WASHINGTON, DC, September 18, 2017.

I hereby appoint the Honorable George Holding to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

PAUL D. RYAN,

PRAYER

Reverend Michael Wilker, Lutheran Church of the Reformation, Washington, D.C., offered the following prayer:

Let us pray, using the words of Dag Hammarskjold:

Thou who art over us, Thou who art one of us, Thou who art, also within us.

May all see Thee, in me also. May I prepare the way for Thee. May I thank Thee for all that shall fall to my lot. May I also not forget the needs of others.

Keep me in Thy love, as Thou wastest that all should be kept in mine. May everything in this, my being, be directed to Thy glory, and may I never despair. For I am under Thy hand, and in Thee is all power and goodness.

Give me a pure heart, that I may see Thee; a humble heart, that I may hear Thee; a heart of love, that I may serve Thee; a heart of faith, that I may abide in Thee.

Amen.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.
Holy and Gracious God, let Your light shine out of darkness into our hearts.
Today, fill our lawmakers with the knowledge of Your purposes, providing them with the insights to accomplish Your will. Inspire them to humble themselves under Your mighty hand so that You may exalt them in due time. Lord, keep them mindful of the great responsibility You have placed upon them, and may they trust Your power to do through them more than they can ask or imagine. Watch over and guard them and their loved ones in their going out and coming in.
Lord, thank You for the loving care and tender mercies that You provide us each day.
We pray in Your loving Name. Amen.

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
WASHINGTON, DC, SEPember 18, 2017,
To the Senate:
Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Todd Young, a Senator from the State of Indiana, to perform the duties of the Chair.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION BILL
Mr. McConnell. Mr President, our Nation faces many national security threats across the globe.
The threats and challenges posed by Iran, China, Russia, North Korea, ISIL, al-Qaeda, and its affiliates represent a diverse range of conventional and asymmetric capabilities that threaten our national security and that of our allies.
We also know that the challenges we face have been compounded by everything from sequestration to the last administration’s self-defeating foreign policy, with the Obama administration’s focus on reducing the size of our conventional force only adding to the burden of our forward-deployed units.
We have to be smart if we are going to address these challenges effectively and do right by our men and women in uniform appropriately.
We have to provide our servicemembers with the resources and training they need. That is obvious.
We have to continue the hard work of rebuilding our military and restoring combat readiness. That is ongoing.
We have to modernize the Pentagon and root out waste within the military bureaucracy. That is important for strengthening accountability.
We also have to prepare for the threats of both today and tomorrow by promoting defense innovation, enhancing cyber security, and—especially when you consider all the recent belligerence from North Korea—strengthening missile defense.
For these reasons and many others, like authorizing a well-deserved raise for our servicemembers, it is imperative that we join together today in passing the defense authorization legislation before us.
Mr. President, I thank the Armed Services Committee for its good work on this year’s National Defense Authorization Act. The members of that committee, from both parties, came together to support this year’s NDAA and send it to the Senate floor. It is yet another testament to the leadership of Senator McCain, the committee’s top Republican, and Senator Reed, his Democratic counterpart.
So thank you, Chairman McCain, thank you, Ranking Member Reed, and thank you, everyone else, who worked so hard on this legislation.
Now let’s pass it.

CONFIRMATION OF RUSSELL COLEMAN
Mr. McConnell. Mr. President, on an entirely different matter, last week, the Senate confirmed a talented and experienced nominee with an impressive career in law enforcement to be the U.S. attorney for the Western District of Kentucky. Russell Coleman is the right person for the job.
After graduating from my alma mater, the University of Kentucky College of Law, Russell entered public service. His wide-ranging experiences at the Department of Justice, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Senate, and in private practice make him particularly qualified for this new role.

This “bullet” symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.
As the chief Federal law enforcement officer for the Western District of Kentucky, Russell will use his skills to serve the people of Kentucky and the United States very well. Having served as a special agent with the FBI, Russell understands the particular challenges facing law enforcement. In that role, he regularly collaborated with Federal, State, and local law enforcement officials on a vast array of issues, and he is well respected in the law enforcement community.

For instance, Kentucky continues to struggle with the opioid addiction epidemic that is tearing families and communities apart. Russell stands ready to collaborate with stakeholders and community leaders to combat it. He has earned the support of the Kentucky Narcotics Officers' Association, which looks forward to his leadership on drug enforcement issues.

Russell also worked in my office as legal counsel, helping me serve the people of Kentucky. With good humor and an unmatched determination, he advocated for the issues that were important to my constituents.

The president of the Kentucky Fraternal Order of Police wrote to me in support of Russell's nomination: "Russell was forever thoughtful, courteous, and a true friend to our membership."

Now Russell has the opportunity to serve once again. I congratulate him and look forward to his service to the Commonwealth and to the country.

TRIBUTE TO NANCY KERVIN

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, on one final matter, I would like to take a brief moment to recognize a talented member of the Senate community who will be retiring this month after 20 years of service to this body and to the Nation.

Nancy Kervin is a reference librarian in the Senate Library, and for years, whenever she needed assistance with a seemingly impossible research question, she was always ready to lend a helping hand. I could not let her depart without giving her the recognition that she so richly deserves.

Nancy came to the Senate following a wide-ranging career in publishing and in research, and through her work here, Nancy has made a lasting mark.

To members of my staff and to numerous others around the Senate, Nancy has been the first person to call when facing a difficult research question. Nancy's signature combination of intellectual rigor and unyielding perseverance has enabled her to skillfully complete countless research projects on numerous subjects throughout her time in the Senate, and, of course, she is widely known for her kindness and her good humor.

My office has worked closely with Nancy on a number of different projects over the years, but there is one project—a project of particular personal importance to me—that I would like to mention today.

A number of years ago, I began a series of lectures at Kentucky colleges and universities focusing on the lives and legacies of prominent U.S. Senators from the Commonwealth. Since the project's inception, my staff has regularly looked to Nancy for help. She has been an indispensable resource for each historical speech in Kentucky that I have delivered. Her work in gathering sources and putting the information in its proper context has helped me to pay tribute to many distinguished Kentuckians. Therefore, it is fitting that she holds the highest honor that my State can bestow upon a civilian, that of a Kentucky colonel.

After her years of dedicated service, Nancy deserves a relaxing retirement. Along with her husband, Stephen—another stalwart member of the Senate family who will be retiring from the Senate Historical Office—Nancy plans to spend time traveling and working in her garden. She will be sorely missed here.

On behalf of the entire Senate family, I congratulate Nancy and Stephen on their successful careers in promoting the history and the legacy of this Chamber and those who have served in it. I wish them both happy retirements.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The Acting clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2018

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 2810, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 2810) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2018 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes.

Pending:
McCain/Reed modified amendment No. 1093, in the nature of a substitute.
McConnell (for McCaskill) amendment No. 545 (to amendment No. 1093), of a perfecting nature.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Utah.

NOMINATION OF MAKAN DELRAHIM

Mr. LEE. Mr. President, I rise to speak in support of the nomination of Makan Delrahim as the Assistant Attorney General for the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Mr. Delrahim is someone I have known for over 15 years. He is eminently qualified, and I have no doubt that he will make an outstanding Assistant Attorney General.

Mr. Delrahim has a long and distinguished career within the antitrust world. His service includes service as senior staffer for the Senate Judiciary Committee of the Antitrust Modernization Commission and previously at the U.S. Department of Justice.

I could go on and on regarding Mr. Delrahim's accomplishments, regarding his character and his aptitude as a lawyer, generally, and as an antitrust lawyer, in particular. But instead of taking my word for it, allow me to read just a little bit of the wide-ranging support for Mr. Delrahim that has come from both sides of the aisle. People within the Senate and outside the Senate on both sides of the aisle have been supportive of this nomination.

A bipartisan group of former Assistant Attorneys General for the Antitrust Division at the Department of Justice—including AAGs for Antitrust under President Obama, President Clinton, and President Carter—submitted a letter expressing strong support for Mr. Delrahim's nomination. They explained that Mr. Delrahim has the experience, intelligence, judgment, and leadership skills necessary to serve as an excellent Assistant Attorney General.

Similarly, a bipartisan group of former Commissioners of the Antitrust Modernization Commission, a group of well-respected seasoned anti-trust officials, submitted a letter supporting Mr. Delrahim's nomination. The letter said that Delrahim will "serve with high distinction and be an outstanding Assistant Attorney General for antitrust."

The authors of this letter also "strongly urge[d] the Committee to look favorably upon his nomination, with the hope that the Senate can confirm him as soon as possible."

Because Mr. Delrahim is so well respected, his nomination is one that has enjoyed broad bipartisan support, including broad bipartisan support within the Senate Judiciary Committee, on which I serve. He was voted out of the committee by a vote of 19 to 1. That is not all that common these days. Ranking Member FEINSTEIN went out of her way to explain that Mr. Delrahim "will fully and fairly enforce our antitrust laws."

Despite this strong bipartisan support, Mr. Delrahim's nomination has languished on the floor. In fact, the wait to confirm Makan Delrahim is the longest for someone appointed to this position in 40 years. Not since the Carter administration has a new administration been forced to wait this long to fill the vacancy at the Antitrust Division. President Carter’s wait was largely due to the fact that he took more than twice as long to nominate his second Attorney General for the Antitrust Division than did President Trump.

Apprently, some Democrats are still so eager to resist that they are unwilling to confirm a nominee who many of them support. This is unacceptable. Democrats understand that antitrust is essential to ensuring that consumers receive the benefits of a competitive economy: lower prices, more innovation, and more choice. You see, when you have competition, good things happen. When you have competition, it inevitably brings down prices, and it inevitably results in higher quality.

In fact, last month some Democrats reiterated my point about the importance of a strong antitrust enforcement to our economy, and they did so by releasing their Better Deal plan. The Democrats’ plan describes the effects that anticompetitive mergers can have, such as harming consumers, customers, and suppliers.

Senator Klobuchar, along with several Democratic colleagues, followed up on this plan by proposing legislation to enact some of these policies into law. Although I don’t agree with all of their proposed solutions, I do agree with my colleagues from across the aisle that antitrust enforcement should be a priority.

The best way to ensure that antitrust laws are being properly prioritized is to make sure our antitrust agencies are fully staffed and have leaders in place—leaders who have the requisite expertise and ability; leaders who have broad bipartisan support from sitting Senators, practitioners, and former agency leaders; and the exacting demands required by the position; leaders who fit the description of Makan Delrahim.

Given his broad support, his impeccable qualifications, and the importance of this position, there is no good reason to delay this confirmation—quite to the contrary. This is a position that is neither Republican nor Democratic. It is a position that is neither liberal nor conservative. This position has causes who know the postural issues that affect every American. And Makan Delrahim in this position at a critical time in our Nation’s history, at a critical time for antitrust law—it is especially important that we have him in place.

Antitrust law is an area in which the United States has excelled above and beyond what its peer nations have been able to achieve. We developed this area of the law, and we did so with an eye toward protecting consumers and competition itself rather than protecting individual competitors. We have to lead, and the best way we can start is by confirming Makan Delrahim. So I call upon the Senate to confirm Makan Delrahim as Assistant Attorney General for the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore, The Senator from Florida.

Mr. Nelson. Mr. President, I wish to speak about the Defense bill, but before I do, I want to give the Senate a report.

Senator Rubio and I have been together quite a bit this last week. As Florida has not only encountered a hurricane, but this was quite unusual in that it basically affected almost all of the State of Florida.

Florida is a big State. If you went from Key West to Pensacola, it is as far as going from Pensacola all the way to Chicago. That is how big our State is. With almost 21 million people, it is the third largest State, with 75 percent of that a population along the coast. Of course, we know what happens when hurricanes start threatening those coasts.

This was an unusual one because it was first going to hit the east coast of Florida. That was the track. The National Hurricane Center has gotten quite good in their ability to project the path and the velocity of the winds. But once it took an unexpected turn, hitting the north coast of Cuba as a category 5, its velocity and forward motion were reduced, and it then took a more westerly path, making landfall in the Middle and Lower Keys of Florida, where the winds were category 3, approaching category 4. Residents were not even let back in to see their homes until Sunday morning.

As of now, although FEMA is present in the Lower Keys—Key West—and in the Upper Keys—Key Largo—individual assistance and disaster teams were still trying to get into the areas that had the biggest impact, the areas around Big Cedar Key and Marathon. It is a painfully slow process. FEMA is having to deal with the problems in Texas and now the enormity of the storm affecting almost all of Florida. FEMA is stretched. But FEMA is supposed to be a work in progress as we go on.

There are places where Senator Rubio and I have gotten personally involved in speaking to FEMA to come in, areas in Lee County and Collier County. Areas where FEMA had not visited, they now have come in—Lee County, east of Fort Myers, and Lehigh Acres.

The little farming community of Immokalee was exceptionally torn up. There is a great story there. The university president opened up the fieldhouse so that a lot of the poor people in Immokalee had a place to go if they didn’t have another shelter. Indeed, they had to move into apartments of people in an apartment complex whose caregivers had left were picked up by the sheriff and taken to the university, and the students cared for them for 4 nights. This is a great example of Floridians helping Floridians, which we have seen throughout.

This Senator has been all over the State, much of it with my colleague, looking at what’s going on. But that was the back side of the storm. The eye of the storm had gone farther to the east, so the damage was in the northeastern quadrant since the most severe winds were in the Big Pine Key and the Marathon area. The military, the Coast Guard, FEMA, and the engineers came in immediately after the storm. Floridians helping Floridians helping Americans.

Then Senator Rubio and I went to Jacksonville, St. Johns. Quite unusual was that all the extra rainfall had flowed into the St. Johns River Basin. The river had swollen, and all of that water was trying to get its normal outlet into the Atlantic Ocean at Jacksonville. But lo and behold, the winds coming up the entire peninsula moving northward, now the eye over land between Tampa and Orlando and that northeastern quadrant of those winds coming from east going west—what did it do at Jacksonville? It pushed back the cold water and helped get out into the Atlantic. That, combined with the incoming high tide—what you had was phenomenal flooding, an overflowing of the banks of the St. Johns River in many places in the Upper St. Johns, at considerable loss of property and considerable distress to the citizens. A good part of downtown Jacksonville was flooded.

The next day, Senator Rubio and I ended up in a citrus grove in Lake Waikiki. Fifty percent of the fruit in this citrus grove was on the ground. Farther south, 75 percent of the citrus crop was on the ground. They can’t salvage that. That is a huge percentage of the citrus industry. Americans helping Floridians helping Americans.

Senator Rubio and I were in that citrus grove and saw all of that lost crop. That was going to be a promising crop for the first time in 10 years of declines of the citrus crop because of the bacteria. This was going to be a good year, but we saw half of that crop on the ground in that grove, lost, gone. Citrus crop insurance is not going to really help them—only if it is a much greater loss.

From there, the two of us went on to a poor part of Florida, east of Lake Okeechobee, called Belle Glade. A lot of the residences were torn up by the winds.

This was a hurricane whose winds affected virtually all of the peninsula of Florida and even reached over into the panhandle as far as Tallahassee and even other parts west.

In Belle Glade, we served a meal. Charities had come together to bring food to hungry people because they had no power and they had no refrigeration. It had been several days since the hurricane, and therefore they had no food.

From there, we went to another very poor part of Florida, Immokalee, FL, which I described earlier, which had been torn up considerably.

Whether it was what I just described or where feeding poor people in Apopka, FL, who at that point had been without power for 5 days, and they had no food because there was no refrigeration, or whether it was going down to Lehigh Acres, where the Florida National Guard had organized the distribution of MRE’s, which are really ready to eat, and gallons of fresh water because so many of those homes out in Lehigh Acres, east of Fort Myers, were on water wells, and without electricity, there were no pumps to give them water—there are so many things that we often take for granted. If power is taken away, you suffer not only because of the 90 degree-plus heat and humidity but also because you can’t even get any water because you are on a water well.

It was a privilege to be there with the Florida National Guard, handing out food, handing out water, and talking to those local residents who are living paycheck to paycheck—and now they have no paycheck. Where is the FEMA assistant to help them? Because there is no power, they can’t go online to apply for individual assistance. In fact, they can’t pick up the phone because of the intermittent cell service. Even if they could get a cell signal, they couldn’t get through to the FEMA number. That is why we wanted the FEMA representatives to come in, and fortunately, just yesterday, they finally did come in.

It has been quite a couple of weeks—first, anticipating the storm coming in and getting all of the emergency operation centers ready. Fortunately, people obeyed the evacuation orders. It was estimated that out of the population of almost 100,000 in the Keys, there were only 10,000 left. That was a huge evacuation. Those folks did not get in to find out what was left of their homes until yesterday. You can imagine, a week after the storm had hit—the weekend before the Keys—all of that water was in there, setting in with the heat and the humidity, the mold and the mildew. You can imagine the mess, the cleanup.

All the while FEMA has to worry about Texas, now Florida, and maybe another hurricane that is going to come up. It looks as though it is going to turn out to sea but is still going to have some of the wind effects along the northeast Atlantic Coast. Floridians—and then there was a great, great tragedy that occurred 4 days after the hurricane. Why is there not a requirement that every nursing home or assisted living facility, an ALF, have a generator not only for power, for lights, but have a generator capacity that will run air conditioning units—I think this is going to be the subject of great debate that I hope will change that requirement in the State of Florida because we know that people died in a nursing home right across the street from a major hospital in Hollywood, FL—eight frail elderly, from ages 70 to 99—eight needless deaths as a result. A criminal investigation is underway.

All the power had been made that were not answered, both to the government as well as to the power company, as reported by the press, specifically a Miami television station—we don’t know all the facts; they will come out in the criminal investigation. But it is inexcusable that eight frail elderly would die from heat exhaustion by being left so that their condition deteriorated over the course of 3 or 4 days.

What is wrong with a regulatory scheme that does not have a backup generator that would kick in when, in fact, the hospital right across the street had one? What was the disconnect there? Why did it take days and days and days? We will find out in this great tragedy.

I can tell you, the Miami Herald had done a series, over the last couple of years, of three investigative pieces, which pointed out that these ALFs and these nursing homes had not been properly managed or regulated by the State of Florida. That is to be determined.

Hurricane Irma is just another reminder that we are going to confront huge natural occurrences and maybe, just maybe, people will be there wondering something to the effect that the Earth is getting hotter. Because of that, two-thirds of the Earth is covered by oceans, with the oceans absorbing 90 percent of that heat. What happens to water when it is heated? It expands. Thus, the sea level.

Mr. President, as we turn to this Defense bill, this is an issue of national security. As Secretary of Defense Mattis has said, “Climate change is impacting stability in areas of the world where our troops are operating today.”

But it is inexcusable that eight frail elderly people would die from heat exhaustion by being left so that their condition deteriorated over the course of 3 or 4 days. Why did it take so long? We will find out in this great tragedy.

HEALTHCARE

Mr. President, I am going to use the rest of my time to address something that is not so bipartisan. It is terribly partisan, and that is the issue of healthcare. I hope the American people listen to me.

After a few months of lying dormant, TrumpCare is back, and it is meaner than ever. TrumpCare now lives under the name of Cassidy-Graham. Guess what. It is another bill that would drastically cut back on healthcare funding for Americans who need it most.

My colleagues, my fellow Americans, this is a red-alert moment for the entire country. Our healthcare system again is threatened by a hastily constructed piece of legislation, put together in a back room by only one party—no CBO score, no committee process, not a single hearing. Everyone is totally in the dark about the effects of this bill, yet there is an effort to rush it forward.

This Frankenstein monster of a bill that would harm so many Americans keeps coming back and back, and somehow each time it has managed to get worse.

Here is what we know the new TrumpCare bill would do. It would roll back protections for Americans with preexisting conditions. It would allow States to impose burdensome requirements as a condition on Medicaid coverage. It would fund Planned Parenthood, stripping millions of women of their right to access affordable healthcare. Most crucially, the new TrumpCare would plunge a dagger deep into the heart of Medicaid, immediately ending Medicaid expansion and subsidies and devastations. That jeopardizes coverage for 11 million Americans and cuts Medicaid spending. That is all it does. We will not know how many citizens are hurt, but the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, whose numbers are very reliable, has done a calculation. I would just pick out some States. There are more. Arizona would lose $1.6 billion in Federal funding. Alaska would lose $255 million in Federal funding. Maine would lose $115 million in Federal funding. West Virginia would lose $54 million in Federal funding. Colorado would lose $823 million in Federal funding. Ohio, the State most racked by the opioid epidemic, would lose over $2.5 billion in healthcare funding. Iowa would lose $486 million in Federal funding. These are devastating numbers.

My colleagues, if you don’t believe the accuracy of these numbers, then have the courage and decency to wait for a CBO score. To pass this legislation before CBO measures out the effect on your State would be legislative malpractice of the highest order. These numbers, we believe, are accurate. They come from a group that has had years of expertise and accurately predicted healthcare effects. There will be devastating cuts to so many in so many States.

If you don’t believe these numbers, then show us what yours are. Wait for the CBO score and see what they have to say. The numbers are devastating. They represent millions of Americans, especially middle-income and low-income, who will receive poorer healthcare, face higher costs, or both. Whom do they represent? You are an American family—a nice, middle-class family making a good income. You have a parent in a nursing home. It is likely to be paid for by Medicaid. That parent is at risk if this Graham-Cassidy bill passes. You have a young son or daughter afflicted by opioids. The treatment they receive would often be at risk if this bill passes. You give birth to a child with a preexisting condition who desperately needs help. We met so many of these families, everyone one of us. That child’s life, in so many cases, would be at risk if this bill passes. This is the poorest way of legislating I have seen in all my years here. To try to rush this bill through without a CBO score, no knowledge of how it actually affects your constituents—how can we do that?

Already, some Republican Governors have spoken out against this legislation. Governor Kasich, Governor Baker, and 16 patient and provider groups have come out against this TrumpCare, including the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association. The ratings agency Fitch says Graham-Cassidy would be even “more disruptive” than all the other ACA bills. The American people have rejected TrumpCare repeatedly. If numbers in the polls are below 20 percent. Hardcore supporters of Donald Trump do not want us to pass this bill. Virtually only one in five Americans wants us to pass this bill—hardly anybody—and we are going to do it for a political scalp? No, we can’t.

I know there are some on the other side of the aisle who say they can work it out so each State wouldn’t be hurt as badly as under the current draft of the bill—these bad numbers—that they can tweak the formula for one State or another. I would not support that. For one thing, we are facing a devastated, devastating. First, they are never going to come up with that kind of money. I heard one Governor was told by a Senator: Don’t worry about the big cuts to your State. We will make it up with deposits into share payments—uncompensated care. It is impossible. The amount of money in the DSH Program is so much less than the amount of these cuts that we couldn’t even come close. That is what is being thrown around here. The cuts of different surmises: Maybe we will do this, maybe we will do that. We are playing with people’s lives. That is so wrong. States will end up facing a harsh cut—most of the States in the Union—many States represented by my colleagues on the other side of the aisle who voted for the previous bills.

We shouldn’t do it on substance, but we also shouldn’t do it on the basis of regular order. To have such a major bill that affects so many be rushed at the last minute in the dark of night—no discussion, no analysis, no real knowledge of how it affects each of our States—is legislative malpractice of the highest order.

If the Founding Fathers were looking at this Chamber now and watching, they would be turning over in their graves. An America founded on debate and discussion and sunlight is veering off all of that in a really nasty way. There are no regular order hearings. There are no bipartisan public hearings on the Graham-Cassidy bill. The HELP and Finance Committees are not debating the legislation. It is the same backroom, one-party sham of a legislative process that ultimately brought the previous bill down. A contrived, eleventh-hour hearing on block grants in the Homeland Security Committee—a committee that has very little jurisdiction over healthcare matters—does not even come close to suggesting regular order.

In conclusion, I think many of us on both sides of the aisle thought there was a ray of light in the last few weeks. The partisanship that had governed this place for the last 8 months seemed to be breaking. I had good meetings in the White House—hopes of working together. Senators Alexander and Murray began talking about how we moved forward. I was joyful that maybe the divisions would come into play so we could work together. The majority leader and I are getting along very well. This bill, if done this way and passed, would douse those hopes.

There is a way out. Senators Alexander and Murray have had discussions. They have negotiated at this moment. What they will come up with will have some things I don't like and some things people on the other side of the aisle don't like. That is the legislative process. It is not to rush a bill through in the dark of night without even knowledge of how it affects people. CBO has said they cannot measure how many people would lose coverage and how they would pay. Let's not go back to the divisive, destructive healthcare process that paralyzed the Senate for much of this year. Let the leader and I encourage our Members to talk to one another and come up with bipartisan solutions—not just on this bill but on all bills to come.

So after 2 weeks of thinking partisanship—that flickering candle might gain some new light—this is the last thing we need. Let's not go back to the divisive, destructive healthcare process that paralyzed the Senate for much of this year. Let the leader and I encourage our Members to talk to one another and come up with bipartisan solutions—not just on this bill but on all bills to come. Let's pursue the bipartisan path courageously used by Senators Alexander and Murray.

In conclusion, I would ask every American who hears these words, who longs for us to work together, to call your Senators and Congressmen and let them know. Tell them this bill is even worse than the previous bills. Tell them it is worse than the previous bills. Tell them it hurts average families drastically. Tell them there is a better way out. Senators Alexander and Murray and the HELP Committee are working together, holding hearings, bringing people from all points of view in front of that committee to testify about how we can improve and strengthen our current system.

Now, instead of heading down that bipartisan path, we are seeing another last-ditch effort to destroy the Affordable Care Act and, in the process, wreak incredible damage to our entire healthcare system. The latest incarnation of TrumpCare is the Graham-Cassidy legislation. Make no mistake, in many ways, this is far worse than the earlier proposals we have seen.

It would end the Medicaid expansion program, which in my State of Maryland, has provided more affordable care to more Marylanders than the exchanges that were established under the Affordable Care Act. It will dramatically cut the funds under the Medicaid Program through a block grant proposal that gives very little, given the huge responsibilities that the State has.

It will give a green light to States throughout the country to eliminate the really important patient protection protections, protections against discrimination based on preexisting conditions like diabetes or asthma or whatever it may be, and it will give a blanket check to those who want to eliminate the important essential benefit provisions that provide important coverage guarantees for women's health and so many other important areas like mental health and substance abuse.

Doctors in this country take a very simple oath, the Hippocratic oath, which says: First, do no harm. This piece of legislation—this latest incarnation of TrumpCare—will do devastating harm to our healthcare system, and you don't have to take my word for it. As more and more groups learn about this piece of legislation, and they are just looking at the details—they are beginning to phone into our offices and to send us emails and texts. I can assure you that Members will see the same outpouring of opposition to this bill that they saw to the earlier ones.

Already we have seen strong statements of opposition from the American Cancer Society, the American Diabetes Association, the American Heart Association, the American Lung Association, and the list goes on and on, and it just started.

It is important for us to remember that these are not Republican groups. They are not Democratic groups. They have no partisan affiliation at all. Their only interest is to protect patients in this country, and we should have the same interest in protecting the health of our constituents.

There is not just the patient advocacy groups that are already strongly opposed to this. Those who provide healthcare in our system to our loved ones—to our parents, to our children—are coming out strongly opposed to this already.

Here is what the Children's Hospital Association has to say about the Graham-Cassidy provision:

Their legislation would slash funding for Medicaid, the nation's largest health care program for children, reducing access and coverage for more than 30 million children in the program. Furthermore, the legislation weakens important consumer safeguards, and as a result, millions of children in working families would no longer be assured that their private insurance covers the most basic of services without annual and lifetime limits.

And they go on. That is the Children's Hospital Association. Those are the hospitals that every day are caring for kids throughout this country, and they are not alone in already opposing this legislation.

The American Academy of Family Physicians, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American College of Physicians, the American Nurses Association—in short, all of those organizations representing all those people out there who are providing healthcare to our fellow Americans, to our constituents—are opposed to this bill.

AARP, which, of course, represents millions—in fact, tens of millions—of older Americans is strongly opposed to this bill because, once again, it opens the door toward age discrimination in the amount of the premiums that are charged. Older Americans and elderly Americans will see their premiums go through the roof under this proposal, and that is why AARP is also strongly opposed.

So just when we thought we were at a point where we were going to focus on a bipartisan basis on improving our healthcare system, the whole lot of room for improvement, just when we began to see bipartisan hearings and legislation possibly emerge from the HELP Committee, we now see this last-ditch effort on the floor of the Senate to do what other bills had tried to do but in an even worse fashion.

We are hearing already from Americans—not with political hats on, not with Republican hats on or Democratic hats on or Independent hats on, not with political hats on at all, just people who care about the healthcare of the people of this country—and they are resoundingly opposed to this. So let's not try and ram something through here in the next 2 weeks to try to meet an artificial clock that has been set by the rules of the Senate. There has been ample time to debate this, and we have debated the earlier versions. Let's not allow this final sneak attack on the American healthcare system to get through this body. It would be a very sad day for the Senate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Indiana.

Mr. YOUNG. Madam President, I rise today to discuss the National Defense Authorization Act. I want to begin by thanking Senators MCCAIN and REED, the chairman and ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. I commend their continued bipartisan leadership and collaboration on behalf of our servicemembers and our national security.

As many who served in the U.S. Marine Corps and also served on the House Armed Services Committee, I understand the importance of Congress's fulfilling its constitutional duties to our men and women in uniform.

This legislation is important for our country. It is also important to my neighbors. That includes Hoosiers serving on Active Duty, in the Reserves, and in the Indiana National Guard, as well as their families. It also helps Hoosiers working at Naval Surface Warfare Center Crane, Crane Army Ammunition Activity, and Defense Finance and Accounting Service in Indiana, to perform their important work, which is essential to our servicemembers.

Now, for the last 55 years, Congress has passed the NDAA. Given the threats our country confronts, it is important that we once again pass this legislation and provide our troops with the training, weapons, and support they need to accomplish their missions and return home safely. But that is not enough.

Congress must pass Defense authorization and appropriations bills before the end of the fiscal year, stop the habitual use of continuing resolutions for the Department of Defense, and end defense sequestration once and for all. I commend their continued bipartisan leadership and collaboration on behalf of our servicemembers and our national security.

Amendments related to Saudi Arabia's defense of the bill we are going to vote on—and, hopefully, pass—this evening includes three amendments to Hoosiers that I introduced and for which I worked with the committee to include. I would like to quickly mention two of them and then spend a little more time on the third.

The first provision is amendment No. 793. This provision would press the Department of Defense to implement Government Accountability Office recommendations or explain why they aren't doing so.

Now, let me explain why this is so important. Our Nation confronts challenges and threats of extraordinary scope. Yet the resources we have are limited. That means we need to ensure that the Department of Defense is operating as efficiently and as effectively as possible with the money the taxpayers provide. That is what our national security demands and what U.S. taxpayers are right to expect.

So when a respected organization such as the GAO, our Federal Government's auditor, conducts independent and rigorous analysis and identifies key areas for improvement within DOD, Congress and the Pentagon should take it seriously.

Here is the problem. As of this morning, there were 1,008 open GAO recommendations, including 75 priority recommendations that DOD alone has failed to address fully. Now, some of these priority recommendations relate to missile defense; maintenance; military readiness; servicemember healthcare; and financial management, and some of these open recommendations go back to 2009 and even earlier.

There may be a few of these recommendations in which DOD has a persuasive justification for not implementing GAO's recommendation, but I believe the burden of proof should be on DOD to either implement GAO's recommendations without delay or justify to Congress why they believe the recommendation should not be adopted. That is essentially what my provision would do.

I look forward to working with the leaders and staff of the Armed Services Committees to ensure that this important provision is included in the final legislation.

I would also like to highlight a second amendment, amendment No. 882, that I introduced and worked to include in the bill that we will soon vote to adopt. This provision would require the Navy to conduct and provide to Congress a comprehensive review of U.S. maritime intelligence, surveillance, reconnaissance, and targeting capability, also known as ISRT.

In light of growing Chinese and Russian maritime capabilities, this report would require the Navy, among other things, to identify specific capability gaps and specify what it is doing to address those capability gaps and areas of risk. The review will help to ensure that the United States retains a nuclear deterrent necessary to keep vital shipping lanes open, deter aggression, and defend our national security interests.

Now, lastly, I would like to highlight amendment No. 821. I introduced it and worked with the committee to include this in the bill, and I want to thank Senator DONNELLY for cosponsoring my amendment.

On January 27, the President issued a memorandum that emphasized the need for a "modern, robust, flexible, resilient, ready, and appropriately tailored nuclear deterrent." This memorandum reiterated the longstanding bipartisan consensus that deterrence is critical to our country and on our allies depends on our ability to maintain a strong, nuclear deterrent.

Our nuclear deterrent includes three legs. Also referred to as the nuclear triad, consisting of submarine-launched ballistic missiles, land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, and long-range bomber aircraft. Now, each of these legs offers an important and complementary capability making it clear to any potential aggressor that a nuclear attack on the United States would be suicidal and, thereby, deterring such an attack in the first place. Perhaps that is why Secretary of Defense Mattis, referring to the deterrence of potential aggressors, said just last week: "If I wanted to send the most compelling message, I have been persuaded that the triad . . . is the right way to go."

Now, the challenge is that, in just the next two decades, essentially all of our Nation's nuclear delivery systems and all of our nuclear weapons will need to be refurbished or replaced.

According to a February 17 study by the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office, that could cost a total of $400 billion over the next decade. That is an enormous cost during a period when our Department of Defense has many other competing priorities due. Consequently, we must identify opportunities to minimize costs while not sacrificing capability.

So consistent with that fact, on January 31, Secretary Mattis issued a memorandum, calling for an "ambitious reform agenda, which will include a horizontal integration across DOD components to improve efficiency and take advantage of economies of scale." Consistent with that memorandum and the memorandum of the President, my amendment would require the Office of the Secretary of Defense, working with our Navy and Air Force, to submit a report to Congress on the potential to achieve more value; that is, enhanced nuclear deterrence at a lower cost by integrating elements of acquisition programs related to modernization and sustainment of the nuclear triad.

If we can improve efficiency and program management, cost, and schedule by increasing integration, colocation, and commonality between the strategic deterrent programs of the Navy and the Air Force and their associated systems, technologies, and engineering processes, then we should do so.

Back home in Indiana, the skilled workers at Naval Surface Warfare Center Crane have supported the Navy Strategic Systems Program for more than 60 years. Crane is the largest DOD supplier to the Strategic Systems Program. Crane provides the Navy's only organic high-reliability, radiation-hardening capability. Crane also serves as a leader in trusted microelectronics. What is well known is that Crane provides important support to the Air Force's ICBM Ground Based Strategic Deterrent Program. More importantly, there is good reason to believe that Crane can dramatically increase its level of support to the Air Force's strategic programs.

That is the kind of joint collaboration between the Air Force and the Navy my amendment envisions. By breaking down stovepipe barriers between our military services, by eliminating unnecessary duplication, and by looking for commonsense opportunities for joint cooperation, we can keep our country safe and save money in the process. That is not only a win for Crane, it is a win for the Navy, it is a win for the Air Force, it is a win for taxpayers, and it is a win for the safety and security of every American.

That is why I look forward to working with the leadership and staff of the Armed Services Committee to include this amendment in the final bill.

I thank Chairman McCaIN and Ranking Member Reed for their work and tireless leadership on the Senate Armed Services Committee and for your work to bring the National Defense Authorization Act to this point.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. COTTON. Madam President, I want to explain what is going to happen this afternoon. Whenever a Democratic Senator says they are worried about the state of our military, that they are horrified about the kind of cuts we are making, and they can't sleep at night because of what we are doing to our troops in the field, don't believe them. They don't mean it. They are not serious. It is all for show because they had a perfect opportunity to stop all of these terrible cuts—and not just for the troops, for their constituents, even for their little parochial projects. What did they do? They turned it down. They said no.

Well, actually I take that back. They didn't say no. They couldn't even bring themselves to say no. They didn't have the courage to say no. They did something much worse. They said nothing because we are not even going to vote on the amendment I wanted to offer, which would have prohibited the sequester spending cuts for defense and nondefense—defense and nondefense spending.

Now, the Members of this body know I am no fan of pork-barrel spending. A lot of the projects that my Democratic colleagues sponsored could easily fall in that category, and we should rein that sort of thing in at a time when we are $20 trillion in debt, but I understand the only way we were going to get something done about the radical spending cuts to our military was to forge a bipartisan compromise.

After all, it is not like the sequester spending cuts really did that much to control spending. Did spending go down? Yes, it went from $3.6 trillion to $3.5 trillion, to $3.4 trillion, but the sequester wasn't even in effect for those first 2 years. Spending went down because Republicans won control of the House in 2010. At the end of 2013, the senior Senator from Wisconsin, budget caps and pushed off the sequester for those 2 years ahead. So, by 2015, Federal spending was back to $3.6 trillion, and it has been growing ever since. Time and time again, Congress has proven to be nearly incapable of sticking to the caps under the Budget Control Act of 2011.

Instead of actually saving money, all the sequester does is create an endless series of crises for Congress to escape just in the nick of time. Take this year. We all know what is going to happen. We just passed a 3-month continuing resolution earlier this month. We are going to reach a 2-year budget agreement in October or November. Yet, we are still spending that is going to have an omnibus in December, written in secret in our leaders' offices, and then we are going to have another omnibus spending bill, written in secret in our leaders' offices, next December, and we will repeat that cycle over again in 2019 and 2020. How do I know that? Because that is exactly what happened in 2013 and 2015. We will never make the cuts the Budget Control Act called for. We will just pass giant budgets that nobody has read in the last minute to avoid the crisis of our own making.

My amendment was the last best chance in years to stop this bust-and-boom cycle of budgeting. But what did the Democrats do? They threw it away. They threw away a bipartisan opportunity to repeal these automatic spending cuts, and they threw it away. You have to ask yourself what does Congress do if it doesn't understand the implications of what they are doing? Do they not see the appalling lack of readiness that is so apparent to everyone else?

Did they not see what happened to the USS John McCain? Did they not see what happened to the USS Fitzgerald? Did they not see all of those suicides carrying the dead bodies of America's young coming home to families in grief? Do they not see them or do they see through them and throw them away?

What do they think when they hear respected men like Secretary Mattis say: "No enemy in the field has done more to harm the readiness of our military than sequestration"? What do they think when Secretary Mattis said, after 4 short years of retirement, when he returned to the Department of Defense, "I have been shocked by what I've seen about our readiness to fight"?

Is it just background noise? Does it not register with Democratic Senators? In fact, what must they think when they have been saying the exact same thing for years?

The junior Senator from Connecticut said the so-called sequester is another example of governing at its worst.

The junior Senator from New Jersey said: "It is blunt, brutal, and blind."

He gets bonus points for alliteration. The junior Senator from Virginia: "Sequestration is stupidity on steroids."

I could make that claim about a lot of things that have been said in this Chamber. The senior Senator from Washington: "We need to replace sequestration as quickly as possible"; although, apparently, not if it requires a vote on the Cotton amendment.

The junior Senator from Minnesota: "There are a lot of people suffering needlessly because of the sequester."

That is not a joke, even coming from him. I guess all of these cries of anguish are falling on deaf ears.

The senior Senator from New Hampshire: "The blind cuts of sequestration are not the right approach," but by all means, let's keep them in place rather than vote on the Cotton amendment.

The senior Senator from Connecticut: "The safety and strength of our Nation also requires that Congress eliminate the rightly maligned sequestration straightjacket for all Federal programs"—maligned, yet not repealed.

My favorite is by the senior Senator from Rhode Island, the senior Democrat on the Armed Services Committee: "Instead of dodging fiscal responsibility, Republicans need to help end sequestration and get back to a normal budget process."

Republicans gave you a perfect example with which to do that, sir, and you turned it down.

That is what this amendment would have done, but now we will not have a single dime more for the military. We will not give a dime more to FEMA or to the Federal Weather Service or to NOAA or to NASA or what have you. We will not give one penny more to all of those domestic priorities that the Democrats claim to care about it. It turns out that they must not care that much about them or maybe I am being too harsh. Maybe they do like them a lot. They like using them to gin up political support because, when the time came, they actually put their money where their mouths were, they walked away.

The Democrats will tell you that they oppose this amendment because it will not repeal the automatic sequester of mandatory spending. Don’t give me that. That is nonsense. That is pure pretext. The automatic sequester consists of a small, almost trivial number of cuts, and it would not have affected one penny—not one penny—of Social Security or Medicare or veterans’ benefits.

Here is what is most important. Every single Democratic Senator has voted to extend that mandatory sequester into the foreseeable future. So, far from thinking it is a problem, they have voted to extend its life.

Hey, how about I strike a new deal? Here is my offer. I will support your hiding behind procedural niceties, hiding in your cloakroom, and not voting on my amendment, if you will agree to do one thing—to go home, in person, to your military bases that are in your home States and explain to the men and women of our Armed Forces, face-to-face, why you could not bring yourselves not just to repeal those spending cuts but not even to be tough enough to take a vote one way or the other.

The leader of New York and tell the men and women of the 10th Mountain Division at Fort Drum.

The Democratic Senate can go to the Naval Station Great Lakes.

The senior Senator from Rhode Island—the senior Democrat on the Armed Services Committee—can go to the Naval War College.

The junior Senator from Missouri can go to the 131st Bomb Wing.

The junior Senator from New York can go to the soldiers at Fort Drum as well.

The senior Senator from New Hampshire can go to the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

The junior Senator from Hawaii can go to the dozen different military bases in Hawaii, while the senior Senator from Hawaii can go to 20 different military installations in his State.

The senior Senator from Connecticut can go to the Groton submarine base.

The senior Senator from Indiana can go to the AM General in South Bend, whose manufacturing he always touts for political purposes.

The junior Senator from Virginia can go to Norfolk or the Pentagon or Fort Myer or to any one of the numerous bases in Virginia.

The junior Senator from Maine can go to Bath Iron Works.

The junior Senator from New Mexico can go to the Kirtland and Cannon Air Forces bases.

The junior Senator from Michigan can go to General Dynamics, outside Detroit.

Also, the senior Senator from Massachusetts could shake hands with all 115,563 of the people in her State whose jobs are directly tied to defending our Nation. Every one of those Democrats who sits on the Senate Armed Services Committee has claimed to want to stop these automatic spending cuts can go home and tell the men and women in uniform in his State that he had a chance to vote on it and that he was too cowardly to even put his name on the rolls.

He can look at the Americans in the eye and say: Sorry, just politics—hope you understand.

That is all this is. It is politics of the lowest kind. In maneuvering, posturing, and posing, they are caving to the demands of the Democratic leader simply because he wants more leverage for more pork-barrel spending when we had a budget deal that was negotiated in secret in December. He twisted their arms, and they screamed like little kids. They are aligning ahead of our troops. They are holding our troops hostage to politics solely because their leader wants them to.

If they were not, they would allow a vote on this amendment. They would vote aye, not no. They have eagerly, and they would vote aye enthusiastically, but they cannot even do that. They cannot even put their names down as a yes or a no on something that they have all said that they have supported for years.

They just hide behind procedure. They hide in their cloakroom. They hide from the voters. They hide in the back corridors and hallways of this building. They hide to save their own skin. They hide because they are ashamed, and they sure as hell should be ashamed.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Readiness, I would like to make a statement for the record regarding an item of special interest inserted into the committee report on the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018 related to the Department of Defense’s use of its intellectual property rights of certain medical products.

The committee report includes language that purports to direct the Department of Defense to exercise its rights under the Bayh-Dole Act “to authorize third parties that benefited from DOD funding whenever the price of a drug, vaccine, or other medical technology is higher in the United States” as compared to prices in foreign countries. I am concerned that the report language is inconsistent with the original intent of Bayh-Dole and could hinder critical medical developments.

The committee report includes language that purports to direct the Department of Defense to exercise its rights under the Bayh-Dole Act “to authorize third parties that benefited from DOD funding whenever the price of a drug, vaccine, or other medical technology is higher in the United States” as compared to prices in foreign countries. I am concerned that the report language is inconsistent with the original intent of Bayh-Dole and could hinder critical medical developments.

Americans, including our men and women in uniform, must have access to affordable healthcare, including prescribed drugs and medical technologies. However, I fear the committee report directive in question will slow future innovation, lead to a more complex and burdensome regulatory scheme, and make it less likely that our military personnel will be able to access cutting-edge medicines in the future, while doing nothing meaningful to address healthcare costs. The DOD relies on its partnerships with industry to develop vaccines, drugs, and diagnostics that target unique threats faced by our warfighters during operations in theater. As such, the biopharmaceutical industry plays a critical role in enhancing our military and civilian defenses against biological, chemical, radiological, and nuclear threats.

Federal agencies, such as the DOD, already face significant challenges in attracting top drug and vaccine developers as partners to develop lifesaving medical countermeasures necessary to protect the warfighter. These challenges include low procurement quantities for Federal contracting regulations, and inconsistency in funding, among others. The added risk of diluting or compromising intellectual property protections as a means of leveraging them will not only fail to meet its objective, but will serve as an additional deterrent to private sector development of critical medical capabilities offered by DOD.

Furthermore, companies who partner with the Federal Government rely heavily on the strength and scope of their intellectual property to generate investment to take their technologies to commercialization. The report language invokes the Bayh-Dole Act, the purpose of which is to encourage the prompt commercialization of federally funded patents. Prior to Bayh-Dole, collaborations between private industry and public entities were rare. The act has fostered a delicate balance of incentives between Federal agencies, public research institutions, and private industry that have resulted in the commercialization of inventions for use by all Americans, especially in the area of medical countermeasures for servicemen and women.

In the drug development context, Federal funding under the Bayh-Dole Act has facilitated the discovery of 153 marketed drugs and vaccines over the last 30 years. The act included the creation of so-called march-in rights to allow agencies to compel additional licensing if good-faith efforts toward development are not being made. Agencies can also march-in if a licensee cannot manufacture in sufficient quantities to meet a national emergency. It is these provisions to which the report language refers and I believe inappropriately expands the statute’s reach to include Federal price controls and increases the scope of the government’s authority.

Nothing in the Bayh-Dole Act, whether in march-in rights or otherwise, provides a Federal agency the authority to influence the price of a commercialized invention. Regulating the price of commercialized intellectual property was never intended by Congress when passing the Bayh-Dole Act, as evident by the Senate and House reports. Congress contemplated the use of march-in rights only “when the invention is not being used.” Further, Senators Bayh and Dole have subsequently explained that the absence of any reference to reasonable pricing in the statute was intentional. Senator Bayh—the author of and driving force behind the Bayh-Dole Act—has said: Any attempt to use the Bayh-Dole Act to support price controls is a “flagrant misrepresent[a]tion” of Congress’s purpose in enacting the statute. Consistent with this position, a Federal agency has never invoked the Bayh-Dole Act to interfere with the price of a commercialized invention. I am aware of petitions to both the NIH and the DOD requesting march-in rights be exercised on the basis of pricing, and in all of those cases, the petitions were rejected in accordance with the law.

The committee report language seeks to authorize something that the statute itself does not. I believe the item of special interest does not accurately reflect the current intent of Congress with respect to the Bayh-Dole Act, and I encourage the DOD to continue to rely on the existing interpretation of Bayh-Dole law when addressing these matters.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I want to thank Senator McCAIN and Senator REED for including, and the DOD requesting march-in rights be exercised on the basis of pricing, and in all of those cases, the petitions were rejected in accordance with the law.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I want to thank Senator McCAIN and Senator REED for their leadership in producing the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2018. Both veterans, they have a particular understanding of the sacrifices that members of our Armed Services make every day.

Every year, this authorization bill is drafted to reflect our commitment to the men and women serving in uniform, to authorize resources needed to maintain our national security, and to demonstrate the values and principles on which our country was founded. While I believe this bill reflects many sound defense policies, I regrettably cannot support its passage.

Yet again, this Defense authorization bill continues to include the shameful and counterproductive measures that block us from ending the terrorist recruitment tool that is the Guantanamo Bay detention mission, but the core reason for my opposition to this bill is the reckless price tag its implementation would authorize. The Administration has requested $13.3 billion in Defense spending, far above the caps currently established by the Budget Control Act and far more than the increase requested by the President in his budget proposal. If we met this authorization with real dollars, sequestration would take effect for Defense spending. Secretary Mattis has testified about the perils of sequestration. His message was clear: We must raise the budget caps.

What is more, this authorization relies on the same tired gimmick we have seen for years and includes $60 billion in overseas contingency operations funding. For fiscal hawks who call for us to reign in Federal spending to reduce the deficit, we cannot continue to treat OCO funds as privileged dollars—outside the scope of our budget caps—as a means to pay for what should be base spending.

Further, we cannot unilaterally boost Defense spending without similarly addressing other budgets that contribute to our national security. Earlier this year, in a hearing before the Senate Appropriations Defense Subcommittee, Secretary Mattis clearly and fairly explained why it is pretty clear, nations that did not keep their fiscal house in order and their economies strong lost their military power.” We cannot simply raise spending for the Department of Defense without investing in programs that advance our diplomatic missions overseas and strengthen our domestic security through economic development, infrastructure improvements, environmental protections, and that meet the core needs of all Americans. Inflating our Defense spending at the cost of all other programs makes us neither stronger nor more secure.

I do want to thank Senator McCAIN and Senator REED for including, and the DOD requesting march-in rights be exercised on the basis of pricing, and in all of those cases, the petitions were rejected in accordance with the law.

rural communities across that island. Bay Clinic is the primary healthcare provider to 6 of the 10 poorest ZIP Codes in the entire State of Hawaii, where many residents went years without having health coverage. Thanks to the Affordable Care Act, the Bay Clinic has successfully enrolled thousands of people, and many more people in Medicaid and decreased the number of uninsured patients who have gone through their doors. It is astounding what the numbers show.

The patients who have gone through their doors has been cut from 29 percent in 2010 to only 10 percent in 2015. That is how many more people on the island of Hawaii are able to get healthcare coverage. Over that same time period, the Bay Clinic has seen an almost 20-percent increase in the number of patients it has served every year.

In the years following the passage of the ACA, the Bay Clinic and community health centers all across Hawaii have hired more doctors and nurses, and they have expanded the types of services that they provide. The Bay Clinic, for example, has expanded its Mobile Health Unit, by which doctors go to rural communities, such as in Keaau, where residents would otherwise not have access to primary care providers.

This program and others like it in Hawaii and across the country face an imminent threat from this newest version of TrumpCare. Unfortunately, this bill’s devastating cuts to Medicaid are only part of what makes it so mean and so dangerous.

It eliminates all premium subsidies that allow lower income Americans to afford coverage, and it eliminates cost-sharing subsidies that reduce out-of-pocket expenses for consumers. These are the very issues relating to the Affordable Care Act that Chairman LAMAR ALEXANDER and Ranking Member Ranking Member McCaskill have been addressing through regular order—how to provide healthcare for more people in our country.

The Graham-Cassidy bill creates a process by which States can receive waivers to roll back essential health benefits and eliminate important consumer protections, like guaranteed coverage for millions of Americans who are living with preexisting conditions—people like me.

I have said many times on the floor of the Senate that we are all only one diagnosis away from a major illness. Every day, 6,540 people are diagnosed with cancer in our country. There are 4,109 who are diagnosed with diabetes. There are 1,309 who are diagnosed with Alzheimer’s disease every day in this country. We are all one diagnosis away from a major illness. These are people like me—many of them—going about their business when, whom, suddenly, you get a devastating diagnosis. Not all of these people will have health insurance, and under this version of TrumpCare, even more of them will not have access to it.

When I was diagnosed with kidney cancer, I had insurance. Instead of worrying about how to pay for my treatment, I could focus on fighting my illness. No one facing cancer, heart disease, diabetes, or any other chronic or life-threatening medical condition—or, I should say, any kind of circumstance in which one needs to have access to a healthcare provider—should have to worry about whether one can afford the care that might, one day, save one’s life—not in the richest country in the world, not where healthcare should be a right and not a privilege.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. ERNST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MORAN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. ERNST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there be up to 20 minutes of debate, equally divided, under the control of Senators McCain and Reid, following the first vote this evening.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 545 WITHDRAWN

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, amendment No. 545 is withdrawn.

AMENDMENT NO. 1003, AS MODIFIED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, amendment No. 1003, as modified, is agreed to.

CLOTURE MOTION

The PRESIDING OFFICER, Pursuant to rule XXII, the Chair lays before the Senate the pending cloture motion, which the clerk will state.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

CLOTURE MOTION

We, the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, do hereby move to bring to a close debate on Calendar No. 175, H.R. 2810, an act to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2018 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call has been waived.

The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on H.R. 2810, an act to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2018 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes, as amended, shall be brought to a close?

The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. CORNYN. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. GRAHAM) and the Senator from Florida (Mr. RUBIO).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Florida (Mr. RUBIO) would have voted "yea."

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 90, the nays are 7.

Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn having voted in the affirmative, the motion is agreed to.

Under the previous order, there will now be 20 minutes of debate, equally divided, between the Senator from Arizona, Mr. McCaskill, and the Senator from Rhode Island, Mr. REED.

The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. REED. Thank you, Mr. President. As we approach the final vote on the fiscal year 2018 national defense authorization bill, I would like to make a few closing comments.

When we began considering this bill last week, Senator MCCAIN and I were interested in returning to regular order and having a chance to debate and vote on any amendment that needed a vote. We actually started off very well.

While I disagreed with Senator PAUL’s amendment to sunset the current authorization for the use of military force, I am pleased we were able to follow regular order on his amendment and have a debate. It is my hope that we can use this as a step to restore regular order on his amendment and have a debate. It is my hope that we can use this as a step to restore regular order on his amendment and have a debate. It is my hope that we can use this as a step to restore regular order on his amendment and have a debate.

As a result of this process, several issues that are important to both sides were not fully considered. On the Democratic side, Senators BALDWIN, STABENOW, and DONELLY had very precisely addressed the threats we face and resolved the issue, which is very critical, that Senator PAUL has raised; that is, updating the AUMF.

After the Paul amendment, however, we were unable to come to an agreement. As a result, several issues that are important to both sides were not fully considered. On the Democratic side, Senators BALDWIN, STABENOW, and DONELLY had very important amendments that would have ensured better protection for American women and that our servicemembers receive high-quality, domestically produced equipment.

In addition, Senator DURBIN had an important amendment that supports the world-class medical research DOD conducts and has a profound impact on the health of our servicemembers and citizens alike. Senator SANDERS had a discussion on the INF Treaty, and Senator GILLIBRAND was interested in a full debate on protections for military personnel who are transgender.

As I indicated, I also know there are Members on the other side of the aisle who also had important issues they wanted to discuss. As a result of this process, several important issues that are important to both sides were not fully considered. On the Democratic side, Senators BALDWIN, STABENOW, and DONELLY had very important amendments that would have ensured better protection for American women and that our servicemembers receive high-quality, domestically produced equipment.

We have already spent so much time this year having this fight—time we could have spent working on a bipartisan basis to improve our health care system and lower costs. We voted decisively to return this bill to the Senate. With these votes, Senators on both sides of the aisle decided we would return to regular order and work toward bipartisan health care solutions that could get at least 60 votes in this body.

As I have highlighted, this kind of bipartisan approach is why we have been successful in bringing the NDAA to the floor each year, and Senators ALEXANDER and MURRAY have been doing just that with respect to the HELP Committee. We have heldhearings over the last two weeks, with witnesses from both parties, from Governors to health insurance commissioners, to leaders in the industry. I have great confidence in my colleagues and their ability to craft a bipartisan bill to improve the ACA that a majority of Senators could support. This is a bipartisan, inclusive process, and I should note, it is undertaken by one of the most knowledgeable committees in Congress, the Senate Finance Committee.

So for my Republican colleagues to now decide, after this critical work is already underway, that we are going to scratch those efforts and return instead to a partisan process, in which not even Republican Senators have had the opportunity to fully review the bill, make changes or even get analysis of the bill, I think that process is wrong. Let’s be fooled by the new effort. The legislation would have the same effects as the other versions of TrumpCare we saw rejected.

We have heard the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee will hold a hearing on the latest version of TrumpCare. This is not the right process. It is not representative of the legislative process.

I would urge my colleagues to reject this approach and, rather, follow the example I think we have tried to set in which amendments are offered by both sides, in which debate is undertaken, in which we come to a conclusion based on 60 votes and move forward to improve the country, particularly to protect the men and women in the armed services.

With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. LANKFORD). The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, today the Senate will vote on final passage of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018. This is the culmination of months of bipartisan work, and it is a product in which all Senators and all Americans can take great pride. I want to thank once again, my friend and colleague the Senator from Rhode Island. His partnership on this legislation has been invaluable.

The fundamental purpose of this legislation, which has united Senators on both sides of the aisle to pro- vide our Armed Forces what they need to do the jobs we ask of them. We, in this body, have no higher duty than to do everything we can to support our fellow Americans who serve and sacrifice on our behalf.

This legislation does that. It keeps faith with our men and women in uniform. It supports a national defense budget of $700 billion for fiscal year 2018, which exceeds the administration’s request by $27 billion and the defense spending caps in the Budget Control Act by $91 billion. The decision of the Committee on Armed Services to authorize these additional resources was unanimous and bipartisan, and it will strengthen the legislation. In the example I think we have tried to set in which amendments are offered by both sides, in which debate is undertaken, in which we come to a conclusion based on 60 votes and move forward to improve the country, particularly to protect the men and women in the armed services.

My friends, for too long, our Nation has asked our men and women in uniform to do too much with far too little. Much of the blame lies with the last administration, but we in Congress cannot escape responsibility. Our military’s job is hard enough, but we are making it harder through continuing resolutions, unpredictable funding, and arbitrary spending caps that we put in place 6 years ago. The use of ISIS, before the current crisis with North Korea, before Russia’s return to aggression on the world stage, and before so many other dangerous developments.

We have been warned—we have been warned, my friends—that we can’t go on like this. We have been warned. Earlier this year, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Joseph Dunford, warned us: ‘‘In just a few years if we don’t change the trajectory, we will lose our qualitative and our quantitative competitive edge, and the consequences will be profound.’’ The Secretary of Defense, Jim Mattis, also warned us, saying: “We are no longer managing risk; we are now gambling.”

We are gambling, my friends. We are gambling with the lives of the best among us, and we are now seeing the cost—foreseen and unforeseen—and the cost of an overworked, strained force, with aging equipment and not enough of it.

On June 17, seven sailors were killed when the USS Fitzgerald collided with a container ship off the coast of Japan. On July 10, a Marine KC-130 crash in Mississippi killed all 16 troops on board. On August 5, an Osprey helicopter crash off the coast of Australia resulted in the deaths of three Marines. On August 15, an Army helicopter crashed off the coast of Hawaii, with five soldiers presumed dead. On August 21, 10 sailors perished when the USS McCain collided with a tanker near Singapore. On August 25, an Army Black Hawk helicopter went down during a training mission off the coast of Yemen, killing a soldier. Earlier this month in Nevada, two Air Force A-10 aircraft crashed into each other. Thank God the pilots safely ejected, but the planes were lost, at a cost of over $100 million.

Just last week—just last week, as we debated this legislation—there were additional accidents. Last Tuesday, one soldier died during helicopter training at Fort Hood. Last Wednesday, an amphibious vehicle explosion at Camp Pendleton injured 15 marines. Last Thursday, a demolition accident at Fort Bragg killed another soldier and injured seven others.

My friends, more of our men and women in uniform are now being killed in totally avoidable training accidents and routine operations than by our enemies in combat. Let me repeat that. More of our men and women in uniform are now being killed in totally avoidable training accidents and routine operations than by our enemies in combat.

Where is the outrage? Where is our sense of urgency to deal with this problem? Congress can criticize this administration or the last administration all we want, and there is plenty of blame to go around, but the constitutional responsibility is to “raise and support Armies” and “provide and maintain a Navy.” That responsibility is ours. How can we believe that we are meeting our responsibilities when young Americans in uniform are not receiving the necessary resources and capabilities to perform their missions? My friends, that blame rests with us, the Congress.

I know many of my colleagues agree. I have heard them—both Republicans and Democrats—speak for years about the harmful effects sequestration is having on our military and many other Federal agencies with a national security mission. Do we expect our failure to deal with this problem last week? We had an opportunity. This legislation was open for amendments under regular order for an entire week.

There was an amendment offered by the Senator from Arkansas to repeal sequestration. The amendment was written in a bipartisan way and would have ended sequestration, not only for defense but nondefense spending as well. We had an opportunity to tell all of our constituents that the Senate finally was doing everything it could to support them. We had an opportunity, and we failed. Worse than that, we didn’t even try. We couldn’t even agree to vote.

It makes me so angry, but more than that it makes me sad. It breaks my heart.

How do we explain our failure to our men and women who are serving? How do we explain to Americans who are risking their lives for us that we could not summon the courage to take some hard votes? How can we explain we couldn’t come together and vote together when it mattered most? How do we explain the signal our inaction sends to all who are serving that Congress has higher priorities than rebuilding our military? We should be ashamed of ourselves.

For those of you who will soon vote for this National Defense Authorization Act, which will authorize the necessary resources to begin rebuilding our military, let me thank you; let me thank you. You can be proud that you are voting for a good piece of legislation, but this legislation is only part of the solution. We still have no path to actually appropriate the money that we are about to authorize. That requires a bipartisan agreement to adjust the spending caps in the Budget Control Act.

For all of you who will join me in voting to authorize these vital additional resources for our military, I would urge you to join me in demanding and passing a bipartisan agreement so that we can appropriate those resources. This will require some hard work. It will require some teamwork and some trust in each other. It will require courage of our convictions. But in the end, it will require much less of us than the service and sacrifice we ask every day from our men and women in uniform, which they so dutifully provide us.

I do want to have to call another grieving mother or father or spouse after their loved one has perished in a mishap that might have been prevented if Congress had done its job. Let’s find a way to appropriate the resources for our military that we will soon authorize. Our men and women in uniform deserve no less.

Mr. President, I will suggest a short quorum call while we get these final agreed-upon amendments on the bill at this time. It shouldn’t take more than 3 or 4 minutes.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

(c) DEPLOYMENT.—Not later than December 31, 2021, the Secretary shall—

(1) execute any requisite construction to ensure that Multi-Site Field 1 or Missile Field 2 at Fort Greely or alternative missile fields at Fort Greely be identified pursuant to subsection (b), are capable of supporting and sustaining additional ground-based interceptors;

(2) deploy up to 14 additional ground-based interceptors to Missile Field 1 or up to 20 additional ground-based interceptors to an alternative missile field at Fort Greely as soon as technically feasible; and

(3) identify a ground-based interceptor stockpile storage site for the remaining ground-based interceptors required by subsection (b).

(d) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Unless otherwise directed or recommended by the Missile Defense Review (MDR), the Director of the Missile Defense Agency shall submit to the congressional defense committees, not later than 90 days after the completion of the Ballistic Missile Defense Review, a report on options to increase the capacity, capability, and reliability of the ground-based midcourse defense element of the ballistic missile defense system and the infrastructure requirements for increasing the number of ground-based interceptors in currently feasible locations across the United States.

(2) CONTENTS.—The report required by paragraph (1) shall include the following:

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the mandatory quorum call be waived.

Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Illinois.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill clerk read the nomination of William J. Emanuel, of California, to be a Member of the National Labor Relations Board.

Mr. DURBIN. The President, the Senate has spent a great deal of time over the last 6 or 7 months on healthcare in America. For years after the passage of the Affordable Care Act, the Republican Party—the House and Senate—has called for repeal of the bill. Yet, when the time came, with the majority of Republicans in the House and the Senate and, of course, a Republican President, and the task was immediately before them, they faltered because they didn’t have a replacement. They didn’t have something to propose that was better. As a consequence, their efforts stopped short—one vote short—on the floor of the Senate several weeks ago.

We still face some significant challenges. Some of those are very immediate.

Before the end of September, we will face the prospect of needing to reauthorize the Children’s Health Insurance Program, known as CHIP. This program provides health insurance coverage for more than 9 million children and pregnant women across the country—350,000 in my State. This vital program, the CHIP program, has had two decades of broad bipartisan support, and it is going to expire in 12 days.

The good news is that the Finance Committee chairman, ORRIN HATCH of Utah, and his ranking member, ROY Wyden of Oregon, have reached a bipartisan agreement on a 5-year reauthorization of the CHIP program.
The bad news is that instead of preserving healthcare for low-income children and pregnant women, the Senate Republican leadership seems more interested in the next 12 days in calling a different issue—a different bill—altogether, the Graham-Cassidy bill, relating to balance across America. That bill would take health insurance coverage away from millions of Americans, including 1 million in the State of Illinois.

From where I am sitting, reauthorizing the CHIP program is a priority to not only serve the 9 million children and pregnant women across our country but 350,000 in my State.

There is another bill we need to reauthorize before the end of September: the funding of our Nation’s community health centers. Like CHIP, funding for community health centers expires at the end of this month—in just a few days. Also like CHIP, community health centers have enjoyed decades of broad bipartisan support. We have 10,000 community health centers across our country. They serve 26 million Americans. Community health centers serve 1 out of every 10 children, 1 in 6 Americans living in rural areas, and more than 330,000 of our Nation’s veterans.

Illinois’ 52 health center organizations receive $150 million in Federal funding in order to provide care to the 1.3 million people in 360 locations in the State. I have been to many of these locations, and I have said in real candor and honesty that if I had a medical issue or if there were one in my family, I would enter the community health centers in my State with confidence that I and my family would receive the very best of care. They are outstanding organizations.

If Congress doesn’t act within 12 days, community health centers in my State and across the Nation will see 1.3 million people in 360 locations in the Nation’s community health centers closing across America, 50,000 jobs lost, and 9 million people losing access to healthcare.

Well, there is good news here as well. Because of Senators BLUNT and STABENOW taking the lead, they are pushing for swift reauthorization of community health center funding. But the problem is that there is another bill—the Graham-Cassidy bill—which has captured the attention and apparently the calendar time for the Senate—at least that is the possibility we hear. So why shouldn’t Congress be spending the next 12 crucial days reauthorizing the Children’s Health Insurance Program across America and making certain our community health centers don’t lose the critical Federal funding they need to serve so many people?

Right now, we know we face some challenges when it comes to the health insurance marketplace, with more than 50 percent of these people receiving some subsidies to help pay for costs. However, many of these people are seeing dramatic increases in premiums. We know that, and we know it is a challenge and one we need to address.

Here is the good news—and it is time for some good news when it comes to healthcare. Almost from the minute that the critical vote was cast ending the repeal, these negotiations started taking place. I can recall, as the Senate was adjourning, I looked back by the cloakroom, and there was Senator LAMAR ALEXANDER and Senator PATTY MURRAY talking in the morning. I went back to my office at 3 o’clock in the morning. I later learned that they had reached an agreement between them—a Republican, a Democrat—on the HELP Committee to start a series of hearings about what we could do as a Senate to actually strengthen the healthcare system in America. That was before our August recess.

When we got back from recess, they had kept their word. I attended three or four of the Member hearings, which were held in the public and private settings, public hearings a little later in the morning. These were good meetings. At the first one, I recall Senator ALEXANDER saying 53 Senators—Democrats and Republicans—showed up for coffee and doughnuts to talk to the community health centers from five different States. Just a few days after that, there was another coffee-and-doughnut session, another good bipartisan turnout of Senators as we sat down with five Governors, Democrats and Republicans, who talked about health insurance. A few days later, another meeting took place where experts came in and talked about the subject.

I felt the Senate was more accomplished in those 3 hours with those outstanding witnesses from across the country than all of the time we had spent giving speeches to one another on the floor of the Senate in the previous 7 months. It was inclusive of these people from different States, different political parties, and they virtually had the same thing to tell us. There were a handful of things which we could do that could make an immediate, positive impact to make the cost of health insurance a lot more predictable—not to say we are going to bring the cost down—I don’t want to be overpromising—but to slow the rate of growth in health insurance costs as well as provide stability in the insurance market.

Here are the things that came out loud and clear from these bipartisan Senate meetings.

First, they told us to stop playing games with cost-sharing reduction subsidies. These are subsidies to insurance companies that take on individuals with expensive health histories. These insurance companies are given support by subsidies so that they can keep the premium costs for these individuals under control.

These cost-sharing reduction subsidies help 7 million Americans afford their copayments and deductibles on their health insurance policies. The current Trump administration has repeatedly threatened to stop the payments. As a result, individual market premium prices keep going up because of the uncertainty of what is going to happen. I don’t want to be overpromising—but to keep its promise to make these cost-reduction subsidies.

I remember the commissioner from the State of South Carolina told us, I say to the Senator from Oregon, who is the ranking Democrat on Finance Committee—he said: I am going to announce a 30-percent increase in health insurance premiums. If I knew that these cost-sharing reduction subsidies were coming, it would be 10 percent. I can eliminate 20 percent of the anticipated increase in premium costs if these subsidies come through.

It is pretty clear to me, this is sound policy, on a bipartisan basis, which would have a dramatic impact in reducing the cost of health insurance for many individuals. That came through loud and clear in every meeting we had with Senators MURRAY and ALEXANDER.

The second thing they talked about was State reinsurance, which could help our healthcare system even more in States where the State picks up a share of the liability for health insurance between certain dollar amounts so the private insurance companies don’t end up with that burden. Because of this reinsurance, they are able to keep premium costs down.

The third thing is to provide States with more flexibility without undermining some really fundamental issues—without undermining, for example, the preexisting condition protection we currently have. I left those meetings feeling encouraged.

After 7 months of bitter political rhetoric, which led to nothing on the floor of the Senate, we were finally sitting down, on a bipartisan basis, with Democrats and Republicans all across our country with specific suggestions—which could help our healthcare system move forward. That, to me, is the lesson learned from much wasted time so far this year. Unfortunately, this whole effort may be derailed.

Senators CASSIDY and GRAHAM have come up with a legislative alternative they want to move forward. Unfortunately, the measure they have proposed has not been scored by the Congressional Budget Office nor carefully measured to find out what impact it would have on the American healthcare system, which accounts for one-sixth of the American national economy.

Here is what we know about the Cassidy-Graham proposal. What they are suggesting is basically eliminating the subsidies which help individuals pay for private health insurance and bringing to a halt the Medicaid expansion which has covered millions of Americans and given them health insurance.

What they say instead is something which has been said many times on the floor: We will just give all the money to the Governors, and they will figure it out. They will figure out how to save money in their States. It turns out, Governors of both political parties warn us: If you are going to give us a set amount of money as the cost of healthcare, then you expect us to get rid of, we don’t expect us to cover as many people or provide as good a coverage if we do it on a State-by-State basis.

So who supports this new Cassidy-Graham approach and who opposes it? Everyone from medical advocacy groups, the hospitals, the doctors, the nurses—all across America oppose this Cassidy-Graham approach, as well as the medical advocacy groups, because they understand their approach would allow discrimination against individuals insured on a history of preexisting conditions—going back to the bad old days before we passed the Affordable Care Act.

The Cassidy-Graham approach, which they taught to us, doesn’t add up. If you take $300 billion or $400 billion out of this healthcare system, dump it into the laps of Governors across this country and say, “Good luck. Do it on a local basis. I am sure it will all work out,” Congress has handed back to the States to work out. It does not compute. It may be able to check the box from some things to repeal the Affordable Care Act, but they certainly didn’t replace it with anything of equal or better value. The opposite is true. That is why I think we ought to think twice.

There is a mad dash now in the last 12 days to do many things. From a political viewpoint, there is a limited opportunity for this repeal effort. That 12-day period is a limited window under the Senate rules of reconciliation. It is a mistake, as far as I am concerned, for us to move toward Cassidy-Graham—concepts which have been roundly opposed in my State and across the Nation, concepts which have failed on the floor of the Senate.

Let us roll up our sleeves and do three things that do make sense: Let’s reauthorize the Children’s Health Insurance Program. Let’s make sure those kids and their pregnant moms are going to have the basic coverage they have enjoyed for almost 20 years.

Let’s also reauthorize the community health centers. We know that people who have a medical home, they are less likely to let medical conditions get worse and more expensive. That, to me, is a good investment to make sure they continue.

Finally, let’s turn toward a real bipartisan effort, a measure which can emerge soon—I hope within days—from Senators MURRAY and ALEXANDER on a bipartisan basis. I know they are still working on it. They haven’t reached a final agreement on what they are doing, but I hope all of us, in both political parties, will encourage them to do the right thing.

Remember when JOHN MCCAIN came to the floor after he had been diagnosed with the cancer he is battling now. He came here and cast a crucial vote to proceed to debate this whole issue of healthcare. Then he asked to speak for 15 minutes, and I stayed in my chair. I wanted to tell the country that, in the view of most health professionals, we don’t expect the importance of doing things on a bipartisan basis and doing them thoughtfully when it comes to something as important as healthcare. Let us keep that speech by JOHN MCCAIN and that lesson close to our hearts. Now that is the lesson in this Cassidy-Graham approach, which has no support when it comes to the medical community, and instead work on the bipartisan approach from ALEXANDER and MURRAY, together with the Finance Committee—which I know Senator WYDEN is going to address next—so we can have a bipartisan solution.

The American people sent us here to solve problems, not to create them. Cassidy-Graham creates problems. Let’s find solutions which solve problems.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, before the Senator leaves the floor, I just want to draw attention to the central point the Senator from Illinois has been making tonight. He has been focused on what our duties to the American people are all about, which is to make their lives better and particularly to improve the quality of their healthcare, which is a lifeline for millions of families.

Now, instead of looking at bipartisan approaches to make the lives of our people better—Chairman HATCH and I introduced the children’s health bill today. Nine million youngsters with that program get better health. Instead of focusing on that, as my colleague from Illinois has said, we are going to be given a bill that will hurt our people, will give them worse healthcare, will go backward with respect to the march in our country to make sure we recognize that all our people—all our people—deserve quality and affordable healthcare.

I particularly appreciate my colleague pointing out the contrast between where we ought to go with a bipartisan proposal like the children’s health plan and where we shouldn’t go—which is the Graham-Cassidy-Heller proposal which is going to go backward with respect to the healthcare needs of our people.

The fact is, Graham-Cassidy-Heller has been exposed to sunlight for just a few days, but it is already clear this legislation is a bad deal for the American people.

Now, Senator CASSIDY has introduced healthcare bills before. Earlier this year, he introduced a bill with our colleague from Maine, Senator COLLINS, and I introduced a bill that the Senate Republican leadership put on offer. Now, I had my concerns with that proposal, but the first thing I want the Senate to understand is this Cassidy bill, which we will soon be considering, is much worse. The reason I say that is, this bill lowers the bar for legislation which has been hastily written and ill-considered. I want to be clear. This Cassidy bill will flank the Jimmy Kim-live a healthier, more productive life in their communities rather than in institutions.

That is just a little bit of the good Medicaid does for folks from Portland, OR, to Portland, ME. Under the Graham-Cassidy-Heller proposal, that is gone—simply gone. The plan ends expanded Medicaid coverage which 11 million Americans count on right now. It caps Medicaid and guts hundreds of billions of dollars in support from the Federal Government. In effect, it is like telling States, good luck, and telling them you can make the hard decisions about which Americans are going to get adequate healthcare and who are going to be those unfortunate souls who go without.

My view is, this is going to lead to destitution for older Americans who count on Medicaid for nursing home care, a transfer of dollars from States which expanded Medicaid to States which chose not to.

History tells us that the most vulnerable Americans without a voice or a power base, the ones who are going to be the worst off. Now, I have heard my colleagues—Senator Cassidy, in particular—claim that this bill is modeled on the Children’s Health Insurance Program—which is a block-granted program—and that means all supporters of CHIP should support Graham-Cassidy-Heller.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The Children’s Health Insurance Program has been an extraordinary and successful program for more than 20 years, now covering 9 million youngsters. Part of that success is due to its reliance on a strong Medicaid Program. If Medicaid and the rest of the healthcare system is block-granted and slashed by hundreds of billions of dollars, the pillars that support a successful Children’s Health Insurance Program will crumble. They will lose their structural support. A vote in favor of Graham-Cassidy-Heller will send our healthcare programs, like the Children’s Health Insurance Program and its promise of affordable healthcare for millions of kids and their families.

There is one more step that the Graham-Cassidy-Heller bill takes that is different from previous versions. Rather than reducing the tax credits that help Americans get help—similar to earlier Republican approaches—again, this just博客s them out, gets rid of them, gone. That means asking States to use their Federal health block grant for a whole host of competing healthcare priorities, in effect, pitting vulnerable Americans against each other and not having enough at the table to meet the critical needs of some of our most vulnerable people—people who, day in and day out, are walking on an economic tightrope, trying to balance their food costs against their rent or mortgage and their medical costs against housing.

Graham-Cassidy-Heller is a recipe for disaster. This proposal, again, opens loopholes for insurance companies that, as I described, we thought we had closed, thought we had finally closed the book on the days when healthcare wasn’t just for the healthy and wealthy. That is what happened when we had discrimination against those with preexisting conditions. If you had preexisting condition and you were wealthy—just pay the bill. If you didn’t have any preexisting conditions, there was nothing to worry about.

For the millions of people who finally got healthcare at night when we eliminated discrimination against those with preexisting conditions, this brings back that ugly prospect that a key consumer protection, the protection that bars discrimination against those who have preexisting conditions, is just tossed aside—just as what looks to be the setting aside of essential health benefits that all Americans are entitled to receive.

It was pretty obvious during the TrumpCare rollout that the consumer protections that our people count on today leads to the entire system falling apart, and the vulnerable bear the brunt of the pain. Many of my friends and neighbors have spent time in their voices and showing up to stop bad healthcare legislation. Thanks to their grassroots efforts, the partisan approach that I have described as being here again has been stopped multiple times.

I wanted to take this floor tonight to say to people in every community across our great country that, once again, we need people power. Once again, we need them to stand up and say that we don’t want to turn back the clock on the healthcare needs of the most vulnerable, like seniors and the disabled and our kids. Once again, we hope they will speak out all across the country.

I am going to be having townhall meetings this upcoming weekend after the Jewish holiday. You can be sure that I am going to hear a lot from the people of Oregon about this. I am very hopeful that, once again, people power around America is going to come forward and say to those who are talking about supporting Graham-Cassidy-Heller that this is a mistake, that they don’t want to turn back the clock with respect to healthcare; they want to move forward. Instead of turning back the clock, they are looking for leadership, not for a proposal that will hold down their prescription drug costs.

I have introduced legislation to require these companies to publicly justify raising their prices. We have had Senators introduce a host of bills. That is what we ought to be doing—talking about how we are going to improve American healthcare.

My colleague from Illinois mentioned the Children’s Health Insurance Program, which Chairman HATCH and I worked with our Finance colleagues to get introduced, and there is the Community Health Center Program. I could go on and on about opportunities for bipartisanism to take the country in the right direction rather than in the wrong direction. Instead, it doesn’t look as though that is going to be on offer any time soon. What is going to be on offer is a proposal that turns back the clock, guts Medicaid, harms seniors, harms children, harms young people, and I think would be a major mistake.

My bottom line has long been that for changes to the healthcare system to be sustainable and lasting, they have to be bipartisan. That is why I made an effort to get us to the point I was involved in. Several of my colleagues who co-sponsored the bill I am talking about have been supportive of that for quite some time.

We know Republicans and Democrats know how to write bipartisan legislation. But what the Graham-Cassidy-Heller bill seeks to do is just the opposite—to use the most deeply partisan process the Senate knows, called reconciliation. It basically says: Our way or the highway—no, or getting involved in trying to find common ground.

I will point out that didn’t end too well earlier when we talked about healthcare. I came to the floor tonight to make the case that we cannot let partisan reconciliation tactics win on this key issue. We ought to be working together to improve healthcare on a bipartisan basis, in a way that helps people all across the country.

I have mentioned—this is particularly important to me—a number of bills that colleagues on both sides of the aisle have worked on that would help improve the lives of the American people. Graham-Cassidy-Heller does not meet that test. I hope my colleagues will reject it, and I hope that all across the country, from one corner of America to every other, people will step up and they will say, as I have said on this floor: The political change doesn’t start in Washington, DC, and then trickle down; it is bottom up. It is people coming together, people standing up, as people come forward and say “That is not the way to go” and say “Here is the way that would really make sense and make our lives better.” I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS
100TH ANNIVERSARY OF MOUNT AIRY MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH
• Mr. BLUNT. Mr. President, today I stand to honor the 100th anniversary of the Mount Airy Missionary Baptist Church, located on Maffitt Avenue in St. Louis, MO. This impressive 100th anniversary milestone speaks volumes about the tremendous impact Mount Airy Church has had on its congregation, community, and the broader St. Louis community.

First organized as a prayer band on August 8, 1917, Mount Airy has had many homes throughout its 100-year history. Over its history, while its base home address might have changed, the Mount Airy membership and effect of its faith leadership grew.

Today Mount Airy is a thriving house of worship led by pastor Reverend Charles J. Brown, Sr. Pastor Brown received an honorary doctorate degree of divinity from Western Bible College, becoming the first pastor in the history of Mount Airy Missionary Baptist Church to receive an honorary degree.

Over the years, the church has expanded its ministries to engage more people and positively influence thousands of lives. Mount Airy Church has been innovative and compassionate in finding ways to reach their congregation and the community. The commitment of Pastor Brown, all of Mount Airy Missionary Baptist Church leadership, and its entire congregation to studying the word of God and faithfully living it sets an incredible example for all Missourians.

Congratulations again to all con-connected with Mount Airy Missionary Baptist Church on its 100-year anniversary.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. MCCONNELL:

S. 1824. A bill to reform the Appalachian Regional Commission, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, for decades, I have supported the Appalachian Regional Commission, or ARC, and its mission to invest in communities to strengthen economic growth throughout the Appalachian region.

As I have expressed before, however, I have grown frustrated by ARC’s shortcomings. Last year, the Senate considered an amendment to abolish ARC entirely. I voted against that proposal because I believe that the Commission still serves an important purpose, but since that time I’ve been calling on ARC to clarify its clouded focus.

For instance, because of ARC’s own rules, the most distressed counties in the region can only receive up to 30% of its area development funds. In other words, a substantial portion of the agency’s resources—which should be focused on alleviating poverty—are intentionally directed away from the counties most in need of help. This has been a criticism leveled against ARC for years. I believe that, if ARC serves a valid purpose today, then it is to assist the most impoverished counties in the region.

Moreover, while the other regional commissions are headquartered in the area they serve, ARC maintains its primary office right here in Washington, D.C. An expensive office near Dupont Circle, far away from the people and the communities it serves, is not the right place for ARC.

Today, I will introduce legislation along with my friend and longtime ARC champion, Congressman Hal Rogers, to make desperately needed reforms to ARC. Our bill is designed to reform the Commission, to focus its mission on investing more in the poorest Appalachian communities, and to direct ARC’s leadership to relocate the organization to the region it serves.

These commonsense reforms will help set ARC on a path toward fulfilling what should be its central mission—poverty alleviation—and delivering vital assistance to those who need it the most. I hope that all of my colleagues will join with me to move this legislation forward and provide necessary relief to communities in Appalachia.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2, 100th Congress

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the “Appalachian Regional Commission Reform Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS. (a) HEADQUARTERS.—Congress finds that—

(1) regional commissions, such as the Delta Regional Authority, the Denali Commission, and the Northern Border Regional Commission, are each headquartered in their respective region;

(2) headquarters of regional commissions within the region affected is a sensible approach to ensure that the commissions are housed in more affordable locations than the District of Columbia, thereby reducing administrative and making the commissions closer and more accountable to the people the commissions were designed to serve;

(3) the Appalachian Regional Commission (referred to in this Act as the “Commission”) is not headquartered in Appalachia but in Washington, D.C.; and

(4) the headquarters of the Commission should be relocated from the District of Columbia to a more affordable location in the Appalachian region so that it is closer and more accountable to the people the Commission was designed to serve.

(b) PERFORMANCE.—Congress finds that—

(1) the Commission was created to help foster economic opportunity and close health and educational disparities in a geographic region of the United States beleaguered by persistent poverty and high unemployment;

(2) the Commission remains the sole Federal agency focused singularly on economic revitalization in the Appalachian region;

(3) in 1966, Congress charged the Commission with “address[ing] the needs of severely and persistently distressed areas of the Appalachian region and focus[ing] special attention on the areas of greatest need”;

(4) the Commission has long been criticized for its shortcomings in fulfilling this mission, including in:

(A) a 1989 study titled “Mountain Money: Federal Aid and Miss the Mark in Appalachia” by Mark Ferencich and Jill Ripenhoff for the Columbus Dispatch; and

(B) a 2008 book titled “Uneven Ground: Appalachia Since 1946” by Ronald D. Eller;

(5) in 2004, the Office of Management and Budget noted the importance of the Commission’s mission (“focusing effort...targeting assistance to areas of distress”);

(6) in 2017, Citizens Against Government Waste characterized the programming of the Commission as “wrongheaded,” and called for drastic reductions in the budget of the Commission;

(7) in 2017, the Office of Management and Budget, finding in the Appendix to its 2018 budget request submitted, that these recent actions reflect a growing chorus that the Commission should be reformed; and

(8) the long-recognized shortcomings of the Commission, the longstanding criticism of the Commission, and the need to ensure its optimal performance, the time has arrived for the Commission to be reformed.

(c) PERSISTENT POVERTY.—Congress finds that—

(1) according to the study by the Columbus Dispatch referred to in subsection (b)(4)(A), of the 22,169 grants issued by the Commission from fiscal year 1966 through fiscal year 1998, none of the 5 counties that received the most Commission funding was considered distressed, and more than ¼ of all Commission spending during that period went to States with few, if any, distressed counties;

(2) according to author Ronald D. Eller in 2014, “[the Commission] policies have contributed to a few ‘growth centers’ in the [Appalachian] region, expanding services to the poor and growing the mountain middle class, but doing little to help the distressed counties or to address systemic political or economic inequalities throughout Appalachia”;

(3) until 1995, the Commission allocated up to 20 percent of its area development grants for use in distressed counties;

(4) following instructions given to the Commission by the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and the House of Representatives in 1995, this allocation was increased by the Commission to 30 percent;

(5) section 7.5(c) of the Code of the Commission (as in effect on the date of enactment of this Act) reflects this 1995 policy directive, which states that ‘not less than 50 percent of total appropriations, for the Area Development Program to counties described in program and’; and

(6) the 1995 policy directive was reflected in the fiscal year 2018 budget request submitted, which stated that ‘not less than 50 percent of total appropriations, for the Area Development Program to counties described in program and’;

(7) in 2004, the Office of Management and Budget noted the importance of the Commission’s mission (as in effect on the date of enactment of this Act) reflects this 1995 policy directive, which states that ‘not less than 50 percent of total appropriations, for the Area Development Program to counties described in program and’;

(8) in 2017, the Office of Management and Budget, finding in the Appendix to its 2018 budget request submitted, that these recent actions reflect a growing chorus that the Commission should be reformed; and

(9) therefore, the 50 percent threshold in section 7.5(c) should be increased to 60 percent.

(d) AREA DEVELOPMENT FUNDING FOR DISTRESSED COUNTIES.—Congress finds that—

(1) according to the study by the Columbus Dispatch referred to in subsection (b)(4)(A), of the 22,169 grants issued by the Commission from fiscal year 1966 through fiscal year 1998, none of the 5 counties that received the most Commission funding was considered distressed, and more than ¼ of all Commission spending during that period went to States with few, if any, distressed counties;

(2) given the persistent levels of poverty in Appalachian communities, and to provide for the needs of severely and persistently distressed counties and areas the Appalachian Regional Commission shall be reformed.

(3) the Appalachian Regional Commission (referred to in this chapter as the ‘Commission’).

(4) the Committee shall be to focus primarily on poverty reduction and economic development in areas in the Appalachian region with the greatest levels of poverty;

SEC. 3. MISSION OF THE APPALACHIAN REGIONAL COMMISSION. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 14524(d) of title 40, United States Code, is amended by striking “50 percent” and inserting “60 percent”.

(b) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Federal Co-Chairman of the Commission shall take such actions as may be necessary to carry out the amendment made by section (a).

SEC. 4. HEADQUARTERS OF THE APPALACHIAN REGIONAL COMMISSION. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 14524(d) of title 40, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(g) HEADQUARTERS.—The headquarters of the Commission shall be located in the Appalachian region.”

(b) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Federal Co-Chairman of the Commission shall take such actions as may be necessary to carry out the amendment made by this section.

SEC. 5. GRANT EXPENDITURES.

Section 14524(d) of title 40, United States Code, is amended by striking “50 percent” and inserting “60 percent”.

SEC. 6. AREA DEVELOPMENT FUNDS FOR DISTRESSED COUNTIES.

Section 14526(b) of title 40, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “In program and” and inserting the following:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—In program and”;

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) AREA DEVELOPMENT FUNDS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Of the funds made available for each fiscal year for the Area Development Program or the Economic Development Program of the Commission, the Commission shall allocate not less than 60 percent for projects in counties for which a distressed county designation is in effect under this section.

“(B) METHODOLOGY.—The methodology for determining whether a county is designated as a distressed county under subsection (a)(1)(A) shall be the methodology in effect on the day before the date of enactment of the Appalachian Regional Commission Reorganization Act.

“(C) REPORT.—The Commission shall submit an annual report that describes the allocation of funds, in dollar amounts and percentage of total appropriations, for the Area Development Program to counties described in paragraph (2) to—

“(A) the Speaker of the House of Representatives;

“(B) the minority leader of the House of Representatives;

“(C) the majority leader of the Senate;

“(D) the minority leader of the Senate;

“(E) the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives;

“(F) the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate; and

“(G) the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives; and

“(H) the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the Senate; and

“(I) the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and the House of Representatives.”
"(H) the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate.".

By Mr. REED (for himself, Ms. KLOBUCAR, Mr. BROWN, Mr. KING, Mr. FRANKEN, and Mr. WHITEHOUSE):

S. 1826. A bill to change the date for regularly scheduled general elections for Federal office to the first Saturday and Sunday after the first Friday in November in every even-numbered year; to the Committee on Rules and Administration.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, today I am pleased to be joined by Senators KLOBUCAR, BROWN, KING, FRANKEN, and WHITEHOUSE in introducing the Weekend Voting Act. This bill makes voting in Federal elections easier and more accessible through one simple change: moving Election Day from Tuesday to the following Saturday and Sunday in November of an election year.

We know from surveys and common sense that Tuesday voting stands in the way of greater voter participation. In 1845, Congress set Tuesday as Election Day because it was the easiest day for farmers—then travelling by horse and buggy—to make it to the polls in the middle of their regular Tuesday trips to bring goods to market. Tuesday voting has no such benefit for farmers, or anyone else, in the 21st Century. It does, however, force many Americans to choose between their weekend and family responsibilities, and participation in our democratic process.

According to the Pew Research Center, voter turnout in the United States regularly lags behind other developed countries, many of which hold elections on one or more days during the weekend. According to U.S. Census data, the most consistent reason Americans give for not voting is that they are too busy to get away from their daily lives to make it to the polls. The Weekend Voting Act would give Americans the ability to vote during times that make more sense for them. Rather than on a Tuesday, polls would stay open during the first Saturday and Sunday after the first Friday in November of an election year. States would retain full autonomy to continue to offer alternatives to Election Day voting, such as early voting or voting by mail, and States are encouraged to give special consideration to accommodate weekend religious practices.

Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to support the Weekend Voting Act so that more Americans can take part in our democratic process by voting at times that work for them.

HEALTHCARE

Ms. WARREN. Mr. President, it has been over 7 weeks since the Senate voted on three different versions of the Republican repeal the Affordable Care Act. Each of these terrible bills would have stripped healthcare coverage from tens of millions of Americans and raised costs for millions more.

During this 7 weeks that followed the last of those votes, no one has clamored for another try. Phones aren’t ringing off the hook with calls for Republicans to go one more round in their effort to rip up the Medicaid Program. Letters and emails aren’t pouring in asking for legislation to jack up the costs for people with preexisting conditions. Tweets and Facebook posts don’t demand that insurers get the chance to drop coverage for mental health issues and addiction treatment.

Instead, I have spoken with have told me, often through tears, that they are so relieved that Republicans stepped back from the brink and came to their senses. They are breathing just a little bit easier knowing that Medicaid will be there for their elderly parent staying home or the neighbor down the street who uses a wheelchair. That tight, anxious, terrifying feeling in their chests has eased up because they don’t have to worry about losing the health insurance that helps pay for their asthma medication or their children’s heart surgery.

Here we are again, back on the floor of the Senate, engaged in a terrible and familiar debate. We have Republicans not to gut our health insurance system for the sake of political games.

If the American people want these cruel repeal bills to be thrown in the garbage, where they belong, then what are we waiting for? Why do Senate Republicans are pretty desperate. This month, they learned from the Senate Parliamentarian—the independent umpire here in the Senate who gets the final say on how the procedural rules work—that the legislative instructions allow them to jam this bill through without a single Democratic vote. So the Republicans have dug through the trash and pulled out an old draft of a bill they think could get the job done: the Cassidy-Graham proposal, named after the Republican Senators who put it together.

You might think that after months and months of failed attempts, the Republicans would have something new to offer. So you might think that after their last three terrible repeal bills went up in flames, the Republicans would propose something more reasonable this time around. You might think—that but no. This is just the same terrible set of policies with a fresh coat of paint and a new name.

The Cassidy-Graham proposal completely eliminates the parts of the ACA that help families afford health insurance. Do you think insurance is expensive right now? That was Cassidy-Graham. Need help paying for your chemotherapy or your surgery? Good luck. Cassidy-Graham says you are on your own.

What about all the people who count on Medicaid to help out, people who have health insurance but have a baby who was born 8 weeks too early and who now needs breathing equipment and special therapists; people who worked hard all their lives but who now need Medicare; people who have spent three decades in a nursing home; people who use a wheelchair or need a home health aide to come by so they can live independently? What happens to them? Well, with massive cuts to Medicaid, the latest Republican proposal turns America back on babies, on seniors, on people with disabilities, on our families and our friends and our neighbors who need our help.

I could go on and on about this, but let’s get one thing straight about this latest Republican plan: It is not more reasonable. It is not more moderate. It is not bipartisan. And it is definitely not something that families in this country want. It is just another version of the same old cruel, heartless, shameless plan that Republicans have spent the last 8 months trying to jam down the throats of the American people.

Don’t take my word for it. Doctors’ groups, including the Academy of Pediatricians, the American Academy of Family Physicians, and a bunch of other medical specialties, pulled the fire alarm last week when Cassidy and Graham released their proposal. They sent Congress a letter saying it could cost millions of Americans their healthcare coverage. They begged Republicans not to start down this road again.

Instead, the doctors asked Congress to do something that makes a whole lot more sense: Focus on ways to improve health insurance markets in this country, starting with the discussions that have taken place in the HELP Committee over the last 2 weeks. That is because there is another important end-of-September deadline coming up—the date when insurance companies have to set their prices for next year’s insurance premiums.

Over the last couple of weeks, the two Senators who run the HELP Committee—Senator ALEXANDER on the Republican side and Senator MURRAY on the Democratic side—have held a series of hearings on policies that we could pass before the end of September to help lower premiums and make sure that when you buy health insurance, you can count on that coverage that actually means something.

I sit on that committee, and, like most of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, I have been to each of the four hearings we held on this issue.

Senators ALEXANDER and MURRAY have also opened up the discussion to every single Senator so that even those not assigned to the committee can come and meet the witnesses and talk about how to make healthcare better. We have traded ideas with Governors. We talked to State insurance commissioners. We talked to doctors and to patients. And not everyone sees things exactly the same way. We have argued back and forth and put a lot of different ideas on the table. We have spent hours talking about how to improve healthcare in this country.

We have 12 days left before the end of September. It is not always this simple, but this time there really is a clear tradeoff. We can either use those 12 days to let Republicans burn down healthcare in this country, or we can use those 12 days to pass a bill that would stabilize healthcare coverage for millions of Americans.

The Republicans are hoping to slip below the radar screen, to sneak the repeal of healthcare coverage across the finish line just when we let down our guard. Well, I have news for the Republicans who want to go down this road: I see you. The American people see you. And we will not let you every step of the way, for as long as it takes and for as many more rounds as you want to go, to stop your ugly bill in its tracks. We will not give up on the families who are counting on us to defend their healthcare. We will not back down. We will not blink.

Here is the thing Republicans just don’t seem to realize: We aren’t tired. We don’t get tired when we are fighting for kids. We don’t get tired when we are standing up for our families. We don’t get tired when we are standing up for those with heart disease, those with Alzheimer’s, those who have diabetes, and they are already struggling with the skyrocketing cost of insulin.

It would make things worse by dramatically weakening guaranteed protections for those with preexisting conditions, allowing insurers to cut coverage for essential health benefits and charge more for needed care. As someone who was branded with those words “preexisting condition” as a child, I understand how this repeal would hurt Wisconsin families and families throughout our state.

It would make things worse by eliminating the premium tax credits and cost-sharing reduction payments that help thousands—thousands—of Wisconsinites afford healthcare coverage, and estimates show this particular plan of- fered in the Senate could significantly cut funding for my home State of Wisconsin by almost $3 billion in the year 2027.

On top of this latest repeal plan, it has to be added that the Trump administration continues to threaten to withhold the critical cost-sharing reduction payments that help reduce deductibles and out-of-pocket costs of healthinsurers instead of giving healthcare providers certainty and working to stabilize the healthcare marketplace, the Trump administration is laying the groundwork for higher premiums next year.

In addition, just this past week, the administration slashed funding to States for their outreach and education efforts to help more people sign up for healthcare. Wisconsin’s trusted Navigator Programs had their funding cut, without explanation, by almost 50 percent, despite a long record of actually exceeding their enrollment goals. This would mean fewer people in rural Wisconsin will receive the support and assistance they need to obtain affordable healthcare coverage.

Instead of making things worse, we should be making things better by getting the job done on bipartisan solutions that lower costs, that expand coverage, and make healthcare more affordable. The HELP Committee—Chairman Alexander and Ranking Member Murray have shown great leadership in bringing us together to work across party lines on solutions that work for the American people. Our committee has heard from leaders from across the country. These are leaders and experts who play different roles in the healthcare system, and they are telling us how we can work together to make things better.

We have had a set of four hearings over the last 2 weeks, and throughout these hearings we have received a consistent message that is that now is the time to work together to stabilize the health insurance market and to make healthcare more affordable.

I believe we need to be doing more to increase the enrollment of younger and healthier adults in the marketplace. We should be exploring bipartisan solutions to increase outreach and coverage for those over 61 million young adults who are still uninsured. Slashing the funding for outreach, education, and assistance to them will further destabilize the market and lead to higher costs for everyone.

It is past time to stop this partisan nonsense. I urge my colleagues on the other side of the aisle to do just that by sending these partisan attempts to take people’s healthcare away and make them pay more for less care.

The people of Wisconsin—frankly, the people across this country—have sent a clear message. They have sent a clear message that they want us to take people’s healthcare away, and they have sent a clear message that they want us to work together, to work across the party line to make things better, not worse. I believe that if parties can look past this partisan debate, if we can do the people’s business, then we can find common ground. Let’s do that by getting the job done on bipartisan solutions that will stabilize and strengthen the healthcare marketplace. Let’s do that by getting the job done on solutions that would lower healthcare costs for all American families.

Thank you. I yield the floor.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MERKLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MERKLEY. Thank you, Mr. President.

Yogi Berra once said: “It’s like deja vu, all over again.” Here we are feeling the echoes of the recent debates over healthcare, yet we have the Republican plan to dismantle healthcare and the peace of mind of millions of Americans coming to the floor.

We have seen previous plans. We have seen the House bill that was going to cut healthcare for 22 million people. We saw the bill that came over from the Senate in June wipe out healthcare for 22 million people. Then we saw the Republicans’ improved version of that, wiping out healthcare for 32 million people. In July of this year, there was yet another plan, back to 22 million—millions and millions of people losing their healthcare. Now we have one more last-ditch effort to destroy healthcare for ordinary Americans, for rural Americans, for working Americans.

It is just wrong, and I am going to explain some of the reasons all of us should be outraged by this bill—this new bill, which says immediately the individual mandate and the company mandate are wiped out. What does that do? That means instantly, in 2018 and 2019, there is a destructive race to the bottom for the insurance pools. If there is no pool, if there is no mandate, then only those who are sicker sign up. Those who are sicker are more expensive, so then more people drop out of the healthcare pool, and the pool becomes even more expensive. It just shoots right out of sight.

We are not talking just about damage that would be done in 2020; we are talking about damage that would be done next year and the year after.

What happens when the insurance companies say there are only 2 years left on this, and the healthcare pool has a big hole in it, the healthy people are going out, and only the sickest people remain? They are going to drop out of providing coverage. Suddenly, we have hundreds of counties across the Nation with no healthcare provision for those who are currently in the healthcare marketplace.

We have been through this conversation. We have been through the Ted Cruz fake insurance bill, and it was voted on by a body with substantial bipartisan majority. This is a repeat of that, saying let's destroy those insurance pools.

What else does this bill destroy? In 2020, it destroys the tax credits. Let's say you are fortunate enough to have the pool survive 2018 and 2019 and you have tax credits that enable you to buy insurance and there is still a provider during those 2 years, but then comes 2020, and there are no tax credits with which to buy insurance so now you are thrown out of healthcare. There is no remedy provided in this bill.

Is it possible that you are going to get covered by the Medicaid Program in your State? Well, it is not likely because Medicaid is expensive insurance for poorer Americans, not for the folks who are getting the tax credits in the exchange. No, they are out of luck.

What else do we have? The elimination of essential benefits. Essential benefits are no longer required. Now, we have some history with this in our country. We have had those fake insurance policies that you buy that cost virtually nothing, and then you get sick and discover that your trip to the emergency room is not covered. If you discover your hospitalization is not covered. Your child gets injured—they break a bone—and you discover the x rays are not covered, and the lab tests are not covered. Well, these are the fake insurance policies that don't belong anywhere because they are simply a fraud. This is a scam.

Why are we returning to a vote on fake insurance? Not only do we lose the individual mandate and the company mandate but also a sure an insurance pool—it is the pool having both sick and healthy people so insurance companies can actually provide insurance, but we also have this provision of this fake insurance, where you have a policy that costs virtually nothing and then covers nothing. So it is sold to those who are vulnerable by the sales pitch of the scam man.

What else does this do? Well, right now we have this very complicated health insurance marketplace. It is a big improvement over what we had 8 years ago, but it is still complicated. We have Med-icaid, and we have Medicare. We have on-exchanges, and we have off-exchanges. We have special insurance for the workplace called Workers' Compensation. We have special insurance for children called the Children's Health Insurance Program. We have workplace policies that have very good benefits covered by the company, and we have workplace policies that are very poor policies. We have workplace policies that are paid for by the company, and there are those where the individual has to buy into the workplace policy. Then, we have policies that cover just the worker and ones that cover the family. What do you do as you navigate this incredibly complex array? This is a continuous stressful journey for Americans.

If you get a job that doesn't pay very much, and you are able to be on the Oregon Health Plan or on similar Medicaid programs across the country. Then, you earn a little bit more or your spouse earns a little bit more, and, suddenly, you don't qualify. How do you get through the exchange in the middle of the year? How do you work out those tax credits for the end of the year? Or maybe your next job provides insurance for you but not your children. How do you get your children signed up? It is a very, very stressful situation—this complicated, overlapping healthcare that requires continuous attention just for people to make sure that, if their loved one is sick, if their child is injured, they will get the care that happens and the family will not end up bankrupt. It is a pursuit of peace of mind.

What does this bill do? It makes our already complicated system even more complicated. It says in this bill: We can have tax credits to buy insurance for poorer Americans, not for those who are vulnerable by the sales pool. They were not covered. Well, these are the fake insurance policies that don't belong anywhere because they are simply a fraud. This is a scam.

During the previous debate, I kept noting that this was like a monster that you can only put away by driving a stake through its heart. Each time we attempted to have that debate on the floor and we defeated the bill, I thought: Well, perhaps, we finally put this monster 6 feet under. But now it is back in all its ruthless, tooth-and-fang fury, ready to destroy peace of mind in healthcare for our citizens.

Let's take a vote in this Senate that will do what we hoped we had done before and truly drive a stake through the heart of this TrumpCare proposition. Let's stand up in partnership with our citizens.

Now the TrumpCare bill is full of really wealthy Americans who have never worried about healthcare. When I was first campaigning for the Senate, I met with one of those really wealthy Americans in New York City. He said to me: I don't know why you are saying you are fighting for better healthcare. Everybody in America has good healthcare.

Well, that is because that individual lived in a bubble, where he was surrounded by everyone having good healthcare because they worked for really wealthy firms in New York City. They are so dramatically disconnected from the reality of working Americans.

I will tell you what is going on in my neighborhood, in my blue collar neighborhhood—the same neighborhood that I went to from grades 3 through 12, the same neighborhood that my children went to. It is getting tougher to find a full-time job. It is getting tougher to find a living-wage job. It is getting tougher to be able to save and to help your child pursue their dreams. It is tougher to be able to help your family or, perhaps, to go on a vacation—even a simple vacation—and it is certainly tougher to buy a home. In fact, many people in my neighborhood feel that the only way they are going to be able to buy a home is to inherit it from their parents.

I will tell you that there is one thing that got easier in the last 8 years against all that—one thing—and that was that we provided expansion of Medicaid to cover a lot more people and we created a marketplace for insurance where working people could use tax credits to be able to buy care and to easily compare policies. So we made a big step forward in one single area—in one area. Now my colleagues from their gated communities and with their 7-digit wealth want to come and destroy the one thing we did for working Americans.

If President Trump cared one whit about a working American, he would be ringing up the majority leader of this Chamber right now and saying: What are you doing? It is getting tougher when I was going to stand with workers. This bill attacks them. What are you doing? He would be calling up and saying: I called that House bill mean—that House bill which eliminated healthcare for 23 million Americans—our final bill. I called it mean and heartless. This is meeker. This is even more heartless.
But we shouldn’t need the insights of President Trump to be able to understand the damage that this does to ordinary Americans because you can see it plain as day right there on the pages of this bill.

So, let me, in the name of my constituents all over my State, as well as voices from around the United States of America, difficult stories about people who had lifetime caps; people who, because their child had an illness as a child—when that child became an adult, they couldn’t find insurance; people who were being denied insurance because of a preexisting condition; people who were declaring bankruptcy in this country, at rates significantly higher than we are seeing now, because they could not afford their health insurance. In fact, per- sonal bankruptcies in which health insurance has been cut by about 50 percent. These are all gains we have achieved through the Affordable Care Act. There is the expansion of healthcare to millions more and the security of knowing that your health insurance won’t be cut off because of a preexisting condition, knowing that when you pay for health coverage, it will carry essential benefits that every American should get. There are these gains and many more.

What has happened after the failure of Trumpcare—the failure of Republican plans—what actually came out of that was something that was encouraging to me as a Senator who has been here for 3-plus years: seeing statespeople from our Senate—LAMAR ALEXANDER, JOHN MCCAIN, and other statespeople from the West, East, North, South, or the heart of our country, they want the same thing: They want quality, affordable care.

We have come a long way to where we are right now. Under the Affordable Care Act, we have increased the number of Americans with health insurance by over 20 million. We have been able to bend the cost curve.

The Affordable Care Act has taken us out of days that no American—very few—wants us to go back to, the days where people could be denied coverage based on a preexisting condition.

The Affordable Care Act created an essential set of benefits, which Americans from both sides of the aisle think is very important. These essential benefits include such things as healthcare for women who are having children. They include things like putting parity between mental healthcare and what might be called physical healthcare.

There has been so many improvements because of the Affordable Care Act, and I have heard about them from constituents all over my State, as well as voices from around the United States even met with Republican Senators and Congresspeople to discuss legislation that had been aired on C-SPAN. This showed the best of who we are, that when we come together as a body and go through a process, good legislation—not perfect legislation but good legislation—can advance us toward our principles. Those principles were principles that were discussed during the last Presidential campaign by both candidates. Donald Trump himself, our President, said time and time again: I want us to have a health system in which everyone is covered in which everyone has affordable and quality healthcare.

These values aren’t debatable, and I am disappointed, I am frustrated, and I am angry that we are here again while a bipartisan process is going on, and, as a matter of fact, New Jersey’s very own Senator, Robert Menendez, once said, it is deja vu all over again.

Here we are now coming back this week, and we are hearing about another Republican bill that has not gone through regular order, that has not had hearings that have taken place in a fair process. Another bill is coming to the floor. People are whipping up votes, and we might have yet another dramatic moment in this body that millions of Americans will watch, holding their breaths because their families— their children, their senior citizen parents—are being held in the balance on a decision this body will make—not going through regular order, not bringing in experts—on legislation that has been evaluated by the Congressional Budget Office.

The CBO hasn’t scored this bill. We don’t know what its total impact would be on health coverage or on costs. We don’t know exactly how many people could lose their coverage, how much premiums could skyrocket for the middle class, and just how much Medicaid would ultimately be gutted.

This is the bill that is coming before us. This is the bill that is brought up right now to our Nation and to millions of people. But we do know enough about this bill, and previous versions of the repeal plan that looked very similar to this bill give us many hints—more than hints—give us much evidence about what this bill would do and how this bill would cause millions to lose their coverage and premiums to skyrocket. And the millions who rely on Medicaid for everything from opioid addiction treatment to maternity care would suffer.

Let me go through some things we know about this legislation which is being threatened to be brought to the Senate floor and which now casts a

In fact, for those who criticized the Affordable Care Act, for the Affordable Care Act, there were dozens of bipartisan hearings. Over 100 amendments were put forward—Republicans were included in the ultimate legislation. It was a process that took months and months. The President of the United States even met with Republican Senators and Congresspeople to discuss legislation that had been aired on C-SPAN. This showed the best of who we are, that when we come together as a body and go through a process, good legislation—not perfect legislation but good legislation—can advance us toward our principles. And the millions who rely on Medicaid for everything from opioid addiction treatment to maternity care would suffer.

Let me go through some things we know about this legislation which is being threatened to be brought to the Senate floor and which now casts a shadow over the coverage earned and gained by millions of Americans.

This legislation would still take cover-age away from millions of Americans. We know this destructive version—this partisan repeal plan—would also take away from millions of people. Experts have already projected that after 10 years, this par-tisan repeal plan could cause over 30 million Americans to lose their coverage—30 million Americans cast back into the one illness. Where one injury or illness could devastate their fami-lies, could send them into bankruptcy. That one illness, that one injury could have the worst of results; could cast us back to a time when so many Ameri-cans were using emergency room doc-tors as their primary care physicians; could cast us back to a time when so many Americans were delaying seeing doctors because they couldn't afford to, allowing preventable diseases or treat-able diseases to get worse and worse. Thirty million Americans losing their health insurance means more Ameri-cans will die. That is not a dramatic, hyperbolic statement; that is the truth. When health coverage rates go down, American mortality rates go up. What do we know about this legis-lation? It still raises costs like the other versions of TrumpCare. This version of this partisan repeal plan will still force hard-working Americans to pay more for, actually, worse care. It would end the critical and the critical subsi-dies that have allowed millions to afford care. It would end sup-port for people in the very market-places about which two other bipar-tisan Senators, through the HELP Committee, are trying to discuss how we are going to stabilize those markets to give people that very access. We know that as a result of this re-peat plan, Americans will see their deductibles increase by several thou-sand dollars. We could once again, with those increases—see bankruptcy rates increase after dropping dramatically under the Affordable Care Act.

What else do we know about this legis-lation, this newest version of TrumpCare? It still ends Federal pro-tections, as the other plans did, for people with preexisting conditions. TrumpCare's latest version would still enable insurance companies to charge folks thousands, even tens of thousands of dollars more just once again, with those increases—see bankruptcy rates increase after dropping dramatically under the Affordable Care Act.

What else do we know about this legis-lation? It still ends Medicaid ex-pansion, and it establishes a per capita cap and reduction of Medicaid. By end-ing Medicaid as we know it after over 50 years of this program, by suddenly capping it and ultimately giving block grants to States, we know it will affect dramatically the people whom this pro-gram and these expansions have cov-ered.

Who gets covered by Medicaid? Who will be affected? In America right now, over half of all low-income families rely on Medicaid. Two out of three of our seniors living in nursing homes rely on Medicaid. Half of all the births in the United States of America—our children, our future, our greatest nat-ural resource—half are covered by Med-icaid.

Here is our reality. We are gutting a program that benefits us all—our sen-iors, our children, as well as the dis-abled. The cruel Medicaid cuts pro-posed in this bill—the cuts and the caps in this version—will still put those who have the most to lose in the most vulnerable situations. Those seniors in nursing homes, working families, com-munities of color, women, Americans with disabilities, those folks who are already struggling with illness, elder Americans, Americans living in rural areas, Americans living in our cities. This is not who we are. These are not our values. This kind of draconian ac-tion is unacceptable in a nation this great.

What else does it do, this newest version of TrumpCare? What else does it do? In this version, this bill—just like the ones before—still erodes criti-cal patient protections established by the Affordable Care Act by allowing States to apply for a waiver to opt out of the ACA's essential benefits require-ment for things as basic as maternity care, substance abuse services, pre-scription drugs, emergency services, hospitalizations, and rehabilitation services.

This repeal plan could essentially give insurers the green light to once again charge for junk insurance plans that don't actually cover needed care. You may have health insurance, but it may be so limited and so constricted that when you actually get sick, you find out it does not cover your illness, your health challenge, your injury.

This newest version of TrumpCare, this newest version of a partisan repeal plan, also still threatens women's health. Women comprise two-thirds of all adult enrollees in Medicaid. They would be essentially hurt by the gut-ting of that program. This repeal plan, like previous versions, would still cut off low-income women from accessing critical preventive and healthcare serv-ices from Planned Parenthood, health centers that provide essential preven-tive care and, often in many counties, the only avenue to contraceptive serv-ices. It singles out Planned Parenthood for basic things and, making it so much more difficult for women all around our country to access impor-tant care.

What else does this most recent version of TrumpCare do, this partisan bill that is not going through regular order? Just like the other ones, it would still weaken the Federal prohibi-tion on lifetime limits, lifetime caps on the insurance that one can receive. This version—this repeal plan—allows preventive diseases and conditions and children with unique medical needs and chal-lenges who still need continued life-saving care could be forced, once they hit that cap, to spend hundreds of thou-sands of dollars on care, even though they are insured, thus dev-astating families, sending them into bankruptcy, spiraling them into finan-cial catastrophe.

A couple of months back, one of my constituents tweeted me a photo of her son's medical bill after a recent sur-gery. The bill was for $500, but it showed that without the coverage she got because of the Affordable Care Act, she would have owed over $230,000. That was just for her child's heart surgery. Her son, Ethan, who combines with a rare genetic disorder, has had four of those surgeries.

Under this partisan plan, not only could essential health benefits, like hospitalizations and prescription drugs, be denied Ethan, but lifetime caps on coverage would disqualify Ethan from accessing the care he needs.

As Ethan's mom put it, the lifetime cap is the equivalent of saying: "Sorry, you're not worth keeping alive any-more. You're just too expensive." Ethan's mom also said that this plan—this version of TrumpCare do, this partisan repeal plan—could essentially disallow insurance companies to do, essentially saying to Americans: If you had a problem when you were a child, if you had surgeries as a child, once you hit that cap, you are not worth covering any-more.

We had a vote on the floor today. It was for national defense. It was a major bill. There were strong state-ments and speeches on both sides of the aisle. At the end of the day, the over-whelming majority of us joined to-gether to provide for our Nation's na-tional defense; that is, to provide for our Defense Department.

It is a common ideal in this body that this government, formed by our forefathers and foremothers, the Con-stitution upon which we stand proclaims that this government was formed for the common good, for the common defense. As we have seen in recent days, the idea of defense isn't just protecting us against the threat of North Korea, isn't just protecting us from the efforts of the Russians. It is not just protecting us from terrorist organizations. We have seen that the national defense also means the challenges of natural disaster.

We should be proud for all of us to see the crisis faced from Texas to Florida and how we—as a nation, hero after hero in communities large and small—stood up during this time and were there for fellow Americans, never asking their party, never asking or questioning what different religion they might have. People from all different ethnic backgrounds banded together because that is what Americans do. When we feel threatened, whether it's an attack by a natural disaster or an enemy from afar, we stand up and take care of each other. The very formation and foundation of our government is based on the ideals that we are stronger together when we stand on each other's shoulders and we invest in each other and sacrifice for each other.

I am one who believes the defense of this Nation isn't just a powerful military abroad and at home. The defense of our Nation also means that for a vulnerable child, who has a terrible disability that we can cure—we, our Nation, should take care of our own.

The defense of our country means that our elder citizens, two-thirds of whom live in homes and policies on the Medicaid Program—the defense of our Nation, the preservation of our ideals is evidenced in the care of the elderly, the dignity that we acknowledge and afford them. That is the very definition of what America is. I am one of those people who believe that the ideals of this Nation are evident not just in the strength of our military but also in the strength of our system of healthcare. It is a violation of our ideals and values as a Nation when our healthcare system breaks down—not to the ideals we see in our military where we protect all of our country; we stand for everyone, rich or poor.

But, suddenly, with our healthcare system, with accessing lifesaving medicines and procedures, critical preventive care, it suddenly boils down to those who are very wealthy getting access, and people who are struggling in minimum-wage jobs, fighting every day to raise their kids, something that should not be covered in our ideals.

We are a nation that professes the most profound values—the oldest constitutional democracy, which put forth ideals that we are not a theocracy, a nation based upon privilege, based upon how you pray. We are not a monarchy. We are the oldest constitutional democracy that put ideals forward that became lights to other nations.

That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration.

This body could be coming together to take the imperfections of the Affordable Care Act, to find where it has fallen short, and work together to build upon that foundation so everyone in this Nation can have justice and opportunity that everyone, when it comes to the grip of illness or disease, can find the freedom that comes with the security and the ease of mind in knowing they can afford to go to a doctor. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration. That is a national aspiration.
and the decision will be made, not just by the votes on this floor or the decisions made by the 100 in this body, it must be made collectively, through our engagement and through our activism and what we demand from our representatives.

Here we are in this moral moment with this decision before our country. My prayer and my hope is that all of us, with a collective voice, with a chorus that resonates with that of our ancestors—that we fight for the defense of our Nation, that we stand up and take responsibility for ideals of equal justice, ideals of liberty and freedom, ideals of life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness, ideals that have made this Nation shine and have shown our greatness and our character. That doesn’t happen by accident or some inevitability of history. It happens because we fight for it and work for it.

If there is any moment in American history where we need that spirit, that America of toughness and that fight, it is this moment right now.

Mr. President, thank you.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GARDEÑER). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CASEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CASEY. Mr. President, I rise tonight to talk about yet another healthcare debate we are having here in the Senate. As many people know and have less and less following this over the last number of months, we had a long debate and then a vote here at the end of July. At that point, despite all of the conflict and all of the debate and arguing about healthcare for not just months but for years, we moved to a new chapter and that new chapter for a number of weeks has been very positive.

When I went home to Pennsylvania, I went to 32 counties in the month of August, and in a lot of those counties, I tried to give a bit of good news on healthcare despite all of the conflict about it. I was able to say that since July 28, when the vote was held, we have had very positive bipartisan discussions. I was part of several of them. The chairman of the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee—the so-called HELP Committee—Senator LAMAR ALEXANDER from Tennessee, announced, in agreement with Senator PATTY MURRAY of Washington, that they were going to preside over bipartisan healthcare hearings in that committee—probably the first bipartisan hearings in a long time. What that meant was that we were going to finally have hearings and a thorough examination of a few issues, not all of them. What would we be focused on making sure that the cost-sharing payments were made—hoping we can get a bipartisan bill on that in the next couple of days—and focused on problems in the marketplace, real problems, serious attention to serious issues—not a game, not a political exercise, not an ideological exercise; Democrats and Republicans sitting down and working together in the HELP Committee to solve some of—not all of but some of the problems in our healthcare system. It has been a very positive development for the committee, for the Senate, and for the Nation.

There is a little more good news.

Both parties have come together to make sure that the Children’s Health Insurance Program continues. It is one of the most important programs in Pennsylvania. These are approximate numbers in Pennsylvania: 60 percent of all children in Pennsylvania get their healthcare that way. So both parties came together on that as well. It is very bipartisan. Since its enactment way back in the nineties, CHIP has been bipartisan. There have been a couple of rocky roads here and there, but it has been mostly bipartisan for 20 years, and it will be again at this time in the Senate.

It is very personal to me. My father was the Governor of Pennsylvania in 1992 when CHIP passed. I think we might have been the largest State with a children’s health insurance program, and those kinds of State models became the basis for Federal legislation. It is deeply personal to families across Pennsylvania who, absent the CHIP program, would not have healthcare. The same is true of Medicaid, which, of course, is a much bigger program. Everyone in this country have healthcare solely because of Medicaid, and some adults have healthcare solely because of Medicaid—millions of them.

I think when we have these debates, we should remind ourselves about the value, the importance, the significance of these programs and the consequence of undermining them or ripping them out. In the case of Medicaid, what some of the earlier versions of the Republican healthcare bills would do would be to decimate Medicaid over time. Maybe not in year 1 or year 2, but over time they would have a terribly devastating impact on Medicaid.

What is Medicaid? It happens to be the program through which 40 percent of all children get their healthcare and 60 percent of all children with disabilities get their healthcare. About two-thirds of nursing home care is paid for by Medicaid. Ask a family member who has a loved one with a disability what Medicaid means to that family. Medicaid is life or death.

I know we have debates around here where people talk about Medicaid as if it is just another program, just another budget matter, just another healthcare talking point. Well, one of the reasons these bills have not passed is because a lot of Americans—Democrats and Republicans and Independents out there far away from Washington—realize what would have happened if we passed some of these bills, what would have happened to the Medicare Program that covers more than 70 million Americans.

No one here would lose their healthcare, by the way. No Senator, no House Member, or their families would lose their healthcare. But folks here were perfectly willing to support legislation that would result in millions—not a few million; double-figure millions—15 million, maybe, would have lost their healthcare and Medicaid if we were going to pass a bill that would result in millions more in the exchanges or otherwise.

That is what we were debating, but, as I said, since July 28, we have had a lot of bipartisan moments and that is a good thing.

Where are we right now? Well, here is where we are: with a piece of legislation—the shorthand is Cassidy-Graham, the two Senators who are leading the effort. What would it do? Well, it would do a couple of things that we should never allow to pass, in my judgment. It establishes a per capita cap on Medicaid. That is a bad idea. We should reject that. It ends Medicaid expansion in all states. We know that, there was Medicaid that now covers 11 million people.

In the context of how difficult it is for States and counties and communities across the country to deal with the opioid crisis, I hope they don’t say: We are going to pass a bill that will end Medicaid expansion as we know it, because we know that the biggest payer—the program that has the most impact on treating people who are in the grip of the opioid epidemic, who are getting killed by it. Medicaid, by that definition, Medicaid expansion provides more help than any other program. At last count, 68,000 Pennsylvanians with an opioid issue got their help from Medicaid expansion. Solely because of Medicaid expansion, they can get help for opioids. So ending the Medicaid expansion as we know it is another bad idea.

It rolls back protections for Americans with preexisting conditions. I thought that we settled that. There would be a guarantee going forward, that no matter what bill—Democratic, Republican, or otherwise—we would make sure that was a national standard, that no one had to worry about preexisting conditions again. Well, here we are again concerned about what might happen as a result of this legislation and what a State might do to take away the protections on preexisting conditions because they waive it. And folks here are allowed to waive it under these bills.

It allows States to impose burdensome work requirements as a condition...
It takes coverage away from millions of Americans. We mentioned that, but it bears repeating. This isn’t just a policy debate; this is about American democracy. We all represent families in Pennsylvania, many of whom wrote to me, have contacted me telling me their stories. One of them was Pam Simpson.

Pam is from southeastern Pennsylvania, Coatesville. Her son Rowan was diagnosed on the autism spectrum a number of years ago. Prior to having the protection of Medicaid—what we call in Pennsylvania Medical Assistance—that family had a big challenge. Challenges continue even after the coverage.

What Pam said to me in a letter was how much benefit there was to her family in terms of getting the treatment and the help from Medicaid. She said—

Without Medicaid, I am confident I could not work full-time to support our family. We would be bankrupt or my son—

Meaning Rowan—

So here is a child who was 5 years old when he was diagnosed, and here is a mother telling me that their lives are a lot better because they have the protection of Medicaid because their son has a disability. And there are a lot of families in which a child might have more than one disability. And even some families who have wealth or very good healthcare coverage still need Medicaid if they have a child with a profound disability. So this isn’t just about one group of Americans; this cuts across all incomes, all regions, all parties, all beliefs. That is what Medicaid does, because do you know what Medicaid is? It is an American program.

We are the greatest country in the world. We have the strongest economy in the world. We have the strongest military in the world. And we can do anything that we want to do, because we are a great country.

We call it America, and that is what America does—we take care of people who need help. And if it costs some more, we find the money to do it, just as we find the money to protect our security when we have a conflict. We all come together as a country, and we protect the country.

Well, it is about time that Washington came together to protect people who have the benefit of a great program called Medicaid or other healthcare programs because that is what a great country does.

If we do to Medicaid what some here want to do, we will be diminished as a country. We will all be diminished, because we are a country where we just had 20 million people gain healthcare coverage and go backward, have more people without health insurance, have more children lose their Medicaid coverage? Is that the country we want to be? I don’t think so. I don’t think any Republican believes that, and I don’t think any Democrat believes that—if you call yourself an American, because that is what America does. We take on big challenges and we solve problems.

Medicaid is not the problem here. We have problems in our healthcare system; Medicaid is not one of them. Medicaid is helping a lot of people, and we are going to protect it.

This is one of those moments in the HELP Committee on fixing the parts of the system that we have to fix and do a thorough examination and having hearings—isn’t that a radical idea? I just heard in the last couple of the hearings theIRC hear, on Monday. Oh my goodness. Isn’t that wonderful? So there will be a hearing on Monday, and I guess they want to pass the bill on Thursday. That is what counts for thorough examination on one of the most complicated challenges we have? Why don’t they agree to do it the way LAMAR ALEXANDER did, as the chair of the HELP Committee? He said we are going to take these discrete, individual challenges and examine them closely, come together on a bill, and then pass the bill, and then we are going to move to the next problem and the next challenge and solve them one at a time or two at a time, not take a meat ax to Medicaid and hope it works out for people who don’t have any healthcare coverage. That is what a great Senate and the State has to do that. The State has to balance its budget, and they, by definition, will have to cap services and treatment to people with disabilities. So that is what this is all about in the end. It is sending the problem back to the States and calling it flexibility. Isn’t that a nice word? All these benign words—flexibility, block granting, per capita caps—all sound so benign. There is a lot of venom in those policies.

What does it mean for the States? I will just give you one example. In Pennsylvania, we had more than 700,000 people obtain health insurance through Medicaid expansion—over 700,000 people. In the marketplace or the exchanges, there are more than 678,000. So more than 1.1 million people. "good luck, States. CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

S5819

Some of them are on the brink of hav- ing a major problem and depend upon the support they get from Medicaid. In rural Pennsylvania we have a lot of folks who have illnesses and challenges that maybe some of the rest of us don’t have. They tend to be older folks who have those challenges, too. What do we say to them? Are we saying to them that we are just going to wind down the support that Medicaid provides in a State like Pennsylvania?

So the plea to my colleagues is this. Don’t allow this snake in the grass to get close to anyone and to bite them and to inject venom in them. Don’t allow that to happen. Don’t allow this bill to rip away healthcare from millions of people, just like the bill before that and the bill before that. Work with people in both parties to do what we are doing in the HELP Committee and, to a certain extent, although very limited, in the Finance Committee. I think the good model is things working together, but I can’t go back to Pam Simpson and say: Pam, you know what; I know that you are happy with the Medicaid that Rowan is receiving, and I know it is working out for you, but there are people in Washington, people who just had a different idea for you. So you are on your own. You and your family are on your own.

I don’t think that is what we do as Americans. Forget being Senators; I don’t think that is the American thing to do. To have people that need help. All of us in our lives need help at some point or another. No one is immune to some of these challenges.

I will just read one or two sentences from the end of the letter that Pam Simpson wrote me months ago, in the earlier part of this year, when she talked about how important Medicaid was to her. She is pleading with me at the end of this letter to protect her son and to protect her family. I would just ask the colleagues consider this when they are considering how to vote.

Pam talked about all the benefits that Medicaid provides her son because of his disability and her family. She said: Please think of Rowan, my son. Please think of my husband and me, she said. But here is how she concludes:

Please think of my 9-month-old daughter Luna—That is Rowan’s younger sister—who smiles and laughs at her brother daily. She will have to care for Rowan later in her life after we are gone. Overall, we are desper-ately in need of Rowan’s Medicaid assistance and would be devastated if we lost these benefits.

If we can all say to Pam Simpson and her family and to any family who benefits from Medicaid or Med- icaid expansion or the protections of the Affordable Care Act that we are guaranteeing that you are going to have those protections. We are going to guar- antee that those protections are going to be there for you.

Hopefully, every Member of the Senate can say that and vote in accord- ance with that promise. I would use an old expression and ask Members of the Senate to examine their conscience. Is this what you want people to remember you for—this kind of vote, where Rowan’s mother has to worry, Rowan has to lose his Medicaid Maggie, a door closed in his life, is a big step toward losing their healthcare coverage, or a child in a rural area or someone working at a rural hospital loses their job because of these massive ideologically driven cuts to Medicaid? I hope you can answer the call of your own conscience when you vote that way.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. CAPETIOT, The Senator from Hawaii). Mr. SCHAPITZ, Madam President, for the past several months, Republicans in Washington have done just about every- thing they can to hide their healthcare repeal bill. Remember that way back in the beginning they tried to sneak a CBO score. Then, they realized that even Republicans didn’t want to vote on something without knowing how much it would cost or how many people would lose healthcare coverage. So, they decided to wait or they moved it to: Well, that it was wrong, except for in the areas where they liked the numbers. They trashed the CBO even though, for the last 8 years, they referred to the CBO to make their argument against the Affordable Care Act.

When that didn’t work, they tapped 13 men to draft a bill in secret. It is no surprise that a bill crafted without women, without hearings, and without Democrats was not able to cross the finish line.

Now they are actually back to their original plan, which is to push legisla- tion without a score from the CBO. In other words, we are going to go to next week, and we are going to vote without knowing how much this bill will cost. This is not the way the Senate is supposed to work. If there is no score, there should be no vote.

Clearly, CBO got back to the Senate today and said that they will have enough time to analyze the fiscal im- pact of this proposal, but they will not be able to analyze the impact it has on our constituents.

So do you remember the last 2 or 3 iterations of this bill? People were con- cer- ned about the mass, deep cuts to the Medicaid expansion, which is very, very successful and very popular; and the protocols for the Medicaid expansion, which is very, very successful and very popular; and the protocols that we have in place for people with preexisting conditions.

It eliminates Medicaid as we know it. This bill eliminates Medicaid as we know it. So what is going to happen is that they established block grants, which means you get a fixed amount. Each State gets a fixed amount for Medicaid. Then, those Medicaid block grants dis- appear after 10 years.

It is shocking to me that having failed to get the votes, they went fur- ther to the right, with deeper cuts to Medicaid—both to the Medicaid expan- sion program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- provision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program and to the Medicaid Pro- vision program.

Unlike TrumpCare that we have seen. Here is what it does. It eliminates everything in the ACA that was essential: tax credits and subsidies to help people to afford their insurance; the Medicaid ex- pansion, which is very, very successful and very popular; and the protocols that we have in place for people with preexisting conditions.

It eliminates Medicaid as we know it. This bill eliminates Medicaid as we know it. So what is going to happen is that they established block grants, which means you get a fixed amount. Each State gets a fixed amount for Medicaid. Then, those Medicaid block grants dis- appear after 10 years.

The latest version of TrumpCare will take healthcare coverage away from tens of millions of people.

Last week our country hit an impor- tant milestone. The number of Ameri- cans who do not have health insurance fell to a historic low of 8.8 percent. That means that 9 out of 10 Americans now have health insurance. But instead of celebrating this milestone, Repub- licans are about to end our country’s progress on this issue.

Americans who don’t lose their cov- erage will still get hurt with higher premiums or insurance plans that don’t cover basic things like getting help for opioid addiction, pregnancy, hospital stays, mental health. So if this bill passes, healthcare will no longer be a right in this country. It will be a privi- lege. It depends on where you live,
This bill will also take away protections for people with preexisting conditions. Nothing will hold States back from allowing insurers to charge people with diabetes more or people with cancer more for their health insurance. Experts have started to look at what this will mean for people with preexisting conditions, and they will pay thousands of dollars more. A patient with asthma will pay more than $4,000 a year extra if this bill passes, while a patient with metastatic cancer will pay more than $12,000. This bill will cost you $142,000. If you have a kid with asthma, that will be $4,000 a year. This is their healthcare bill—to charge people more who get sick. That is their healthcare bill.

Everything that is working under our healthcare system is being shredded by this bill. Take Planned Parenthood. These health centers serve millions of women and men across the country. They are not the problem, but this bill cuts funding to Planned Parenthood, which will cause many of these clinics to close.

I want you to think about how many people in this country are actually employed in the healthcare industry. When the Affordable Care Act started to kick in, research estimated that as many as half a million jobs were created. But if millions of people are to lose their insurance, that means that they will lose jobs. It means people can access healthcare, that means that we will have fewer doctors, nurses, and technicians. In other words, cuts to healthcare coverage are also cuts to American jobs.

I know that, in a lot of rural communities across Hawaii and across West Virginia and across the country, the community healthcare centers or the small rural hospitals are not just the centers of their communities in a social context or in a community context, but a lot of the time they are the economic drivers. So this will do great damage to rural America.

I end by making clear what this means for Americans and their healthcare. This is bad policy, plain and simple. It is bad if you live in a State like Ohio, whose health insurance rates have literally been changed because people now have access to prescription drugs or to a primary care provider under Medicaid. It is bad for people who buy their insurance through exchanges because their prices are going to go up. It is really bad for people with disabilities. This is not unusual. For whatever reason, people with disabilities are the first to be punished when the battle over healthcare comes up.

It is bad for people with preexisting conditions because States will no longer be required to protect their ability to get healthcare. This bill does not pass Senate Cassidy’s own Jimmy Kimmel test. That is why more than half a million doctors in the United States have come out as being opposed to this bill, because it will take healthcare away from the people who need it, who are sick, and who will not be able to get healthcare if the bill goes into law.

This may feel like the zombie bill we have killed several times already. I know it feels like that for me. I am sure that people thought this was over. We had that magnificent moment on the Senate floor when JOHN MCCAIN came over to the other side and did a thumbs down. I tell everybody back home that it is so rare that politics is just like the movies, but that night was just like the movies. JOHN MCCAIN saved healthcare for the American people with precision and a path toward regular order. What does “regular order” mean? I did not know what that phrase meant until I came to this institution. Regular order just means that the Senate understands that it has a spine, and takes its obligation to this nation, society—that we are the place in which we are supposed to handle tough issues.

Chairman McCAIN pricked our consciences as Senators. Forget Democracy. Forget Republicans and Conservatives. We are all here because we want to try to make a difference. So there we were with LAMAR ALEXANDER, the chairman of the Health, Education, Labor, and Pension Committee; PATTY MURRAY, the top Democrat on that committee. They were ready to work on a bipartisan basis. LAMAR had held hearings and, by all accounts, they had had tough negotiations and difficult challenges. Not as much as you would want or as quickly as you would want. That is the way legislating works. They are in a bipartisan process, and we show up here, and that process is in danger of being blown up.

This bill will also take away protections for people with preexisting conditions. Nothing will hold States back from allowing insurers to charge people with diabetes more or people with cancer more for their health insurance. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. MURPHY. Madam President, before the Senator leaves the floor, I just want to probe him for a moment on this reconciliation process.

Listen, this is an affront to the Senate—a bill that reorders one-fifth of the U.S. economy and that is being delivered to us days or weeks before we are to vote on it.

The Senate may have covered this, and if he did, he may just reiterate it for me.

My understanding is that there is not going to be a CBO score before this bill is before us. For the folks who do not know what that means, that means everyone who votes on this bill will have no clue as to how many people will lose insurance, how high premiums will go, or how much money their States will lose. I do not think that we are ever beyond, except of this scope and size without having an analysis from the CBO. My understanding is that, today, when you list or rank the affronts on the process involved in the debate over Graham-Cassidy, at the top of that list will be the fact that we are not going to see a CBO score.

Mr. SCHATZ. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Connecticut.

That is right. I would just point out that they are going to get the fiscal impact from the CBO in order to comply with the terms of reconciliation, but that is, actually, not what impacts the American people the most.

When you get a CBO score—and it is exactly right, what the Senator from Connecticut said—you find out what impact it has on your home State. You find out the number of Americans who are going to be harmed by this bill or helped by this bill. What we do know is that, basically, this contains elements of all the previous pieces of legislation. It combines all and puts them in a pile. So it is very hard for me to imagine, when they do come back with their analysis, that it will not be 20, 30, 50 million people who will lose healthcare.

The craziest thing about this is that these Republicans who will vote yes are going to vote yes and then find out 10 days later that 25 million people are going to lose their healthcare. Why they are beyond me, except that they have a deadline to deliver a win for the President. As near as I can tell, that is the only reason that they are in such a rush.

Mr. MURPHY. Madam President, if I may ask the Senator a follow-up question, we are in a different position today because, when we were taking these votes a month ago, there was only the faint talk of a bipartisan process to try to keep what works in the Affordable Care Act and fix what is not working.

It is another assault on the process, in my mind, and I ask for the Senator's thoughts on it. Literally, as we speak, Republicans and Democrats are talking to each other about the bipartisan bill that Americans in every State are begging for. Apparently, if this bill is going to be brought before the Senate, then that whole process was a fraud. It was a ruse to distract Democrats into thinking of a bipartisan fix. It was pulling one over on the American public to give the impression that, maybe, Republicans were interested in a bipartisan compromise.

Right now, there is a process playing out, and the trap for debate with no CBO score, then, that bipartisan process, which was really hopeful for a lot of Americans, I assume just falls apart; right?

Mr. SCHATZ. Madam President, I think the Senator is right. I agree with him.

I think that one of the most encouraging things over the last 5 weeks has been LAMAR ALEXANDER and PATTY MURRAY and their ability to work together. I mean, I told, I think, either of us that we were going to repeat and replace No Child Left Behind with 77 votes in the Senate, I would have said: I don’t know. That seems like it is going to get into some pretty difficult territory.

Yet what LAMAR and PATTY were able to do is to conduct hearings and bring us through a process by which we acted like a Senate, and we got all the votes. Now we have that process when it comes to healthcare, and I think some people feel deeply uncomfortable with empowering the chair men and women of this body. They feel deeply uncomfortable. They talk about the regular order, but they really just want to get their way on the floor.

I will just make one other point here. As people on the Republican side were justifying their “yes” votes in BCRA and whatever the other one was called before that, they were always talking about advancing the conversation and bringing us into a conference committee negotiation. Now, because September 30 is the deadline, there will be no negotiation. If Graham-Cassidy passes the Senate, it will pass the House, and it will be enacted into law. Nobody will get to hide behind: Well, this is not perfect, but I want to advance the conversation, and maybe we can fix this in the House or fix this in the conference committee.

This is the bill that gets voted on next week is the bill. Everybody owns it, and you own the fact that you don’t even know what it is going to do to your own constituents.

Mr. MURPHY. Madam President, I thank the Senator. I know it is late, and I thank him for staying on the floor for a few moments.

You do not know what it is going to do to your own constituents. We do not have a CBO score telling us how many people will lose coverage, how high premiums will go, and how much money we are spending, then redistributes it out to States, and it will simply not be enough—not nearly enough money—in order to cover the 20 million people who have insurance under the Affordable Care Act; many of those through Medicaid, others through the healthcare exchanges.

An early analysis by an outside group that is trying to help us understand what this means suggests that for my little State of Connecticut, it will be a $4 billion reduction in healthcare dollars from the Federal Government to the State of Connecticut. We are a State that doesn’t have a $20 billion annual budget. Four billion dollars means that we will either have to kick hundreds of thousands of people off of healthcare or we will have to dramatically raise our taxes.

So all of the reductions in insurance are in this bill. We will just have millions of people losing access to health insurance under this bill.

The specific, targeted harm to women is in this bill. Planned Parenthood is one of the country’s biggest providers of primary care and preventive healthcare services to women. I get that many Republicans have a problem with Planned Parenthood because they also provide abortion services, but the majority of their work is, in fact, providing basic preventive healthcare to women in this country.

My wife, when she was a low-income twenty-something, could only afford to get preventive healthcare through Planned Parenthood. That is where she went for her preventive healthcare, for her wellness checkups, and there are millions of women just like her. This bill is particularly cruel and particularly mean to all of the women in this country who need access to a Planned Parenthood clinic, may not be able to get quality, affordable, preventive healthcare.

This bill is perhaps the meanest, though, to individuals who are sick or individuals who have been sick before. At least in prior versions of TrumpCare that came before this body, there was at least a meager attempt to try to preserve protections for people with preexisting conditions. It wasn’t workable, but at least there was a face-saving gesture by Republicans and by the Trump administration to try to at least claim there was language to protect people with preexisting conditions.

Senator Cruz stood on this floor a few years ago during his long overnight filibuster. I sat in the chair listening to him explain how everyone knows, including him, that you cannot protect people with preexisting conditions without requiring, in some way, shape, or form, that healthy people buy coverage. Why is that? Let me walk you through it for a minute because it is not hard to understand, but it is really important to understand because people don’t like the individual mandate. They don’t understand it. Nobody likes to be required to do something, but you cannot protect people with preexisting conditions if you don’t require people to buy insurance.

The logic goes like this. If you say to insurance companies that you cannot charge people who are sick more than people who are not sick, if you say to an insurance company that you cannot charge someone with cancer more than someone who is healthy and you don’t require that healthy people buy insurance, what is the rational individual, in that case, says? Why would I buy health insurance while I am healthy? If I will not be charged anything more for it when I become sick, then there is no rational economic reason for me to be covered when I am healthy.

So what insurance companies tell you—what every insurance expert tells you—is, if you require insurance companies to charge the same between sick people and healthy people, then healthy people will not buy insurance. If I were advising someone, I am not sure I would buy insurance if they didn’t have to until they were sick. So the pools get so skewed with sick people and no healthy people that rates dramatically rise for everyone. Some estimates suggest that the rate increases would be 20 percent per year, compounding year after year after year.

In the last version of this bill, Republicans knew that so they included a version of the individual mandate in the real sick. It wasn’t the same mandate, but it was a mandate nonetheless. The mandate under the Affordable Care Act says that if you don’t buy insurance, you will pay a fee on your taxes.

What the Republican bill said—the version of TrumpCare that came very close to getting a vote on this floor—is that if you go without insurance, you will pay a penalty when you try to get back on it. The timing of the penalty was just different. Under the Affordable Care Act, you pay it when you lose insurance. Under the first version of TrumpCare, you would pay the penalty when you try to get back on insurance. It is a mandate. It is a penalty. It is just in a different place.

Republicans did that because they knew that was the only way to require States or give States the option to continue to require insurance companies to treat sick people the same as healthy people.

So why am I talking about this? Because in Graham-Cassidy, the individual mandate is totally gone—gone—replaced with a tax. The individual mandate is totally gone—gone—replaced with a tax. Even though it says that States, if they wanted to, could preserve protections for people with preexisting conditions, States did not do that because the Federal Government does not require healthy people to have insurance. If you think that States are going to reimpose an individual mandate, A, there will be some real question as to whether they can do that, and, B, they will not. They will not because that issue has become, thanks to my Republican friends, so politically toxic around the country.

You will be left with massive discriminatory treatment of people with preexisting conditions, and nowhere for States to go because Medicaid dollars are capped going for... over the million dollar mark. I would have lost our house easily, quickly. I am a single mom. Medicaid helps keep my son alive and healthy, and it has given me my best friend to love and watch grow up. Medicaid helps a boy live a normal life. Where we would have never thought that it would be possible, Medicaid lets a boy with half a heart be on a baseball team with his friends, a best friend.

This is not hyperbole. This isn’t a game. It is not about scoring political points just because you made a promise that you were going to repeal the Affordable Care Act in the first year that you were in this body. This is about this little boy who lives in a State that had the wisdom, on a bipartisan basis, to expand Medicaid.

Ohio would be one of the biggest losers from withdrawal of billions of dollars away from Ohio’s healthcare system, simply to fulfill a political promise Republicans made. We are not making this up. We are not trying to tug your heartstrings just for our own political purposes. Kids are going to die if they don’t have access to healthcare. If 20 million people lose insurance, as may be the case under this legislation, thousands of people will not be able to survive. That is $1 million of care. I can guarantee you that this single parent’s home is not worth $1 million. At some point you just stop being able to provide the care necessary to keep people alive.

Republicans are treating this as if it is a game, talking about taking a vote next week when no one in this country has looked at this legislation. Not a single townhall has been held in which your constituents can weigh in. No Member of this body will have looked at an analysis by the Congressional Budget Office to know what its impact is. This bill will be rammed through in the dead of night, I guarantee you, without any input from people like Deacon’s family.

This is the meanest version of TrumpCare yet, in part because of what is in it, in part because of the butchered process, but in part because Deacon’s family will not get to come down here and talk to you about it because you are going to rush it through next week, if reports are to be believed.

What a great trick Republicans will have pulled on this country. Everyone said that this bill was dead. But we were going to move on to a bipartisan process in the HELP Committee, that the Senate was going to move on to another issue of tax reform. What a great head fake that would be if it were all a lie, if it were all a ruse just to be able to give cover for Republicans to quietly muster support for another devastating assault on America’s healthcare while Democrats were looking hopefully at a bipartisan process playing out in the HELP Committee that was never intended to result in an outcome.

I hope that is not the case. I really do. I have put enormous faith and trust in Senator ALEXANDER. Admittedly, I gave him a very hard time over the course of the first 6 months of this year because I could not understand what the point was of being on the HELP Committee if we weren’t going to debate a reordering of one-fifth of the economy: the healthcare system. Why be a member of the HELP Committee if the biggest reform to the healthcare system during my tenure in the Senate wasn’t going to be debated in the HELP Committee? I thought that was an abomination.

I have been very pleased that in the last 2 weeks Senator ALEXANDER has convened a bipartisan process, which I have invested in. I have shown up to all of those hearings. I have talked to him over and over again on the floor of the Senate and in these committee meetings. I have offered constructive suggestions about how we can come up with a bipartisan fix to the parts of the Affordable Care Act that aren’t working as well as escalating the parts that are working. As I sit here today, I hope and I pray this wasn’t all one big ruse to distract me and the Democratic Members of the Senate while Republicans quietly worked on building support for the meanest version of TrumpCare yet. That would be a deceit, and I hope it is not going to be the case.

This isn’t a game. People are going to be really, terribly, badly hurt if this bill becomes law. I don’t even know what the effects will be because we don’t have the analysis. We don’t have a score. I can guess. But I have never been part of anything like this in my 20 years of public service. I have never seen a group of public officials so hellbent on achieving a political goal as to throw out decades of precedent on how this body has normally worked on major pieces of legislation, shown such casual disregard for good, old-fashioned nonpartisan analysis as is happening if this bill comes to the floor without a CBO score.

We can do something together. We can continue the work of the HELP Committee to pass a truly bipartisan product that admittedly would just be a start, that could involve real compromise on both sides. Republicans could compromise by saying: We know we need to have some stability in these healthcare exchanges, and, thus, we are going to do what President Trump can’t take away payments from insurers or threaten to take them away on a month-to-month basis. Democrats can recognize that Republicans want flexibility in these exchanges—want the ability for States to do a little bit more innovation, whether it be with benefit design or reinsurance pools. We can both give, and we can get a product that would build trust between both sides, that might allow us to do something bigger later on.

I have no idea whether Deacon’s family is Republican or Democrat. I have no idea whether his single mother—who is so deeply fearful today of what Republicans are about to do to her and her child, her best friend, her 10-year-old son—voted for Donald Trump or voted for Hillary Clinton. When it hits you—when that heart defect or that schizophrenia or that heroin addiction or that lung cancer strikes you, it doesn’t discriminate as to whether you are a Democrat or Republican. It hits you hard no matter who you voted for.

That is why, when we go back home— I know what Republicans hear because I hear it in Connecticut. They want us to work together, and I am tired of healthcare being a political football that just gets tossed from one party to the other. We used it to bludgeon Republicans, and Republicans used it to bludgeon us, and we used it to bludgeon you, back and forth, and back and forth.

We are on the verge of passing a bill, getting a bill out of the HELP Committee that might begin to end the use of healthcare as a simple political bludgeon. That is what our constituencies want. We are not going to have time to get any public polling on this because no one is going to be able to understand it by next week, but I will guarantee you, it will poll at the same rate that previous versions of TrumpCare have polled—in the teens and the twenties, with base Trump voters being the only folks who support it. That is because people have gotten hip to what is in here. They don’t actually think it is a good idea to take away healthcare from tens of millions of Americans, but they also don’t like the fact that this has been done behind closed doors. This has been done with Republicans only. They want this debate to occur in the open.

Whether they are Republican or Democrat, they want both sides to be a part of it, and we are closer to that reality than ever before. Pulling the rug out from under the bipartisan process is not the meanest or cruelest part, but it is pretty high on the list. Think about Deacon. Think about the tens of thousands of little boys and girls like Deacon who live in your State. Don’t do this to the people of America. Don’t do this to the U.S. Senate. Don’t break this place beyond recognition by ramming this through without any process or without any CBO score next week. Let this bipartisan process play out. Let us build some good faith together. That is what the American people want, and that is what the American healthcare system needs.

I yield the floor.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M.

TOMORROW
EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

HONORING MARCELLA BARNES
OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask the House of Representatives to join me in recognizing the achievements of Marcella Barnes, the CEO and founder of Pink Hardhat Construction, LLC.

Ms. Barnes, who was raised in New York, began her career immediately after she graduated from high school and went on to attend college in California. Once she moved to California, she had a dream to enlist in the military and make a difference in people’s lives. Upon enlisting, she was then stationed in Maryland, which is also where she opened her first business, Pink Hardhat Construction, LLC. However, once her construction business started to gain traction, Ms. Barnes also noticed a need for providing housing to homeless veterans. As a veteran herself, she recognized and understood the challenges that homeless veterans face in obtaining quality, affordable housing. Ms. Barnes decided to do something about it and opened another business, Our Pink Doors, LLC, which provides shelter for homeless veterans. On July 9, 2017, she held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the grand opening of her first veterans’ home.

Ms. Barnes is also a member of the National Congress of Black Women and the Maryland Minority Contractors Association. Therefore, I ask the House of Representatives to join me in recognizing Marcella Barnes for her work.

INTRODUCTION OF THE SAFE COMMUNITIES ACT OF 2017

HON. EARL BLUMENAUER
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, more than 10 years ago, following Hurricane Katrina, then-Rep. Curt Weldon and I introduced the bipartisan Safe Communities Act. Today, with wildfires burning in my state and Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, and José ravaging the Southeast, the ability to prepare for, withstand, and quickly recover from disasters is an essential component of livable communities. That’s why I am reintroducing the Safe Communities Act, which will give state and local governments the tools to help them plan for and reduce the impact of these events.

Federal investments in natural disasters should include prevention and mitigation as well as response and recovery. In fact, investment in prevention can save money in the long-term. Research by an independent group of experts in 2005 found that every dollar invested in actions to reduce disaster losses saves the nation about $4 in future costs. We all agree that by planning for the future communities can help prevent damage and save money, but rarely do we do it.

The Safe Communities Act will create a new grant program to support state, local and regional planning activities aimed at reducing threats posed by natural and human-caused disasters. Grant-eligible projects under this program include comprehensive risk assessments and inventories of critical infrastructure, land-use planning for natural hazards and terrorism security, updates to building codes and development of new urban design techniques for risk-reduction. The bill will also create a research program to investigate the best practices in comprehensive land use and community planning aimed at reducing threats posed by natural hazards and acts of terror.

The number of people who live in harm’s way is expanding dramatically, and more properties and more lives are at risk from both natural and human-caused disasters. The associated increases in rising disaster recovery costs impact us all. I look forward to working with my colleagues to ensure communities have the resources they need to help prepare for future natural disasters.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. BUCHANAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Fire and Rescue and EMS personnel who have provided distinguished service to the people of Florida’s 16th Congressional District.

As first responders, fire departments and emergency medical service teams are summoned on short notice to serve their respective communities. Oftentimes, they arrive at scenes of great adversity and trauma, to which they reliably bring strength and composure. These brave men and women spend hundreds of hours in training so that they are prepared when they get “the call.”

In 2012, I established the 16th District Congressional Fire and Rescue and EMS Awards to honor officers, departments, and units for outstanding achievement.

On behalf of the people of Florida’s 16th District, it is my privilege to congratulate the following winners, who were selected this year by an independent committee comprised of a cross section of current and retired Fire and Rescue personnel living in the district: Manatee County Community Paramedic Program was chosen to receive the Congressional Unit Citation Award; Training Officer Christopher Stark of the Hillsborough County Fire Rescue was chosen to receive the Congressional Dedication and Professionalism Award; Chief Dennis Jones of the Hillsborough County Fire Rescue was chosen to receive the Congressional Career Service Award; and Division Chief-Fire Marshal Tammy Zuria was chosen to receive the Congressional Dedication and Professionalism Award.

CONGRATULATING THE MISSOURI ASSOCIATION OF STUDENT FINANCIAL AID PERSONNEL

HON. BLAINE LUETKEMEYER
OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. LUETKEMEYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Missouri Association of Student Financial Aid Personnel (MASFAP) on their 50th Anniversary on November 7, 2017. The Missouri Association of Student Financial Aid was founded on April 3, 1967, starting with a steering committee of only five members. Today, MASFAP has grown to include 83 schools and 790 members. This anniversary will provide an opportunity to recognize their continued partnerships and highlight the need for affordable post-secondary education.
Since its founding, the MASFAP has and continues to be a dynamic association dedicated to serving and advocating for practitioners, users, and providers of student financial aid programs. Many students depend on financial aid programs to assist them through their post-secondary education, providing many with the means to continue their education. Missouri is home to many institutions of post-secondary education that serve students from Missouri and abroad. Obtaining a higher education opens doors for students, develops their individual skills and knowledge, and makes them invaluable resources to our communities, state, and nation.

MASFAP is ready and willing to assist students who need help or information. The financial aid programs provided to students assist with tuition, fees, housing, food, books and supplies, transportation and personal expenses. Additionally, millions of dollars in grants, scholarships, and student loans allow students to continue pursuing their professional goals.

Every day, student financial aid administrators throughout Missouri do their best to assist students in identifying the resources and options they have regarding the cost of their education. These administrators work at removing barriers so students can be successful in choosing the appropriate assistance program. The dedication these administrators show for the students and their future is appreciated.

I ask you to join me in recognizing the Missouri Association of Student Financial Aid Personnel on their 50th Anniversary Celebration.

HONORING MARY “EDITH” LOCKARD

HON. ELIOT L. ENGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, communities thrive when hard work, dedication, and sacrifice are set as the example of its residents. In Yonkers, no one has set that example better than Mary “Edith” Lockard.

Edith was born in Yonkers in 1924 to Andrew and Mary Lena Deloatch. She was the youngest of 6 and the only girl. After graduating from Yonkers High School, Edith earned her Associates Degree in Early Childhood Development from Pace University.

Edith has been the life-blood of Messiah Baptist Church for over 76 years. In April of 1940 she was baptized on Easter Sunday at the church, and has remained an active member serving the parish in any capacity needed.

Following high school, Edith focused on raising her family with her husband, Wilfred Lockard. She got involved volunteering in the Yonkers school district and eventually served as the Vice President of the Parents Teachers Association (PTA). She also served at the South Yonkers Youth Council, an organization dedicated to fostering growth and development for the youth in the community through after school care and activities. They also held summer day camps which exposed the youth to cultural and sporting events, positive role models, and educational opportunities.

After her beloved husband Wilfred passed away, Edith began volunteering at St. John’s Hospital. She faithfully served in the mailroom on Thursdays from 1995 to 2001. In 1995 she also became a member of the Nepperhan Senior Center—Senior Group No. 15—located on Warburton Avenue. For over a decade, Edith has faithfully worked for the Yonkers Parks and Recreation.

For as long as I can remember, Edith has been a dynamic and vibrant part of the Yonkers community. Her true passion has always been her family. She is the proud mother of her four children: Juanita, Tyrone, Lindsay, and Lila, she has eight grandchildren, seven great grandchildren, and, remarkably, 9 great-great grandchildren.

Edith’s commitment to helping others has been an inspiration to those in her community and beyond. I want to congratulate Edith for all of her hard, selfless work, and I want to wish her a very happy 93rd birthday on September 9, 2017.

BERT HACK
HON. MIMI WALTERS OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mrs. MIMI WALTERS of California. Mr. Speaker, on March 24, 1999, Laguna Woods, California officially became Orange County’s 32nd city.

A great deal has changed in the last 18 years, but Laguna Woods Councilman Bert Hack has remained a constant in our community.

Since taking office in 1999, Bert served as Mayor five times and sat on numerous boards throughout Southern California. Bert’s deep knowledge of local history and passion for service to others has made him a beloved fixture in Laguna Woods.

Bert’s presence on the City Council will surely be missed, but he will undoubtedly continue to serve as an inspiration for all who follow in his footsteps.

I wish Bert well in retirement, and thank him for his many years of service to Laguna Woods and Orange County.

HONORING SADIE M. MACCHIA
HON. LEE M. ZELDIN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. ZELDIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Sadie Macchia, who celebrated her 100th birthday on July 6th.

Born on July 6, 1917, in the Bronx, New York, Sadie came into this world with a remarkably low birth weight, and was the surviving child of a set of twins, the other of whom was born prematurely and sadly passed away shortly afterward. Sadie was so small that her mother used a shoebox as a cradle, and could not even properly wear a bonnet.

With such a low birthweight, her chances for survival seemed slim. Yet, with incredible strength, this miracle baby pulled through in infancy and is still here with us today, 100 years later.

As an adult, Sadie spent many years working as a seamstress in the Bronx while living in her own apartment above her brother, Dominick, and his wife, Angelina. In those days, Sadie was renowned for her hospitality and insatiable laughter, always happy to have friends and family over to share a meal, reminisce over old photos, or simply spend time with those dearest to her. A kind and generous soul, she is truly loved by all who know her.

To commemorate her 100th birthday, two of her brothers, Guy and Nick, threw her a birthday party where she was able to celebrate with her extended family. The look on her face to see so many loved ones gathered together to celebrate her birthday was said to be that of pure joy.

This miracle baby fought all the odds and is now one of America’s great centenarians. It is a privilege to honor Sadie Macchia, who has brought joy and laughter into the hearts of so many others.

REMARKS BY STEPHEN W. CAMP OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to include in the Record remarks made at the Reverend Stephen W. Camp, M.Div., Senior Pastor, Faith Congregational Church of Hartford, CT on August 23, 2017.

The Reverend Stephen W. Camp, M.Div., Senior Pastor, Faith Congregational Church of Hartford, CT

"The prophetic voice Maya Angelou once said, 'I've learned that people will forget what you have said; people will forget what you did but people will never forget how you made them feel.'

America was sent a message recently, a message that America rarely feels as deeply. As America unfolds a new chapter in the little sleepy college town in Virginia, it was forced to feel, the kind of feeling that one never forgets. It was reminiscent of Selma and "Bloody Sunday." It brought to mind Birmingham with the dog catchers and the television, as they boldly marched, unhooded this time, khaki wearing white men, with their contorted angry faces, and carrying tiki torches, trying it seemed to desperately symbolize their power, their might, but only succeeded in instilling that the scab and memory of historic oppression, failing to offer even a flickering of light, and of peace. We watched with sadness while they shouted hateful words and embodied a most detestable part of the American mosaic, frankly, only making many of us remember and feel the acute sickness that is still a part of America. For those who marched with counter intent, with "never again" etched upon their hearts, with "non-violent direct action" embedded in their spirit, many of them young people who have gotten the lessons that many of us who are older have tried to teach. So many counteracted and confronted, they stood tall and whether we liked it or not, they stood their ground and they gave hope that one day the pain would give way to promise.

We can take heart, because through them we knew that we shall indeed, overcome. But dearly, we have not yet reached that Promised Land. We have not yet fully embraced the place that Dr. King and Rabbi Heschel who marched arm in arm tried to show and to teach us. We haven't yet felt how Malcom who epitomized both the hope and the worry of the movement for justice, worry that integrity in the movement would be comprised given the times they were in, yet united with a yearning to taste real freedom for all. Of all. Of all of them understood that justice had a cost attached to it. However, we still haven't learned yet, how to include all the voices, sit with all the pain, open and feel all of the diverse ways we are together, but there is hope shining through, maybe given the Boston event, that we will get there. The beloved community will one day be! Think of the blueprint that was left to us, the light that was given and passed to us, as they each in their own ways, gave their lives to pass on to us, a real hope for a better tomorrow.

What I guess Charlottesville has challenged me to do, is to keep singing songs of justice, keep speaking words of peace. The challenge is to sing a new song in this often strange land, this place where America is still striving to form a more perfect union, this place where free speech should always be celebrated, must always be protected, but never allowed by any to be abused. We are called to sing together the words of peace, the words of hope, sing so as to feel that hope and that peace until it is never forgotten, until it is felt that no one is left behind without voice or value.

So we come together again, gathered by the many ways God gathers us, we come together to sing even when we may not feel like singing, sing even though the words may not always be dear to us or the language understood by everyone is not plain. We come together to share words of peace, even when it seems the world is bent upon acts of violent expression. We come together knowing that without love and hope we perish, so we hope, we believe and work for a better day.

Maya Angelou was right, people will never forget what you have said; people will forget what you did but people will never forget how you made them feel once again.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably detained and so I missed Roll Call vote number 485 regarding "On Motion to Suspend the Rules" (H.R. 2611). Had I been present, I would have voted "Yes".

Ms. DE LAURO. Mr. Speaker, on September 11, 2001, our nation was challenged. It was a time when free speech should always be protected, but never allowed by any to be abused. We are called to sing together the words of peace, the words of hope, sing so as to feel that hope and that peace until it is never forgotten, until it is felt that no one is left behind without voice or value.

So we come together again, gathered by the many ways God gathers us, we come together to sing even when we may not feel like singing, sing even though the words may not always be dear to us or the language understood by everyone is not plain. We come together to share words of peace, even when it seems the world is bent upon acts of violent expression. We come together knowing that without love and hope we perish, so we hope, we believe and work for a better day.

Maya Angelou was right, people will never forget what you have said; people will forget what you did but people will never forget how you made them feel once again.

Ms. SINEMA. Mr. Speaker, I missed the vote on Roll Call vote number 516. I would have voted "Yes".

DESIGNATION OF MAPLE VALLEY,
WASHINGTON AS A PURPLE HEART CITY

HON. DAVID G. REICHERT
OF WASHINGTON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. REICHERT. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the City of Maple Valley, in light of its designation as a Purple Heart City. The City of Maple Valley will be the first in Washington's Eighth Congressional District to become a Purple Heart, as well as the third city in the State of Washington. Additionally, the designation falls on the anniversary of 9/11, an event that will forever be seen in our hearts as a symbol of strength, hope, and freedom.

The Purple Heart is awarded to wounded members of the armed forces of the United States as a combat decoration for their commitment to our great country. As you visit the City of Maple Valley, you will find a road sign explaining the Purple Heart significance, which reminds all those visiting, of the sacrifice made for a just and free civilization. Furthermore, I would like to also thank the Boy Scout Troop 711 for building the display case for the plaques and other Purple Heart memorabilia, for the public to observe, learn and enjoy.

I thank the City of Maple Valley for its dedication to our armed forces who've sacrificed their lives for ours. The City of Maple Valley only be known as a beautiful place for wilderness, recreation and to raise a family; but one as an allegiance to our public servants.

Ms. Velázquez. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Gouverneur Health and its dedicated professional staff and volunteers for the critical work they are doing for patients and families in New York City.

Gouverneur Health is a Medicare and Medicaid certified center. It is one of the largest institutions in Lower Manhattan, and the largest freestanding ambulatory care center in New York State.

Gouverneur Health has taken care of the ever-changing population of the Lower East Side for more than a century. Gouverneur’s dedicated and professional staff removes barriers caused by language, culture and income, enabling patients to make informed decisions vital to their physical, mental and social well-being.

With Gouverneur’s help, our neighbors receive important disease prevention information and screenings to ensure a healthy future for children and hard-working families. These important services have grown and evolved over the past century, proving that the hospital is responsive to the needs of the community.

As they celebrate 132 years of tremendous work, I am confident that NYC Health + Hospitals Gouverneur will continue to build on its history of service and find many more years of success.

Honoring Angelo R. Martinelli
Of New York
In the House of Representatives
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. Engel. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor my friend and former colleague in government, Angelo R. Martinelli, who has done so much to strengthen and promote the Yonkers community and beyond.

Though known as a Yonkers staple, Angelo was actually born in the Bronx and grew up in Mamaroneck. After graduating from high school, he enlisted in the United States Army and was honorably discharged in 1946 with the rank of Sergeant.

Upon returning home, Angelo worked in the family business, The Yonkers Daily News, and in 1948 he bought the Gazette Press, the oldest printing firm in Westchester County.

In 1973, Angelo was elected Mayor of the City of Yonkers. He served from 1974 to 1979 and again from 1982 to 1987, making him the longest-tenured mayor of Yonkers. During his career, Angelo held a number of other offices and positions in national and state organizations, which earned him a reputation as an effective and forceful advocate for municipal government interests, especially in the areas of senior-citizen and anti-crime programs.

In addition, Angelo has served on the Board of Directors of the Yonkers Police Athletic League since 1991 and as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Yonkers Chamber of Commerce for 22 years. In 1976, he was one of the founding members of the Untermyer Performing Arts Council. He previously served on the Board of St. Joseph’s Medical Center and was Chairman of the Advisory Board of St. Patrick’s Home for the Aged and Infirm. He was also the President of the Queen’s Daughters Day Care Center, and, in January 1984, Mercy College conferred upon him an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters.

Angelo has always been a passionate man when it comes to public service, but his greatest passion and love always belonged to his family. He was married to his beloved late wife, Carol, for 65 years. Together their family grew to include their six sons, five daughters-in-law, twelve grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. In 2016, Angelo once again demonstrated his commitment and love for the City of Yonkers, by donating the funds to restore the Temple of Love at the historic Untermyer Gardens in memory of his late wife, Carol. The donation served as a beautiful tribute to both his city and the amazing woman he loved.

It is truly an honor to have a friend like Angelo, just as it is an honor for me to recognize him today. I thank Angelo for his years of service to our community. Yonkers is surely a better place for all he has done on its behalf.

Department of the Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2018

Mr. Courtney. Mr. Chair, I rise in support of my amendment numbered 86 to Division C of H.R. 3354 printed in House Report 115–297 for other purposes:

The House in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 3354) making appropriations for the Department of the Interior, environment, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2018, and for other purposes:

Mr. Courtney. Mr. Chair, I rise in support of my amendment numbered 86 to Division C of H.R. 3354 printed in House Report 115–297 to direct the National Institute of Standards and Technology to establish standards for acceptable levels of pyrrhotite in concrete aggregate, and to continue providing technical assistance to those interested in pyrrhotite detection, prevention, and mitigation tools.

Pyrrhotite is a rare natural mineral that has been found in higher than normal concentrations in stone aggregate used in concrete for poured for residential foundations in northern Connecticut and Massachusetts. Over time, pyrrhotite oxidizes, expanding within the foundation and causing the foundation wall to bow and crack. Severe cracking weakens the foundation to the point of collapse over a period of 10–15 years, and potentially thousands of homeowners in the region could see their homes collapse.

By establishing standards for pyrrhotite content, NIST could prevent a similar problem from occurring in residential buildings in other areas. In addition, providing technical assistance to those already affected by this problem will help establish best practices for mitigation of pyrrhotite-related damage. I look forward to continuing to work with the Appropriations Committee and the agency on this important issue, and I urge the adoption of my amendment.

Honoring Barbara Grimm-Marshall and Kari Grimm-Anderson for Their Dedicated Community Involvement

Hon. Kevin McCarthy
Of California
In the House of Representatives
Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. McCarthy. Mr. Speaker, I rise today and am joined by my colleague from California, Mr. Valadao, to recognize two outstanding leaders in our community: Barbara Grimm-Marshall and Kari Grimm-Anderson. Throughout the years, Barbara and Kari have been deeply involved in our community and it comes as no surprise they have each been named by the Kern County Fair as 2017 Person of the Year.

Every year, the Kern County Fair attracts families from all over the Central Valley to partake in the unique festivities ranging from the Great American Duck Race to the highly-competitive 4-H livestock show. However, we also take time to acknowledge and pay tribute to individuals who have improved our community with the Person of the Year award.

While Barbara and Kari may be known for their leadership roles with the world’s largest cattle operation through their family owned farm, Grimmway Enterprises, Inc., they have each played an integral part in the betterment of our community. Notably, in 1998, Grimmway Enterprises created a college scholarship program for the children of their employees that has provided access to higher education through more than 300 college scholarships.

Through their philanthropic endeavors, Barbara and Kari have been instrumental in helping students in rural regions of the Central Valley prepare for college, while also working to address the increasing prevalence of childhood diabetes and obesity through various programs and outreach efforts.

Barbara founded and currently serves as the CEO of the Grimm Family Education Foundation and has worked tirelessly to establish rural charter schools throughout Kern County to ensure students have access to a world-class education. In August 2011, the Foundation opened the Grimmway Academy in Arvin, California, enrolling more than 280 students Kindergarten through third grade. Today, the Academy has two campuses, one in Arvin and the other in Shafter, with total enrollment surpassing 1,200 students for the 2017–2018 school year. Additionally, the Foundation recently opened the Buena Vista Edible Schoolyard, dedicated to exposing students to the many facets of agricultural and environmental stewardship in the region.

Kari is widely known for her insight and contributions to a number of civic-minded groups, including the Board of Directors for the Junior League of Bakersfield and the Board of Regents at California University, Irvine. Similarly, Barbara has facilitated her time serving on various boards, such as the Lori Brock Children’s Museum, St. John’s Lutheran Church, the California State University...
Foundation, the Regents of Concordia University, and the Board of Directors of Tejon Ranch, among others.

The selfless efforts of Barbara and Kari have impacted so many and both have set an exceptional example for all of us to follow as we work to improve our community. Through investing in education to providing resources to those less fortunate, Barbara and Kari are steadfast in their vision and commitment to helping others. We congratulate Barbara and Kari for jointly being named the 2017 Kern County Person of the Year and commend them for their tireless service, work, and vision for our community. We look forward to witnessing their continued efforts that touch the hearts of so many.

HONORING THE SERVICE OF CRAIG ANDERSON

HON. JARED HUFFMAN OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Craig Anderson and his 20 years of active stewardship as the Executive Director of LandPaths, a non-profit organization in Sonoma County that has become a national innovator in land conservation practices under his leadership.

Craig Anderson’s career has consistently engaged his dual passions of land conservation and stewardship, by extending to his next role as the Executive Director of LandPaths, a position he took on in 1997, and continues to hold to this day.

As the Executive Director of LandPaths, Mr. Anderson has grown the organization from a single staff member working out of his apartment to a staff of 15. Pushing the organization’s mission of connecting people to nature, Mr. Anderson successfully spearheaded the agency’s efforts to create nature preserves with public access. LandPaths has created five such preserves throughout Sonoma County as a result of his leadership to date. In addition to these efforts, Mr. Anderson led the development of the award winning Bayer-Farm Park & community garden, which has now been held up as a model for expanding green spaces in urban areas. Because of his foresight in developing local preserves and community gardens, LandPaths has also been able to create student and community stewardship programs that use these properties to ensure the commitment to environmental conservation and land use practices.

Beyond the local impact of Mr. Anderson’s leadership, he has also been recognized on a national level for his innovative practices and stewardship programs. Mr. Speaker, please join me in expressing deep appreciation for Craig Anderson’s extraordinary leadership in the field of land use, conservation and stewardship, by extending to him congratulations on his two decades of service.

SUPPORTING THE LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

HON. DAVID G. REICHERT

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. REICHERT. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Legal Services Corporation and its important work across the country in facilitating civil legal aid for those in need. Civil legal aid is one of the most effective strategies for helping victims of domestic violence and that is why our federal government must make a strong investment in the Legal Services Corporation (LSC), which administers federal funding for civil legal aid.

From my own experience in law enforcement, I know all too well that unlike people who commit crimes, victims do not always have the same opportunity for an attorney. For a low-income individual in need of help with a civil legal issue, paying expensive legal fees for an attorney is not an option. And for people who are in abusive relationships, the thought of navigating the legal system alone can often be what keeps them from leaving their abuser.

Research shows that providing an attorney can reduce the number of domestic violence victims by as much as 21 percent. A 2015 study out of King County, WA, where I was the Sheriff, found that when survivors received legal representation they were 85 percent more likely to have child visitation rights denied to the abusive parent, 77 percent more likely to have restrictions placed on the abusive parent’s child visitation, and 47 percent more likely to have treatment ordered for the abusive parent.

Our great nation was founded on the principle of justice for all, not just for those who can afford it. When low-income families and survivors of domestic violence are forced to face the justice system on their own, it is a failure of our society. As the appropriations process moves forward, I urge you to support and strengthen funding for the Legal Services Corporation.

RECOGNIZING MARK GOTTO

HON. MIKE COFFMAN

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 18, 2017

Mr. COFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my appreciation to Mark Gott, Centennial City Council Member for District 3 Mark Gott, for his many years of hard work and dedication to the City of Centennial. Council Member Gott’s leadership and vision has, amongst other accomplishments, contributed to the City of Centennial’s reputation as one of the best in Colorado.

Council Member Gott has consistently and effectively guided the City of Centennial towards a more business-friendly atmosphere that increases growth and the quality of life. He has continually provided his guidance and leadership as the City Council Liaison to a variety of different boards and committees, such as the Centennial Budget Committee, the Southgate Water and Sanitation District, and the Arapahoe Library District Board of Trustees.

Outside of his service on the Centennial City Council, Council Member Gott has also dedicated his time making our community and the State of Colorado a better place. He continues to volunteer at the Children’s Hospital of Colorado on the Anschutz Medical Campus and ensures that the Centennial City Council does not pass any resolution that would negatively affect the aging population in his city.

Mr. Speaker, City Council Member Mark Gott represents the very best the State of Colorado and our nation has to offer in public service. I offer my sincere appreciation for his unwavering dedication to public service, and I wish him the very best of luck as he leaves the Centennial City Council and moves on to future endeavors.

HONORING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SMITHSONIAN’S ANACOSTIA COMMUNITY MUSEUM

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON

OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 18, 2017

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask the House of Representatives to join me in honoring the 50th Anniversary of the Smithsonian’s Anacostia Community Museum.

The Anacostia Community Museum, which opened in 1967, has been a staple of the District of Columbia community. Not only has the museum served as a major cultural institution, including in highlighting the important contributions made by African Americans to D.C. and the nation, but it has also served as a pillar of educational enrichment and achievement through its Museum Academy Program. In addition, the museum’s Citizen Scientist Program brings high school students and Smithsonian educators, as well as scientists, together to engage in environmental stewardship and learn more about science, technology, engineering and mathematics initiatives.

The museum also continues to be a dominant force in terms of community engagement, creating a hands-on children’s room and a youth advisory council. Additionally, the museum works on a number of events and programs that focus on community restoration within Anacostia. For example, the museum recently hosted a community forum with the National Park Service to illustrate the importance of volunteering within one’s community and also partnered with WTTG Fox 5 to allow visitors to participate in an urban gardening project.

Aside from its community engagement and restoration, the Anacostia Community Museum showcases various exhibits that focus on the different issues that impact urban communities, both in D.C. and nationwide. Specifically, the museum works with D.C. residents, artists, community activists, scholars, local officials and other outside organizations to cultivate carefully crafted exhibits that challenge... museum visitors to think critically and enhance their museum experience.

Therefore, I ask the House of Representatives to join me in honoring the Anacostia Community Museum, an institution that continues to remain at the forefront of addressing social and political issues that affect individuals in D.C. and the nation, as it celebrates its 50th Anniversary.

CELEBRATING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF JONATHAN WILLIAMS PLAZA

HON. NYDIA M. VELÁZQUEZ
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, September 18, 2017

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Jonathan Williams Plaza, a New York City Public Housing Authority (NYCHA) development located in my district in Williamsburg, Brooklyn. This complex is home to more than 1,340 residents. Built at the height of the Civil Rights movement, and three decades after the New Deal and the 1934 Federal Housing Act, Williams Plaza's towering buildings have long symbolized innovation and hope.

Williams Plaza has provided a sound foundation and pathway to self-sufficiency for thousands of its residents. The stability it provides families is what helped launch the educational achievement and careers of former public housing residents like U.S. Supreme Court Sonia Sotomayor.

Williams Plaza provides meaningful support and services for its residents. Under NYCHA’s Family Partnerships initiative, residents are able to connect to critical resources that help support family stability and tenancy. It offers job training opportunities, on-site afterschool partnership and accessible childcare in addition to NYCHA’s city-wide network of social services.

On this special 50th year celebration, I also would like to recognize the Jonathan Williams Plaza Tenant Association for their volunteerism. The community service they provide improves the quality of life for their neighbors and surrounding community. They are a valuable asset to NYCHA and the resident stakeholders. I also want to recognize Mr. Juan Bello, Housing Manager and his team for their unwavering dedication to residents. I salute the following:

Mr. Joel Gross—Tenant Association President
Ben Zion Weiss—Vice-President
Abraham Frankel—Treasurer
Joanne Sanchez—Corresponding Secretary
Joel Schwartz—Secretary
Louise Sanon—Sergeant At Arms
Housing Manager—Mr. Juan Bello
Superintendent—Marian Polowczyk
