

U.S. CAPITOL POLICE AND LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
POLICE MERGER IMPLEMENTATION ACT OF 2007

DECEMBER 4, 2007.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania, from the Committee on House
Administration, submitted the following

R E P O R T

[To accompany H.R. 3690]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on House Administration, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 3690) to provide for the transfer of the Library of Congress police to the United States Capitol Police, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon with an amendment and recommend that the bill as amended do pass.

The amendment (stated in terms of the page and line numbers of the introduced bill) is as follows:

(3) PROHIBITING IMPOSITION OF PROBATIONARY PERIOD.—The Chief of the Capitol Police may not impose a period of probation on any individual who is transferred under this section.

PURPOSE OF THE LEGISLATION

The U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007 (H.R. 3690) would establish a framework and initiate the process of merging the two police agencies as provided for by Section 1015 of Legislative Branch Appropriations Act, 2003 (Public Law 108-7).

BILL SUMMARY

H.R. 3690 would implement the merger plan developed jointly by the Capitol Police (USCP) and the Library of Congress (LoC) and recommended to the Committee. Under the plan, a transition period would extend from the enactment of the bill through October 1, 2009, with the merger completed by that date.

To accomplish that goal, the bill would: (1) establish guidelines for the determination of roles, duties, and retirement eligibility of LoC Police officers and civilian employees; (2) authorize the transfer of property and appropriations related to the LoC Police; (3) expand the definition of U.S. Capitol buildings and grounds to include the LoC buildings and grounds for purposes of law enforcement and the regulation of unlawful activities and use of lands; (4) specify the roles of the Librarian and the Chief of the USCP regarding the design and operation of security systems; and (5) authorize LoC to reimburse the USCP for costs incurred when providing services during a special event or program held at the Library.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

On June 27, 2007, the Committee held a hearing on the implementation plan recommended jointly by the Capitol Police and the Library. The details of the plan were embodied in the bill H.R. 3690 introduced by Chairman Brady and Ranking Minority Member Ehlers on September 27, 2007. On November 7, 2007, the Committee considered H.R. 3690 and ordered it reported favorably to the House with one amendment. No recorded votes were taken during the Committee's consideration of the bill.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR H.R. 3690

The idea of merging the federal law enforcement agencies operating on Capitol Hill has been discussed for many years. Proponents offered two principal rationales for such a merger: better security, and potential savings. Initial discussions included potential mergers of the Capitol Police with the police forces of the Library of Congress, the Government Printing Office and the Supreme Court.

As the perceived level of threat to the Capitol rose after the events of September 11, 2001, and the anthrax attack on Congress the following month, interest focused on merging the LoC Police and USCP because the Library and the Capitol are physically connected through the House office buildings, and will be connected directly after the opening of the Capitol Visitor Center. In 2003 Congress enacted legislation to merge the police agencies in order to create "seamless security" on Capitol Hill.

The 2003 merger legislation, carried in an appropriations act with no hearings in authorizing committees, required the affected agencies to devise an implementation plan subject to congressional approval. An implementation plan developed in the summer of 2003 was estimated to cost $24 million or more, and encountered sundry concerns about how to reconcile the differing missions of the two police forces, one focused on protection from external threats, the other focused on protecting against loss of valuable assets. A Senate merger proposal addressed some of these concerns but left the issue of "collection security" largely unresolved and left older employees uncertain about their fate by requiring their termination. That proposal, added to an appropriations bill (H.R. 5521, 109th Cong.), was dropped from the full-year 2007 continuing resolution enacted in February 2007.

New leadership in the House Administration Committee made completing the merger a top priority, insisting that LoC and USCP develop a plan suitable to both the agencies and appropriate for their employees. In June 2007, the agencies agreed on a plan, which they endorsed during a hearing before the Committee on June 27. The Senate Appropriations Committee added substantially similar language to its fiscal 2008 legislative appropriations bill (S. 1686).

The bill (H.R. 3690) would implement the LoC/USCP merger plan. Under the plan, all LoC police employees (both officers and civilians) would transfer to USCP by September 30, 2009. Transferring LoC officers must meet age and certain qualifications to be established by the USCP Chief; LoC officers who cannot complete 20 years of Federal service by age 60 will be offered USCP civilian jobs. Transferred LoC employees may not suffer loss of pay, rank, grade, accrued leave or compensatory time through transfer, and will earn more generous USCP retirement credit from the transfer date. Since the LoC Police force will be abolished, officers represented by the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) bargaining unit will become part of the USCP FOP bargaining unit, which will resolve through collective bargaining issues such as seniority or other terms and conditions arising from the merger.

The bill transfers law enforcement jurisdiction over the Library buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia to the USCP. The Librarian of Congress will have primary responsibility for the design of security systems, and issue regulations to protect his collections and maintain decorum. Finally, the bill authorizes reimbursement by LoC of USCP costs for special events held at the LoC.

In addition to the support of the Library and USCP, H.R. 3690 has the support of the House Sergeant at Arms, the Honorable Wilson Livingood. Despite its support for the merger at the Committee's June 27 hearing, the Library Fraternal Order of Police has criticized the plan for subjecting transferring Library officers to the Capitol Police mandatory retirement age (currently Library officers face no mandatory retirement). The USCP FOP bargaining unit supports H.R. 3690. Letters from the House Sergeant at Arms, a member of the Capitol Police Board, which makes policy for the Capitol Police; the Librarian of Congress; and the Capitol Police Fraternal Order of Police Lodge follow:

Dear Mr. Brady and Mr. Ehlers:

I would like to officially be on record in support of HR 3690, the legislation entitled "U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007."

As the Committee is aware, this proposed legislation represents certain refinements and clarifications from earlier proposals that address previous concerns by the Capitol Police Board and the United States Capitol Police relative to significant issues involving jurisdiction, labor-management relations, collections security, transfer of liabilities and other obligations, and important personnel transfer issues. To the extent any of these issues have not been resolved to the satisfaction of all, I believe that this measure establishes a systematic mechanism for the USCP and the Library of Congress(LOC) in continued cooperation to work out any outstanding concerns.

Most importantly, however, this legislation is the result of extensive discussions, negotiations, collaborations, and agreement between the interested parties, the USCP and the LOC, with the beneficial guidance and assistance from committee staff and legislative counsel.

Moreover, the passage of such legislation would promote the underlying concept of integrating law enforcement, security, and emergency response resources within the federal legislative branch. It is clear from all available reports and studies resulting from emergencies and disasters such as 9/11 and Katrina that enhanced communication and asset integration are at the cornerstone of any effective law enforcement, security, and emergency response systems. This measure is designed to be a positive response to this well recognized objective.

With this in mind, I commend the efforts of the many individuals who worked tirelessly on this project and I offer the Committee my support for the proposal under consideration.

Thank you for your cooperation in this and other matters. Of course, I remain available for any additional questions of the Committee.

Sincerely,

Wilson Livingood

THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS

September 7, 2007

Dear Mr. Chairman and Mr. Ehlers:

I am writing to express my support for draft legislation providing for the transfer of the Library of Congress police to the United States Capitol Police and to ask respectfully that it be enacted into law.

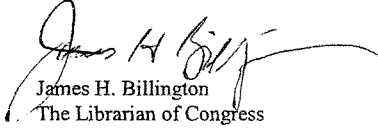

Over the last few weeks staff from the Committee on House Administration, House Legislative Counsel, U.S. Capitol Police, and the Library have met for intensive discussions to refine the draft legislation and to arrive at a consensus on remaining operational issues. We appreciate the assistance of the Committee staff in working with all parties to clarify the legislation and move it forward.

The Library's Chief Operating Officer, Jo Ann Jenkins, testified before the Committee on House Administration at the June 27, 2007, hearing on the police merger, stating that the Library and the Capitol Police are in agreement to complete the merger and achieve the goal of the Congress for seamless security on Capitol Hill. We have forged a productive and collegial working relationship with the Capitol Police, and the draft legislation reflects this. I believe that the Capitol Police have deepened their understanding of our unique institutional needs as custodians of invaluable collections, while we most certainly have gained a better appreciation of their central role in providing security throughout the Capitol complex.

We remain concerned about matters of seniority and probationary status and about the criteria for transferring Library officers. We hope that when the legislation is enacted, the Capitol Police will be mindful of two things that it does not mention, but in which we continue to hold a strong interest: that our transferring officers are treated as equitably as possible; and that the Capitol Police work closely with the police union to appropriately resolve any matters that arise surrounding these issues.

I appreciate the efforts that you and your staff have made in moving the legislation forward to complete the police merger, and I look forward to the Library being one of the beneficiaries of the strong working relationships among all the police who protect the Capitol Complex so ably.

Sincerely,

James H. Billington

Dear Mr. Chairman and Rep. Ehlers:

Thank you for introducing H.R. 3690, the "U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007."

On behalf of the men and women whom I have the honor to represent, I urge passage of the bill. I believe H.R. 3690 resolves the difficult issues involved in merging the Library Police into the Capitol Police in the fairest and best way possible, especially by ensuring that no Library police employee can lose a job or suffer a reduction in pay, rank, grade or leave.

My Capitol Police colleagues and I look forward to completion of the merger and to the safer Capitol complex that will result. I hope H.R. 3690 can become law as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Matt Tighe
Chairman

ANALYSIS OF THE BILL (AS REPORTED)

Section 1. Short title (“The U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007”).

Section 2. The section would transfer Library of Congress Police uniformed and civilian employees. Under this provision, LoC police civilian employees would become civilian employees of the USCP, while members of the LoC police would become either uniformed or civilian employees of the Capitol Police, at the discretion of the Chief of the Capitol Police.

The section would establish eligibility criteria for the transfer of uniformed Library of Congress police employees. This language would include the requirement that any employee transferring to a uniformed position in the USCP be eligible for an immediate retirement by age 60. The employee would also be required to successfully complete training. Those LoC police employees not meeting these criteria would become USCP civilian employees. Determinations made by the Chief regarding a transferring employee’s status, which would not be appealable under this section, are to be made by September 30, 2009.

The section would provide, under specified conditions, a temporary exemption from mandatory separation provisions pertaining to the Capitol Police included in Title 5 of the United States Code. The applicability of these provisions, which require most Capitol Police officers to retire at age 57, would be delayed until the date on which an employee transferring to a noncivilian position on the USCP is eligible for retirement. This exemption would apply only to those Library of Congress Police employees that the Chief determines would be eligible to serve as a member of the USCP. As stated above, the Chief will base this determination in part on the requirement that such an employee be able to retire on or before reaching 60 years of age. Prior creditable service would be included in determining an employee’s retirement eligibility. The bill would authorize the Chief of the Capitol Police to determine the duties of LoC employees transferred to civilian positions in the USCP. The determination of these duties would not be appealable.

The section provides that transfer of employees may not result in the reduction of basic pay, rank, or grade. All leave accrued by an employee of the Library of Congress Police, including annual, sick and compensatory, would be transferred, and its use would be governed by the Capitol Police Board. The bill prohibits the Chief from imposing any period of probation upon any employee transferred through the merger. Labor union representation or collective bargaining agreements applicable to current Library of Congress police and police civilian employees would not be applicable after the transfer to the USCP.

The section stipulates that the act does not affect the authority of the Chief of the Capitol Police to terminate any civilian or uniformed member of the USCP. The Chief would also retain the authority to reassign any employee of the USCP.

Finally, the section specifies the transfer dates for Library of Congress police and civilian employees. Library Police civilian employees would be transferred at the start of the first pay period beginning after September 30, 2008. Library Police officers continuing as Capitol Police officers would transfer at the start of the first pay period beginning after they are determined eligible by the Chief. For Library Police officers who would become Capitol Police civilian employees, the transfer date would be the first pay period after September 30, 2009. This is the date by which the Capitol Police Chief must determine the status for all Library Police employees to be transferred pursuant to the merger.

Section 3. Section 3 would provide for the transfer of property and appropriations associated with any police or civilian employee of the LoC Police. Appropriations would be transferred to either the U.S. Capitol Police “Salaries” or “General Expenses” account, as applicable. The Chief of the USCP and the Librarian of Congress would be directed to conduct a joint review of the items and funds available for transfer.

The section also addresses the effect of the transfer on any procedures available for the consideration of alleged violations of employment laws. It would terminate any procedure available to employees of the Library, while authorizing an individual to initiate procedures applicable to the Capitol Police under the Congressional Accountability Act.

The Chief would be authorized to detail, without reimbursement, members of the Capitol Police to the Library during the transition period. The Memorandum of Understanding between the Library of Congress and the U.S. Capitol Police entered into on December 12, 2004 would be continued, subject to the provisions of the bill. The Librarian, prior to the transfer of employees, would retain the authority to terminate LoC police or police civilian employees. He could also transfer these employees to other positions within the Library.

Section 4. This section would redefine the Capitol Police jurisdiction to include the Library buildings and grounds. It would also repeal the jurisdiction of the Library of Congress police effective October 1, 2009. It would make additional conforming amendments including provisions concerning unlawful activities and use of lands pertaining to the U.S. Capitol buildings and grounds applicable to the Library, although the Librarian would retain certain authorities. References to certain offenses specific to the Library—including, for example, restrictions on the use of Library grounds, injury to Library property, and prosecution for offenses in Library buildings and grounds—would be repealed. It would also add language to the provision authorizing the Library’s Inspector General to conduct and supervise audits and investigations relating to the Library, specifying that this authority does not extend to investigations of the Capitol Police.

Section 5. Section 5 would allow the Librarian of Congress to establish guidelines and regulations regarding control of Library property and collections. The Librarian and the Chief of the USCP would be responsible for the operation of the security systems. The Librarian would have responsibility for the design of security systems, as well as their operation at facilities outside of the District of Columbia, subject to the review and approval of the Chief. The Chief and the Librarian would be required to submit a proposal for complying with these requirements by October 1, 2008, to the Committee on House Administration, the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration, and the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Section 6. Section 6 would clarify how the Capitol Police may be reimbursed for the costs incurred in providing services during a special event or program at the Library. These special events include a limited number of events sponsored by corporations or 501(c)(3) charitable organizations in Library facilities. The bill would amend previous legislation to allow the Librarian to transfer funds deposited in the Library revolving fund by the sponsor to the USCP for services provided in connection with an event. The bill would also authorize the use of funds made available for Library salaries and expenses for this purpose.

Section 7. This section would include conforming provisions that repeal previous legislation providing for the merger, including the provisions contained in the FY2003 and FY2004 Legislative Branch Appropriations Acts. The repeal would be effective October 1, 2009.

Section 8. This section would provide definitions and U.S. Code citations, where applicable, for: (1) an act referenced in the bill; (2) the terms “Library of Congress Police employees” and “Library of Congress Police civilian employee”; and (3) the transition period, which will begin on the date of enactment of the bill and end on September 30, 2009.

MATTERS REQUIRED UNDER THE RULES OF THE HOUSE

Constitutional authority

Clause 3(d)(1) of House Rule XIII requires each committee report on a public bill or joint resolution to include a statement citing the specific constitutional power(s) granted to the Congress on which the Committee relies for enactment of the measure under consideration.

The Committee cites the legislative power broadly granted to Congress under Article I. Since 1828, the Congress has employed the Capitol Police as one element of its exercise of “exclusive jurisdiction over the District constituting seat of Government.” As an exercise of Congress’ exclusive jurisdiction, H.R. 3690 would implement the merger of the Library of Congress Police into the Capitol Police, expanding the latter’s duties to include jurisdiction over Library facilities in the District of Columbia. The Committee finds this legislation within the Congress’ constitutional power under Article I.

Committee votes

Clause 3(b) of House Rule XIII requires the results of each recorded vote on an amendment or motion to report, together with the names of those voting for and against, to be printed in the committee report. No recorded votes were taken during the Committee’s consideration of H.R. 3690.

Congressional Budget Office estimate

Clause 3(c)(3) of House Rules XIII requires the report of a committee on a measure which has been approved by the committee to include a cost estimate prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 403 of the CBA, if timely submitted. The Director submitted the following estimate:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, November 15, 2007.

Hon. ROBERT A. BRADY,
*Chairman, Committee on House Administration,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 3690, the U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Deborah Reis.

Sincerely,

ROBERT A. SUNSHINE
(For Peter R. Orszag, Director).

Enclosure.

H.R. 3690—U.S. Capitol Police and Library of Congress Police Merger Implementation Act of 2007

H.R. 3690 would merge the Library of Congress Police (LOCP) and the U.S. Capitol Police (USCP). Assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts, CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $2 million over the 2008–2010 period and less than $500,000 a year thereafter. We estimate that enacting the bill also would cause small annual increases in both revenues and direct spending, resulting in a net increase in the federal deficit of about $1 million over the 2008–2017 period.

The bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

Under H.R. 3690, about 100 civilian employees and police officers of the LOCP would transfer to the USCP over the next three years. Based on information provided by the LOCP and the USCP and assuming the availability of appropriated funds, CBO estimates that merging the two police forces would cost less than $1 million in each of fiscal years 2008 through 2010, primarily for one-time training expenses and purchases of equipment, weapons, and uniforms. We estimate that annual costs in later years would be less than $500,000.

The transfer of police officers to the USCP retirement system also would entail higher pension benefit costs and employee contributions to pension funds because the Capitol Police have slightly higher pension benefits and contribution rates. CBO estimates that the transfer would increase revenue (from employee retirement contributions) by less than $500,000 per year beginning in 2009 and outlays (for retirement benefits) by a similar amount beginning in 2010. The net increase in the deficit related to these pension changes would total less than $1 million over the 2008–2017 period.

The CBO staff contacts for this estimate are Deborah Reis (for discretionary costs) and David Rafferty (for police pensions). This estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

Federal mandates

Section 423 of the CBA requires a committee report on any public bill or joint resolution that includes a federal mandate to include specific information about such mandates. The Committee states that H.R. 3690 includes no federal mandates.

Preemption clarification

Section 423 of the CBA requires a committee report on any public bill or joint resolution to include a committee statement on the extent to which the measure is intended to preempt state or local law. The Committee states that H.R. 3690 is not intended to preempt any state or local law.

Oversight findings

Clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII requires each committee report to contain oversight findings and recommendations required pursuant to clause 2(b)(1) of House Rule X. The Committee has general oversight responsibility for both the U.S. Capitol Police and the Library of Congress.

In 2003, Congress enacted legislation (Sec. 1015 of the Legislative Branch Appropriations Act, 2003 (Pub. L. 108–7) providing for the merger of the Library of Congress Police into the Capitol Police. In the exercise of its oversight responsibilities, the Committee finds the implementation plan developed by the agencies to be sound. The Committee recommends enactment of H.R. 3690, with one amendment, in order to accomplish the merger objective established in 2003.

Statement of general performance goals and objectives

Clause 3(c)(4) of House Rule XIII requires committee reports to include a statement of general performance goals and objectives. The Committee believes the agencies' plan, as embodied in H.R. 3690 and recommended to the House with one amendment, will yield an efficient implementation of the police merger provided for in 2003.

Congressional "earmarks"

Clause 9 of House Rule XXI requires committee reports on public bills and resolutions to contain an identification of congressional "earmarks," limited tax benefits, limited tariff benefits, and the names of requesting Members. The bill contains no such items either as introduced or as reported to the House.

Congressional Accountability Act applicability

Section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act of 1995 (Pub. L. 104–1) (CAA) requires each report on a public bill or joint resolution relating to terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations to describe the manner in which the legislation apply to the Legislative Branch.

Currently, employment-related claims raised by LoC employees (including LoC police officers) are resolved using the same procedures available to Executive-branch agencies, while the Capitol Police employment-related claims are resolved under the procedures established by the CAA. Transfer of employees from an agency subject to one procedure to one using another procedure raises jurisdictional and other issues potentially complicating efficient resolution of claims arising during the transfer period. The bill provides for termination of certain claims filed by Library employees being merged and authorizes their re-filing under the CAA.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):
