

this sad episode has left a permanent impression on Shigeru. Fortunately, Shigeru has overcome this tragedy and has maintained a standard for other young people to follow. Shigeru has proven to me that life is too important to waste and to enjoy every moment by being an active member of society, not just a spectator.

Sincerely,

JOHN INUMERABLE.

TRIBUTE TO PHISH

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, on August 15 in Coventry, VT, a beloved chapter in American music history will come to a close as the jam band Phish holds its final concert for legions of devoted "phans" and "Phish-heads." We in Vermont are well known for our superb maple syrup, our wonderful ice cream, our award-winning cheese and our beautiful scenery, but after 21 remarkable years, the jam band Phish has certainly become one of our most famous exports.

The four musicians of Phish—Trey Anastasio, Mike Gordon, Page O'Connell, and Jon Fishman—met and started playing together as undergraduates at the University of Vermont in the early 1980s. The band quickly moved beyond its humble beginnings in a dormitory basement to playing a small nightclub in Burlington called Nectar's. While they toured for 5 years before releasing any commercial albums, the buzz around the band spread as their striking melodies and lively jam sessions endeared them to a growing legion of fans.

Phish released its first commercial album, Junta, in 1989. Since then, the band has put out more than 35 studio and live albums that have sold millions of copies. They have more than 200 original songs, and many of the songs die-hards love most were never recorded in the studio.

But the magic of Phish is not as much in its studio recordings as it is in its live performances. In an era when slick marketing techniques often overshadow the musical accomplishments of the artists themselves, this talented band from Vermont has provided a refreshing contrast by promoting free spiritedness and individuality in their music.

The band has always been unconcerned about releasing catchy singles and making millions of dollars from record sales. Instead they play long jams—oftentimes with songs lasting 30 minutes or longer—and tour year-round. Bucking a trend in the industry, they even encouraged people to tape their shows for free and trade them on the Internet. For the members of Phish, it really is all about their music and their fans.

Every night on stage is a new and different showcase for the talents of the versatile and endlessly creative band members. Whether they are playing electric guitars, keyboards, drums, or vacuum cleaners, Phish's improvisational talent has never disappointed. Many fans—often referred to as "Phish-heads"—follow the band from concert to concert living off veggie burritos, grilled cheese sandwiches and the charity of others.

Through it all, Phish has always considered Vermont home. In a tribute to their Burlington roots, the band's first album produced with a major record company was titled A Picture of Nectar. And the band's share of proceeds from sales of the popular "Phish Food" Ben and Jerry's ice cream flavor goes directly toward environmental projects in Vermont's Lake Champlain Watershed. Now, as they prepare for their final show in Vermont, it is appropriate that they finish where they started.

Though Phish has sold millions of albums and become a huge success, in spirit they remain a group that is unpretentious and unfailingly loyal to their fans. Their admirable generosity has fostered a sense of community among those who follow the group. The band's break-up is a source of sadness to all of us who know and love them.

I congratulate Trey Anastasio, Mike Gordon, Jon Fishman and Page O'Connell on their remarkable success. I am grateful for all they have done for Vermont, for American music, and for their fans. Most importantly, we sincerely appreciate their authenticity, their enthusiasm and their generosity.

While no one wants to see Phish stop playing after this summer, we can all take some solace that their music will live on, in these words from their song, "Down With Disease."

Waiting for the time when I can finally say
That this has all been wonderful, but now
I'm on my way.

But when I think it's time to leave it all behind,

I try to find a way, but there's nothing I can say to make it stop.

LAUREN AMBER COOK

Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, I pay tribute and congratulate Lauren Amber Cook of Princeton, KY on being awarded the William R. Sprague Scholarship from the Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation. This academic scholarship will provide Lauren with $4,000 toward her education.

Lauren has proven to be a very able and competent student by winning this prestigious award. She will represent the graduates of Caldwell County High School very well when she enrolls at Vanderbilt University in the autumn. There she plans to study chemical engineering with a focus on agriculture.

The citizens of Caldwell County should be proud to have a young woman like Lauren Amber Cook in their community. Her example of dedication and hard work should be an inspiration to the entire Commonwealth.

She has my most sincere appreciation for this work, and I look forward to her continued service to Kentucky.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT HOMEOWNERSHIP TAX CREDIT ACT

• Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, President Bush officially declared the month of June as "National Homeownership Month," and with this annual tradition, America's attention was again drawn to the importance of homeownership and the stability it can bring to families and neighborhoods. It is often homeownership that financially anchors American families and civically anchors our communities. But I believe our focus on homeownership also returns our attention to the basic ideals of the American Dream. Ensuring access to homeownership, and through it access to the American Dream, is among the most significant ways we can empower our citizens to achieve the happy, productive and stable lifestyle everyone desires.

Having a house of one's own that provides security and comfort to one's family and that gives families an active, vested interest in the quality of life their community provides is central to our collective ideas about freedom and self-determination. As a nation, we know that homeownership helps the emotional and intellectual growth and development of children. We know that homeowners show greater interest and more frequent participation in civic organizations and neighborhood issues. We know that when people own homes, they are more likely to accumulate wealth and assets and to prepare themselves financially for such things as their children's education and retirement.

In America today, homeownership is at a record high. Unfortunately, however, there remains a significant gap between minority and non-minority populations, leaving homeownership an elusive financial prospect for many. The homeownership rate for the nation's African American and Hispanic households lags more than 25 percentage points below White households.

In Congress, we have the responsibility of ensuring that the dream of homeownership is possible for more of our citizens. Last year, Senator JOHN KERRY and I drafted and sponsored S. 875, the "Community Development Homeownership Tax Credit Act," a bill that enjoys strong bipartisan support in the Senate. This legislation would give developers and investors an incentive to participate in the rehabilitation and construction of homes for low- and moderate-income buyers. This measure is aimed at reaching President Bush's goal of increasing American minority homeownership by 5.5 million families, thus making 5.5 million new dreams come true.

Owning a home is an integral part of attaining the security, continuity, and comfort of living the American Dream. I will continue to advocate policies that help make this dream become a reality for our Nation's families. I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting homeownership by cosponsoring S. 875. •
