

Eckstein, Tim Salmon, Adam Kennedy, Bengie Molina, Brad Fullmer, Jarrod Washburn, Kevin Appier, Brendan Donnelly, Ben Weber, Ramon Ortiz, and Francisco Rodriguez.

I also would like to congratulate chairman and CEO of the Walt Disney Company Michael Eisner, General Manager Bill Stoneman and all of the Angels' staff on their hard work assembling Anaheim's first championship team. I should also congratulate Jackie Autry, widow of former Angels owner Gene Autry. One of her husband's greatest dreams was to see the Angels win a World Series.

And, most importantly, I would like to thank the Angels fans in Southern California who have earned national recognition for their enthusiasm and unbridled support of their team.

Finally, it is nearly impossible to congratulate the Angels or their fans without mentioning the "Rally Monkey," the adorable mascot that has become Anaheim's symbol of resilience and refusal to give up hope in the most difficult situations.

The Angels have begun a new era of baseball in Southern California and will certainly defend their title with the same heart and determination that brought them to the World Series this year. The Anaheim Angels are a team with an unquenchable desire to win.

They have made the city of Anaheim, the county of Orange, and all of California proud.

S. CON. RES. 94

Whereas census estimates indicate that some 42,000,000 people in the United States are without health insurance coverage, many of whom are among the most vulnerable and can be financially devastated by serious illness, disease, or accident;

Whereas studies have shown that people with health insurance are healthier than those who are uninsured and receive care through emergency rooms or safety net health care services, because the insured are entitled to, and receive, more preventive care, follow-up care, and care for chronic conditions such as diabetes and high blood pressure;

Whereas over 17,300,000 of the uninsured are employed but are not offered health insurance through their employers;

Whereas such employers are small business owners who are often unaware of the benefits of offering health insurance, including that such benefits are tax deductible, reduce employee turnover, and reduce employee sick days;

Whereas over 16,000,000 people in the United States, more than 1/3 of the uninsured, are in families where at least 1 member of the family has been offered employer based health care coverage but has declined coverage;

Whereas many individuals are eligible for public assistance programs such as the State Children's Health Insurance Program, known as SCHIP, and the medicaid program, but are not currently enrolled due primarily to lack of outreach, education, and accessible enrollment processes;

Whereas studies have shown that many individuals and small businesses are unaware of the various options they have for obtaining affordable health care coverage;

Whereas surveys have shown that many individuals who cite expense as the reason for not purchasing insurance find insurance affordable once they are informed of the true cost of various options; and

Whereas education about health care coverage helps uninsured individuals and employers understand the critical value of health insurance as a preventive measure and the ways to keep their health insurance premiums manageable once they have health care coverage: Now, therefore, be it
