

holding up Barron's nomination will not expedite the release of any memo.

We agree it is entirely appropriate for Congress to consider carefully the legal framework for drone strikes, although we may reach different conclusions on that score. But it would inflict grave harm on the confirmation process and on our ability to recruit the best persons to the federal judiciary if Barron's nomination to the First Circuit were allowed to become collateral damage in this debate. The pertinent question cannot be whether any senator agrees or disagrees with any particular use of force or with whether the administration should or should not release documents. Barron didn't order the strikes or design the legal framework for their authorization. Indeed we do not know whether he personally agrees with that policy, the wisdom and morality of which it was not his job to assess. And he has not advocated, much less ordered, the withholding of any documents. His job as acting head of the Office of Legal Counsel was to provide thorough, accurate, and unvarnished legal opinions to the president and other executive officials, based on the traditional legal authorities of text, history, and precedent. We have every reason to believe that is precisely what he did, and there is absolutely no evidence to the contrary.

The nation badly needs the best possible judges—men and women of integrity, intelligence, judicial temperament, respect for the rule of law, and an understanding of the role of judges within our legal system. Barron understands and exemplifies those values. He should be released from the destructive tangle in which he has become quite undeservedly enmeshed and placed on the First Circuit Court of Appeals, where he can serve our nation with great distinction.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 357

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, as I think my colleagues know, this is National Police Week. I know I express the sentiment of every Member of this body who wishes to show their appreciation for the 900,000 Federal, State, and local law enforcement officers who literally put their lives on the line every day to keep us safe. We cannot thank them enough, but we can help them by our actions. In 2013 there were 105 who lost their lives in the line of duty, so obviously this is a matter that requires the attention of the Senate.

Let me cite the most recent casualty in the State of Maryland. On August 28, 2013, Baltimore County police officer Jason Schneider, who was only 36 years of age, was shot and killed while serving a search warrant at a home on Roberts Avenue in Catonsville at approximately 5 o'clock in the morning. Officer Schneider was part of a tactical team that had entered the house in search of a juvenile subject wanted in relation to a shooting of the previous week. The entry team encountered four subjects inside the house who attempted to flee. Officer Schneider was pursuing a subject toward the rear of the house when another subject attacked him and opened fire, striking him several times. Despite being mortally wounded, Officer Schneider returned fire and killed the subject. Officer Schneider is survived by his wife and two children.

Unfortunately, that story was told 105 other times in 2013 with law enforcement officers who lost their lives in the line of duty.

I have introduced legislation—S. 357—which provides for a national blue alert. I think most Members are familiar with AMBER alerts. It means the
