an Indian community.

Congress' deliberations on the Tribe's history produced authoritative reports by the Department of the Interior. In 1914, Special Indian Agent O.M. McPherson, sent to investigate the history and condition of the tribe, concluded that the tribe was descended from the Cheraw Tribe. In 1934, the Department expressed to Congress, based upon a report by the eminent John R. Swanton of the Bureau of Ethnology, that the Lumbees descend from the Cheraw and related Siouan speaking tribes of coastal North Carolina. This conclusion has since been corroborated by leading historians in the field, including Dr. William Sturtevant, editor in chief of the Smithsonian Institution's Handbook of North American Indians and Dr. James Merrell, professor of colonial history at Vassar College. Dr. Jack Campisi, the tribe's ethnohistorian who testified before the Committee, also confirmed the Cheraw origins of the Lumbee.

LUMBEE SCHOOL

In 1885, the State of North Carolina recognized the tribe and established a separate school system for Lumbee children, one that the tribe itself ran. Enrollment in the school was restricted to Lumbee children who could demonstrate Lumbee descent four generations back, or into the 1770's. Lumbee tribal leaders were authorized to determine eligibility to enroll in the school. These enrollment records, along with Federal census records, form the base roll from which all present day tribal members must demonstrate descent. On March 26, 1913, the State's Attorney General Bickett issued an opinion that the county board of education could overrule tribal decisions in the Lumbee schools. Lumbee tribal leaders objected to this infringement on their independence. Under pressure from the Lumbee leadership, the State of North Carolina enacted legislation subsequently setting aside the Attorney General's opinion. The Indian Normal School established by the State in 1888 to train Lumbee teachers for the Tribe's school system has been in continuous operation and is today the University of North Carolina at Pembroke.

STATE RECOGNITION AND NAME CHANGES

In its recognition acts, the State of North Carolina imposed various names on the Tribe, based on the representations of local historians and members of the legislature regarding the Tribe's history. These included Croatan [1885 to 1911], Indians of Robeson County [1911 to 1913], Cherokee Indians of Robeson County [1913-1953], and finally Lumbee Indians [1953 to present]. In the early 1950s, the Tribe became dissatisfied with its name under state law. Under pressure from the Tribe, the state authorized the Tribe to conduct a referendum on its name. In 1951, by a margin of 2,169 to 35, the Robeson County Indians voted to adopt the name “Lumbee Indians of North Carolina.” The General Assembly of North Carolina passed a bill in 1953 designating them as “Lumbee Indians of North Carolina” and the State continues to recognize the Tribe by this name. This was the only opportunity the Tribe had to name itself rather than have a name foisted upon them from the State.

LUMBEE ACT 1956

As it had in the past, the Tribe in 1955 sought Federal recognition based on the recently amended state law. Again, the Department opposed the bill and recommended that Congress amend the bill by denying eligibility for the benefits and services available to Indians because of their status as Indians, consistent with the then-prevailing Federal Indian policy of termination. This amended bill was enacted by Congress in 1956, Pub. L. 84-570, Act of June 7, 1956, 70 Stat. 254. Thus, Congress simultaneously acknowledged the Lumbee Indians but effectively terminated the Tribe by denying them Federal Indian services and benefits.

FEDERAL ACKNOWLEDGMENT PROCESS

Pursuant to the Department’s regulations, the Lumbee Tribe prepared an extensive petition for Federal acknowledgment. The petition was submitted by the tribe on December 17, 1987. It consists of a two volume narrative report, one and one-half file boxes of documentary evidence and a 16 volume membership roll. There is a consistent historical record of the presence of the Lumbees and of tribal activity, but during certain periods the documentation is sporadic. Dr. Jack Campisi, who is the principal author of the Lumbee petition, explained that non-Indian settlement around the Lumbee community occurred relatively late, circa 1830, so that no literate individuals or organized governments were present continuously before that time to record tribal activity. The Committee has been advised that the tribe has exhausted all research avenues and that the documentation before the Committee and the Department of the Interior is all that exists. In the end, the Department of the Interior informed the Tribe that it was ineligible to participate in the Federal Acknowledgment Process because Congress has terminated its relationship with the Tribe, therefore, only Congress could restore the relationship.

PROBLEMS WITH THE FEDERAL ACKNOWLEDGMENT PROCESS

It is also noteworthy that the administrative acknowledgment process has been criticized by the Congress and tribes. This Committee has conducted many oversight hearings on the administrative process and found it to be expensive, inordinately lengthy and too heavily dependent upon formal documents on Indian tribes even though such documents do not exist or were not generated due to a variety of historic circumstances. Given the nature of the process, it is very conceivable that a legitimate Indian tribe could be denied recognition administratively for reasons beyond its control if it could not produce the degree and detail of documentation required by the Department. The Committee believes that the Lumbee Tribe may be such a tribe.

CONGRESSIONAL AUTHORITY

It is clear that in some cases, recognition of an Indian tribe is a matter that should be left for the Congress to address. Congress plainly has the constitutional authority to recognize Indian tribes. In fact, the overwhelming majority of Federally recognized Indian tribes were recognized by Congress either through treaty or statute. The present administrative process was established under general authority delegated by the Congress to the Department of the Interior, but there is no specific statutory authority for the process. In other words, the process is wholly administrative in origin. Obviously, Congress is not bound by those regulations in determining whether to recognize a particular Indian tribe. Especially where the Department has so often analyzed a tribe in the past, Congress can take those past department determinations and the general view of anthropologists into account. The record here is adequate for a congressional determination and the circumstances support the appropriateness of recognition legislation.

MEMBERSHIP AND GOVERNING STRUCTURE

Approximately 53,000 Lumbee Indians are enrolled in the Lumbee Tribe. Eligibility for tribal enrollment is limited to persons who were identified as Indian on source documents from the early 1900s including the 1900 and 1910 Federal census, or who are determined by an Elders' Review Committee to be Indian, and the direct descendants of such persons. The Lumbee Indians have never had a reservation or received services from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) or the Indian Health Service (IHS) though they are eligible for and do receive funds from other Federal Indian programs because of their recognition by the State. The Lumbee Regional Development Association Inc. (LRDA) is presently the formal representative of the Lumbee Indians. LRDA is a non-profit corporation organized in 1968, with an all Lumbee Board of Directors who are elected directly by the communities that comprise the Lumbee Tribe. The Board functions much like a tribal council and in 1984 was formally designated as the interim tribal council by a tribal referendum. In summary, the historical record is persuasive and compelling that for the last 200 years the Lumbees have functioned as an Indian tribe and have been recognized as such by State and local authorities.

GAMING

The Lumbee tribe agreed to a prohibition on gaming and have repeatedly stated that they have no intention of pursuing gaming at this time. Accordingly, the tribe is prohibited from conducting, licensing, or regulating gaming pursuant to any inherent authority they may possess, the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, or any other Federal law.

COMMITTEE ACTION

H.R. 65 was introduced on January 4, 2007 by Rep. Mike McIntyre (D-NC). The bill was referred to the Committee on Natural Resources. The bill has 207 cosponsors and there is a companion bill, S. 333, in the Senate. On April 18, 2007, the Committee on Natural Resources held a hearing on H.R. 65. The Committee received testimony from the Hon. Elizabeth Dole (R-NC); the Hon. Mike McIntyre (D-NC); the Hon. Robin Hayes (R-NC); the Hon. Carl Artman, Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, Bureau of Indian Affairs; Chairman Jimmy Goins, Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, accompanied by Arlinda Locklear, Attorney for Lumbee Tribe; Principal Chief Michelle Hicks, Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians; Mr. Kelvin Samson, Indiana University; and Dr. Jack Campisi, Anthropologist. On April 25, 2007, the Committee met to consider the bill. Chairman Rahall (D-WV) offered an en bloc amendment to clarify the group that will receive Federal recognition, to delete the requirement that certain information be submitted as part of the President's budget, and to extend the time period in which the Department has to verify the tribal roll from 1 year to 2 years. It was adopted by voice vote. Representative Shuler (D-NC) offered an amendment to make the Lumbee Tribe eligible for the Federal Acknowledgment Process. It was not adopted by voice vote. Representative Duncan (R-TN) offered an amendment to prohibit gaming by the tribe. It was adopted by voice vote. The bill, as amended, was then ordered favorably reported to the House of Representatives by a rollcall vote of 24 to 7, as follows:

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title

Section 1 provides the short title of the bill as the “Lumbee Recognition Act.”

Section 2. Preamble

Section 2 adds additional clauses finding that the Lumbee Indians are descendants of coastal North Carolina Indians; that the State of North Carolina has recognized the Lumbees since 1885; that Congress acknowledged the Lumbee Indians as an Indian tribe in 1956 but withheld the benefits, privileges and immunities that normally extend to Indians because of their status as Indians; and that Congress now finds that the full benefits, privileges, and immunities should be extended to the Lumbee Tribe.

Section 3. Federal recognition

Section 3 deletes the prohibition in the 1956 Act of eligibility for Federal services and benefits and instead extends Federal recognition to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, as designated Petitioner number 65 by the Office of Federal Acknowledgment. All Federal law and regulations of general applicability to Indians and Indian tribes apply to the Lumbee Tribe and its members. Section 3 also clarifies that any Indians who are not enrolled in the Lumbee Tribe but reside in Robeson and adjoining counties may continue through the Federal Acknowledgment Process as a separate Indian tribe.

All services and benefits provided to Indians because of their status as Indians are extended to the Lumbee Tribe. The Tribe’s service area is specified as 4 counties in North Carolina. The Secretary of the Department of the Interior and the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services are required to consult with the Lumbee Tribe to develop a statement of needs and budget. The statement shall be submitted to Congress.

This section also provides that the tribal roll in effect on the date of enactment shall define the Tribe’s service population. The Secretary of the Department of the Interior shall verify the Tribe’s roll within 2 years after the date of the enactment of this section. Lands in Robeson County to be held in trust for the Secretary shall be considered as “on-reservation” trust acquisitions under part 151 of the Code of Federal Regulations. The State of North Carolina shall exercise civil and criminal jurisdiction over all actions arising on lands held in trust for the Tribe. The State of North Carolina may transfer its civil or criminal jurisdiction to the United States. The application of the Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978 is not affected by this subsection. Finally, this subsection authorizes appropriations in the amount as such sums as are needed.

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Regarding clause 2(b)(1) of rule X and clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Natural Resources’ oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Article I, section 8 of the Constitution of the United States grants Congress the authority to enact this bill.

COMPLIANCE WITH HOUSE RULE XIII

1. Cost of Legislation. Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison by the Committee of the costs which would be incurred in carrying out this bill. However, clause 3(d)(3)(B) of that Rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the Committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

2. Congressional Budget Act. As required by clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, this bill does not contain any new budget authority, spending authority, credit authority, or an increase or decrease in revenues or tax expenditures.

3. General Performance Goals and Objectives. As required by clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII, the general performance goal or objective of this bill is to provide for the recognition of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, and for other purposes.

4. Congressional Budget Office Cost Estimate. Under clause 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 403 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee has received the following cost estimate for this bill from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office:

H.R. 65—Lumbee Recognition Act

Summary: H.R. 65 would provide federal recognition to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. CBO estimates that implementing this legislation would cost the Federal Government $80 million in fiscal year 2008 and about $480 million over the 2008–2012 period, assuming the appropriation of the necessary funds. Enacting H.R. 65 would have no effect on direct spending or revenues.

H.R. 65 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would impose no direct costs on State, local, or tribal governments.

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of H.R. 65 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget functions 450 (community and regional development) and 550 (health).

Basis of estimate: H.R. 65 would provide federal recognition to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. Such recognition would allow the Lumbee to receive funding from various programs administered by the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and the Indian Health Service (IHS). Based on the average expenditures of other Indian tribes, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 65 would cost about $480 million over the 2008–2012 period. Such costs would be subject to appropriation of the necessary funds.

Bureau of Indian Affairs

BIA provides funding to federally recognized Indian tribes for various purposes, including child welfare services, adult care, community development, and general assistance. A portion of this funding (classified in the BIA budget as Tribal Priority Allocations), is awarded solely on the basis of population. Based on information from BIA, CBO expects that the Lumbee Tribe would receive approximately $6 million per year in such funding, based on an estimated service population of 39,700 members. The Lumbee may also receive additional BIA funding based on other needs and characteristics of the tribe.

Assuming the appropriation of the necessary funds, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 65 would cost BIA approximately $16 million in 2008 and $105 million over the 2008–2012 period. This estimate is based on expenditures for other federally recognized tribes located in the eastern United States; the Lumbee Tribe may qualify for more or fewer services than other tribes in the region, thus, the cost to implement this bill is uncertain.

Indian Health Service

H.R. 65 also would make members of the Lumbee Tribe eligible to receive health benefits from IHS. Based on information from IHS, CBO estimates that about 55 percent of tribal members—or about 22,000 people—would receive benefits each year. CBO assumes that the cost to serve those individuals would be similar to funding for current beneficiaries—about $3,200 per individual in 2008. Assuming appropriation of the necessary funds, CBO estimates that IHS benefits for the Lumbee Tribe would cost $64 million in 2008 and $374 million over the 2008–2012 period.

Other Federal Agencies

In addition to BIA and IHS, certain Indian tribes also receive funding from other federal programs within the Departments of Education, Housing and Urban Development, Labor, and Agriculture. Based on their status as a state-recognized tribe, the Lumbee are currently eligible to receive funding from those sources. Thus, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 65 would not add to the cost of those programs.

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: H.R. 65 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA and would impose no direct costs on State, local, or tribal governments.

Estimate prepared by: Federal Costs: Daniel Hoople—Bureau of Indian Affairs. Eric Rollins—Indian Health Service. Impact on State, local, and tribal governments: Marjorie Miller. Impact on the private sector: Amy Petz.

Estimate approved by: Peter H. Fontaine, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

COMPLIANCE WITH PUBLIC LAW 104-4

This bill contains no unfunded mandates.

EARMARK STATEMENT

H.R. 65 does not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9(d), 9(e) or 9(f) of rule XXI.

PREEMPTION OF STATE, LOCAL, OR TRIBAL LAW

This bill is not intended to preempt any State, local, or tribal law.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

ACT OF JUNE 7, 1956

(Chapter 375)

AN ACT Relating to the Lumbee Indians of North Carolina.

Whereas many Indians now living in Robeson and adjoining counties are descendants of that once large and prosperous tribe which occupied the lands along the Lumbee River at the time of the earliest white settlements in that section; [and]

Whereas at the time of their first contacts with the colonists, these Indians were a well-established and distinctive people living in European-type houses in settled towns and communities, owning slaves and livestock, tilling the soil, and practicing many of the arts and crafts of European civilization; [and]

Whereas by reason of tribal legend, coupled with a distinctive appearance and manner of speech and the frequent recurrence among them of family names such as Oxendine, Locklear, Chavis, Drinkwater, Bullard, Lowery, Sampson, and others, also found on the roster of the earliest English settlements, these Indians may, with considerable show of reason, trace their origin to an admixture of colonial blood with certain coastal tribes of Indians; [and]

Whereas these people are naturally and understandably proud of their heritage, and desirous of establishing their social status and preserving their racial history[: Now, therefore,];

Whereas the Lumbee Indians of Robeson and adjoining counties in North Carolina are descendants of coastal North Carolina Indian tribes, principally Cheraw, and have remained a distinct Indian community since the time of contact with white settlers; Whereas since 1885 the State of North Carolina has recognized the Lumbee Indians as an Indian tribe;

Whereas in 1956 the Congress of the United States acknowledged the Lumbee Indians as an Indian tribe, but withheld from the Lumbee Tribe the benefits, privileges and immunities to which the Tribe and its members otherwise would have been entitled by virtue of the Tribe's status as a federally recognized tribe; and

Whereas the Congress finds that the Lumbee Indians should now be entitled to full Federal recognition of their status as an Indian tribe and that the benefits, privileges and immunities that accompany such status should be accorded to the Lumbee Tribe: Now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Indians now residing in Robeson and adjoining counties of North Carolina, originally found by the first white settlers on the Lumbee River in Robeson County, and claiming joint descent from remnants of early American colonists and certain tribes of Indians originally inhabiting the coastal regions of North Carolina, shall, from and after the ratification of this Act, be known and designated as Lumbee Indians of North Carolina and shall continue to enjoy all rights, privileges, and immunities enjoyed by them as citizens of the State of North Carolina and of the United States as they enjoyed before the enactment of this Act, and shall continue to be subject to all the obligations and duties of such citizens under the laws of the State of North Carolina and the United States. [Nothing in this Act shall make such Indians eligible for any services performed by the United States for Indians because of their status as Indians, and none of the statutes of the United States which affect Indians because of their status as Indians shall be applicable to the Lumbee Indians.]

[SEC. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.]

SEC. 2. (a) Federal recognition is hereby extended to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, as designated as petitioner number 65 by the Office of Federal Acknowledgement. All laws and regulations of the United States of general application to Indians and Indian tribes shall apply to the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina and its members.

(b) Notwithstanding the first section, any group of Indians in Robeson and adjoining counties, North Carolina, whose members are not enrolled in the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina as determined under section 3(c), may petition under part 83 of title 25 of the Code of Federal Regulations for acknowledgement of tribal existence.

SEC. 3. (a) The Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina and its members shall be eligible for all services and benefits provided to Indians because of their status as members of a federally recognized tribe. For the purposes of the delivery of such services, those members of the Tribe residing in Robeson, Cumberland, Hoke, and Scotland counties in North Carolina shall be deemed to be residing on or near an Indian reservation.
