He, his wife, Karen, and their children Sharon, Laura, and Carla, can all be proud of his commitment to improve the quality of life for the residents of Indiana's First Congressional District. Dr. Morgan, like his father, is a true pioneer in his profession.

TRIBUTE TO CALEB RICHTER-TATE

HON. BILL BARRETT

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 5, 1996

Mr. BARRETT of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I have received the following script by Caleb Richter-Tate, a fine young Nebraskan. Caleb is the Nebraska winner for the Voice of Democracy broadcast script-writing contest, conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary. I believe his statement serves as a challenge to all Americans.

ANSWERING AMERICA'S CALL
(By Caleb Richter-Tate)

"Good morning. This is your wake-up call."

When I'm on vacation, it is very enjoyable for me to be awakened by a pleasant-voiced individual on the other end of the phone. If I choose to answer my wake-up call, I'm alerted to the beginning of a new day and I'm awake to see what it has to offer.

Throughout the day our lives are filled with a variety of calls—people call us to breakfast, bells call us to classes, sirens call our attention to misfortune or danger, and telephones call us to relaxation or to business concerns. If we are fortunate, we are able to answer these varied calls. But like the person on vacation, we can only respond to the demands of our various calls if we have first answered our wake-up call.

In a similar manner, every day America sends all of us a wake-up call. If we choose to answer it, we are awake to the demands and challenges of local, state, and national concerns. If we ignore the call, we sleep through events and situations that we are never able to influence simply because we weren't even aware of them.

Early in our nation's history, Americans chose to answer our country's wake-up call. For George Washington, Patrick Henry, and Thomas Jefferson, that call awakened them to the challenges of American independence. Almost a century later, William Tecumseh Sherman, Ulysses S. Grant, and Abraham Lincoln answered the call that summoned them to preserve Americans' unity. And early in the 20th century, Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, and Henry Ford heard and answered the call to industrialize America.

As long as there is an America, she will be issuing wake-up calls to her citizens so that we may answer and rise to the challenges of the day.

As we step toward the 21st century, we need to shake off our sleepy complacency and answer America's present-day call—the call is to educate ourselves, the call is to improve our society, and the call is to reestablish our national morality.

Just as the wake-up call received by a vacationer enables him to begin a day of sight-seeing and adventure, we must answer the call from America that alerts us to the fact that an educated citizenry is crucial for us to remain a world-power in the 21st century.

We must focus efforts on keeping students in school, on providing advanced educational opportunities for those who are qualified, and on harnessing the advances in technology toward the benefit rather than toward the destruction of mankind.

Secondly, we need to answer the call from America reminding us that our society still has problems to be solved. We cannot drift back to sleep and close our eyes to the issues of drug abuse, homelessness, and prejudice. Only if we are wide awake to these problems will we ever have a chance to solving them.

Finally, perhaps the most important wake-up call we can answer is the call from America asking us to reevaluate the condition of our own national morality. Have we become a country of people who care more about the amount of money in our bank accounts than we do about the welfare of our neighbors? Have we become a country of people who spend more money on recreation than we do on charity? And have we become a country of people who credit our successes and stature to ourselves rather than to the God who has given them to us?

For over 200 years citizens of our country have answered America's call to wake-up and respond to whatever challenge has faced us. Again, America calls us. She asks us to waken to the challenges of education, of improving our society, and of reestablishing our national morality.

As a person on vacation choosing to answer or not to answer your wake-up call, you make a decision that affects only you and your plans for the day. But as an American, choosing to answer your country's wake-up call affects all of your fellow citizens not only for today, but perhaps for a lifetime, or perhaps even into that hopeful future we wish to create.

When you receive America's wake-up call, answer it.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 1996

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON-LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 4, 1996

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I speak today to commend the Federal Trade

Commission on its job of protecting the American consumer from unscrupulous businesses and people who would defraud them of their hard earned money. Today, we reauthorize the FTC to continue the good work it has done on behalf of Americans since its creation in 1914.

As many of you know, The Federal Trade Commission [FTC] is an independent agency with a mandate to protect the public against unfair, deceptive, and fraudulent advertising and marketing practices. I believe that everyone agrees that this is one function that the Federal Government has a duty to perform on behalf of the citizens it serves.

The keystone of the American economy is the free enterprise system, which works, and works well, but only as long as it is not corrupted by unfair or deceptive trade practices. When our economic system is hindered by monopolies or unjust actions, then people suffer and we are all harmed.

I rise to salute this agency and the excellent work it has done to protect the American consumer's right to make informed choices about the products, goods and services in the free market. And I urge every colleague of mine to support this bill and the principles it embodies.

A TRIBUTE TO THE KOREAN WAR VETERANS ASSOCIATION OF LONG ISLAND

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 5, 1996

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the Korean War Veterans Association of Long Island, an organization dedicated to honoring the dedicated courage and selfless sacrifices of America's war veterans during the Korean conflict.

History has sometimes chosen to shine a less prominent light on the Korean war, but the sacrifices and heroic efforts of its veterans were just as important as those made in America's other conflicts. Because of the Korean War Veterans Association [KWVA], their sacrifices are recognized and honored more than ever before. Korean war veterans stand tall among all veterans, proud of all they have done to keep Democracy strong.

This Sunday, September 8, 1996, the central Long Island chapter will honor those who lost their lives during the Korean conflict when it dedicates a commemorative stone bearing the KWVA's logo during a ceremony at Calverton National Cemetery. Thousands of veterans and their families will be on hand to support the Central Long Island Chapter of the Korean War Veterans Association.

The Central Long Island Chapter of the KWVA was founded in 1989 by Bob Morga, to raise funds for a national monument in Washington, DC, which was dedicated on July 27, 1995. Central Long Island chapter members also worked to build a war memorial on Long Island, which was dedicated in June of 1992 at the Armed Forces Plaza in Hauppauge. Among those who helped make the Long Island memorial a reality was the late Suffolk County Legislator Rose Caracappa, whose tireless efforts inspired the Korean War Veterans Association to make her an honorary member.
